* All workingmen who are watchful of their interests will cheerfully patronize firms and business men who advertise in their favorite paper. In bestowing your trade upon the liberal minded merchants, who seek your custom through the columns of THE TRADES UNIONIST, you are not likely to make mistakes which accrue to the benefit of your encies.

A New Volume.

With this issue THE TRADES UNION-IST starts volume V, No. 1.

This fact is remarkable. The usual life of a labor paper ranges from one to two years, and that one lives longer speaks well for it. THE TRADES Unionist has had its trials and tribulations with the rest, and has been able to pull through, and is to-day in better condition than ever before.

The management asks for the support of organized labor and the general public and promises to do its best to make the paper better and to merit the support of all.

We thank our friends for the many words of cheer and congratulation.

FLAG DAY-JUNE 14.

The flag of this nation was proudly unfurled One hundred or more years ago, When back from Columbia the tyrant was hurled Who fled from our bright sunny shore

Since then it has floated in sunshine and storm, The emblem of freedom and peace

The fancy of freemen doth please.

When followed by heroes of old, Who faltered not e'en at the Delaware's freeze. But braved the dark night with its cold.

The flag that inspired famed Francis Scott Key When he saw by the "dawn's early light With its stars and stripes ever in sight.

Oh long may our loved banner wave. When dire secession once troubled the land And enemies threatened its life Again 'twas unfurled to the breeze, ever grand,

The flag that Columbia invoked once again To succor a down-trodden race, So cruelly governed by insolent Spain With honor it soon took its place.

And came out victorious in strife.

Who battled for what they thought right. Whose honor and valor a beacon alway Shines on in the day and by night.

O long may it wave o'er the North and the South,

The Bridge 'and Structural Iron Workers' Union No. 8300, submitted the scale of wages and hours adopted by that organization, which were indorsed by the Council.

The terms required by the union is a wage of $2.75 for a day of eight hours; time and one-half for over time and double time for Sundays and holidays. This scale and an agreement will be submitted to a prominent firm of the city by a committee of the Council and a report will be made thereon at the next meeting.

It was decided that active efforts would be made to secure agreements between builders and property owners, and the Council and the contract committee was instructed to prepare a form of contract which will be submitted to for Pennslyvania Avenue Northwest, those concerned.

A committee was appointed to prepare a statement of the attitude of the Council in its relation to local organized labor, particularly the non-trade union organizations which are not in accord with the local union bodies. It was deemed necessary that such a statement should be made to correct a number of erroneous statements which wheels stored, cleaned and repaired...$1.00 per me. have been persistently circulated by those who have never harmonized with the trade union element of this city.

The committee appointed to co-operate with a similar committee from the Central Labor Union to arrange for a ARTHUR D. BENNETT, Manager. joint excursion to River View on next DO NOT WANT OUR PATRONAGE. Labor Day were instructed to meet in joint session at which the committee will be organized and necessary subcommittees appointed.

The advisability of securing a room and furnishing the same for labor union headquarters was considered and the secretary was instructed to communicate with the Central Labor Union and that body to co-operate to that end. It was the general opinion of the delegates that a room, with office appliances, where the various committees could conveniently meet and confer; where Steam Fitters and Helpers Trouble as Yet Unsettled.

The trouble between the Steam Fitters' Union and the Helpers' Union, with the bosses, which resulted in the former being locked out one week ago Monday is yet unsettled, and a prominent member of the journeymen organization makes the statement that the bosses will soon be forced to recede E. BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL

An Unusually Large Meeting Held Tuesday Night.

THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Milford Spohn Secretary-Report of Committee Appointed to Prepare a Statement as to the Status of the Council-Credentials Received.

There was an unusually large attendance of delegates at the meeting last Tuesday evening of the Building Trades Council. President E. J. Ratigan pre-

Credentials of delegates from Steam Fitters Helpers', Local Branch No. 28, and Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union No. 8300 were favorably reported by the credential committee and the delegates were obligated. The committee appointed to prepare a statement of the past and present was ordered to be sent to the various organizations. The statement refers to of the building trades now allied in a so-called Council, to disrupt the body At the last meeting of the Union the several years ago, by withdrawing when the Council presumed to attempt to adjust a difficulty which immediately affected the interests of the building trades.

Notwithstanding this withdrawal for the avowed purpose of disrupting the Council, it is stated that the organizations now composing the Council maintained the body against the active opposition of those who a few months ago failing in an attempt to rule by questionable means sought to ruin.

The statement refers to the incident of March 27 last, when defeated in a scheme to violate the letter and spirit of a law of the Council, they forced a New Hampshire's annual shoe output sine die adjournment. It is asserted that on the following week, by prearrangement, seven of the seventeen dent and secretary without notification of charges, and proceeded to elect others to the positions.

Other facts are detailed showing that the Council presided over by E. J. Ratigan is the bona fide body and will be maintained as such.

* Facts for Advertisers.

Printers' Ink, the recognized authority on advertising, after a thorough investigation on this subject, says :

"A labor paper is a far better advertising medium than an ordinary newspaper in comparison to circulation. A labor paper, for example, having 5,000 subscribers is of more value to the business man who advertises in it than an ordinary paper with 10,000 subscribers."

"PATRONIZE home industry" is the slogan of the organized toiler on the Pacific coast-and it pays.

LABOR DAY preparations have been made by the Central Labor Union and the Building Trades Council on a much larger scale this year than ever before.

THE Tobacco Workers' International Union has won its suit against the Brown branch of the tobacco trust to prevent it from using the words "Union Made" on its boxes. This is an illustration of the methods of "honorable combinations."

THE Western Federation of Miners has voted to pay $60 each month to the family of Secretary Paul Corcoran until his release from prison, where, as is well known, he is serving a sentence of seventeen years for his alleged connection with the Couer d'Alene mine explosion. The Western Federation is to be heartily commended for its generous action.

AND now comes the Grand Jury at St. Louis, after investigating the causes that led up to the riots that took place in that city recently, and states that the police department is responsible for it all. It is now up to the newspapers that made so much fuss about labor leaders being the instigators of the trouble to rise and explain. But they won't! Prejudice and cowardice go hand in crease his bank roll.

GORDON A. RICE of the Union Record, of Seattle, Wash., is to be congratulated. He has one of the handsomest, and, from appearances, bestpatronized papers that comes to THE TRADES UNIONIST exchange table. The paper is well edited, too, but any one acquainted with Rice, and the methods of the Seattle merchants can of the Herald assumes when he slips in the I. T. Broke Faith.

The representatives of the street rail- paper. Score: way companies of St. Louis have broken faith with their employes in less than a week after the settlement of the trouble that has been prevailing in that city for almost two months, and the strike and the boycott have been revived by the justly indignant employes and their friends. When the representatives of vast financial interests like those of the street railway system of St. Louis lie to the men who earn the dividends and to the public that patronizes it, how can any one expect anything else than an expression of disapproval of such methods in a violent form? The corporation that sets itself up as being greater than its creators and supporters cannot expect Herald anything else but a harvest of chaff from the chaff that it has sown.

Let the boycott go on, and when the companies receive the punishment they so richly merit for the blackguard role they have played, it will be a reminder to other companies in the country that in dealing with employes who are in earnest in their endeavor to secure better conditions, that "honesty is the best policy."

A Step Forward.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a recent speech asserted that a labor organization should be more than a mere guide-line. organization to protect wages; it should be the insurance society of the "30" was in. members, providing benefits for himself when sick and unable to work, and in case of death leave a legacy behind for wife and little ones, to preserve them from the adversities of life.

The suggestion is a good one and THE TRADES UNIONIST hopes that Bro. Gompers will act along the lines of his suggestion and urge upon the unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to adopt the plan of making the Union the members' beneficial so- probably be signed to play the position ciety, his insurance company and his for the Painted Post Baseball Club. club. It is an important step forward in the solution of the question of emancipating the wage slave. It will bring to the ranks of labor the unorganized, who cannot now be counted upon, because of the oft repeated statements of the opponents of organization that there are no real benefits. Of course the statements that there are practically no benefits under the present conditions of organization, are not true; there are many; but as they can be increased, so will the movement grow in strength and permanency.

The editor of the Western Laborer seems very much put out, because Mr. Sam'l Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, took an active part in settling the differences between the painters. He should cheer up. Mr. Gompers is entitled to the credit, and the painters themselves declare so. I see no reason why Mr. Kennedy should not dry his tears.

VAV Hysteria is not taken for logic now-

As an evidence of the prosperous times the people of the country are enjoying at present, the dispatches announce that in compliance with an agreement entered into by the representatives of the cotton mills in Fall being assigned as the reason. The trusts, of course, have nothing to do with it, as the twenty thousand employes thrown into idleness would no doubt testify. Trusts are never responsible for anything of the kind; it's the weather.

Organized labor on the Pacific Coast is agitating the question of restricting the importation of Japanese labor into this country. Serious labor riots in Hawaiian Islands is one of the reasons advanced for restriction, and it seems to be well taken. A dispatch from San Francisco, dated July 9, says the ship Rio Janeiro, twenty-eight days from Hongkong via Honolulu, brought advices of serious rioting, and that the plantation manager who employs them in Japan and bring them to this coun- Clothes to Order, try, under contract, have decided to temporize no longer with the rioters, and if they will not behave they will drive them from the plantations. The kick on the Coast is a good one, and we hope will result in legislation by the next Congress removing this new Oriental menace to the white labor of the Western States.

There is no aristocracy in labor organizations, notwithstanding the efforts of some to create it. Take a hint?

The latest reports from China are to the effect that the empress has recovered from her last bunch of dope, and is doing all that she can to save the lives of those who have so far escaped the wrath of the "fists from Heaven," commonly called "boxers." I sincerely hope that she will be successful in her efforts.

Once more taking up the matter of labels. Suppose, for example, that only one-third of the cigar smokers of Washington would insist upon having blue label cigars, and especially those made in Washington, what would be the result? There would be fifty cigarmakers at work where there are probably but twenty now. This would mean an increase of thirty families in population, and an increase in the volume of patronage: business of the grocer, baker and clothier, and all others having goods for sale. It is the fault of the merchant that such conditions exist, and when the mercantile world co-operates with organized labor, there will be few cases of bankruptcy.

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION. Business Transacted at the Meeting

Sunday. session at Typographical Temple Sunday afternoon, E. A. M. Lawson presiding and Wm. M. Garrett at the Secretary's desk. After reading and approving the minutes of the previous session, a communication from Executive Council of Committee Appointed to Investigate the the International Union was read, announcing that the assessment of 30 cents per month levied on the membership for defense purposes has been declared off by the Council. The position taken by the locked out Steam Fitters, in maintaining their demand for the recognition of their union, was indorsed by the printers, and the moral and other support pledged them in their struggle for recognition.

President Lawson reported that there had been three deaths during the of President Szegedy, who was unable months, and that there were sufficient funds in the treasury to pay benefits his family. without an assessment.

He also reported that two members of the Union-Frank Davy and W. B. Lowd-had forgotten their obligation and had gone to work in a notorious rat shop down town, and the Union unanimously ordered that they be expelled from the Union and their names be published in the official journal.

Charles W. Otis was obligated as Trustee of the Union, after which the meeting adjourned.

STAY-AWAY CIRCULAR. Martial Law Still in Effect in the Coure d'Alene. The martial law proclamation of Govenor Steunenberg, issued over a year ago to cover the Couer d'Alene mining district in Idaho, where a mill was blown up, on April 30, 1899 is still in effect, although there has not been the least excuse in disorder for it the fourteen months since the War Department sent United States soldiers to intimidate the union miners under pretext of enforcing the Govenor's proclamation. Incidently it is appropriate to state that this Govenor was once regarded as a friend of organized labor, and his name adorned the honorary roll of Boise City Typographical Union. But after repeated appeals to his sense of fairness toward working men, which were unavailing, his name was stricken from that roll of hon' or by recommendation of the Executive Council of the International Typographical union. The Idaho State Labor Council has just sent to all parts of the United workingmen to keep away from the Coure d'Alene region, "until the martial law and permit system are abolished." This "permit system" is a method of discriminating against 2, Boston - Charles Ashton, James union labor, which could be carried out only under military law, as the ordinary statues of Idaho and many other States expressly prohibit such an exercise of prejudice toward trade unionists. Every applicant for work in the Cour d'Alene mines must be armed with one of these permits before he can ask for employment, "and those known to be union men," says the circular, "cannot get permits." The power to grant this privilege of looking for work has been placed by Govenor Stuenenberg in the hands of Coroner France, of Shoshone County.

Alluding to this un-American document, the Idaho Labor Council says:

"When we read this permit and behold a cringing creature called a man signing it, for the privilege of working Twenty Thousand Garment Workers in the wet dreary mines and mills of the Couer d'Alenes for a few mining corporations that thrive on the miseries of the laborer, are forced to believe that the star of the once grand republic is waning, and soon must set in universal gloom.

Grievance of Hospital Attendants in Connection with the Laundry at That Institution-A Committee Appointed to Act with the Steam Fitters.

Notwithstanding the extremely hot weather there were representatives from thirty-six organizations present Monday night when Secretary Brinkman called the roll. Vice-President E. J. Ratigan presided in the absence to be present on account of death in

Credentials were received from the International Steam Engineers' Union, Journeymen Bakers and Confectioners, Plumbers, Building Trades Council, and Steam Fitters. The Steam Fitters who have been locked out by the bosses, reported that the situation had not changed since the last meeting of the Central body, the bosses refusing to recognize the unions interested, and the men firm in their determination to be dealt with

A committee was appointed by the president to act in conjunction with the locked out men, with instructions to settle the matter in a manner compati-ole with unionism. As vet no other trade has become involved in the controversy, but it is stated that the building trades are only waiting the word to demonstrate their friendliness and sympathy for the cause of the Steam Fitters. Delegates from the Hospital Attendants' Union, composed of employes of St. Elizabeth's Asylum, made protest against an order issued by Superintendent Richardson, July 1, relative to the clothes to be sent to the laundry. A delegate stated that the rule required the hospital attendants to rinse all clothing yery much soiled before sending it to the laundry. This s something that was not required rom the employes under the management of Dr. Godding, and the attendants want the rule abrogated. A committee was appointed to wait on Dr. Richardson and see what he would do in the matter. The committee having in charge the States an official circular requesting arrangements for Labor Day reported that the sub-committees wer working order, and were meeting with greater success than last year. The report from the committee on tickets was extremely gratifying to the body.

The delegates from Columbia Typographical Union reported that that body at its meeting Sunday had indorsed the position taken by the Journeymen Steam Fitters in the matter of the lockout. Resolutions sympathizing with President Szegedy, in the death of a member of his family were unanimously adopted. The Cigarmakers presented a grievance against Marinella, a summer resort keeper, because of his refusal to handle union-made goods. The matter was referred to the Grievance Com-

A prominent member of the Steam Fitters states that the secretary of the bosses' association sent a letter to the union proposing to settle the matter, but insisted upon such unfair terms that made a settlement out of the question. Said he: "The secretary of the bosses must be 'locoed' to propose such a proposition as he did, i. e., that the bosses have the right to say who shall be members of the union. It is nervy, to say the least. The Steam Fitters and Helpers made a straight forward proposition on the first of October last year for an increase in wages to the amount paid in other cities, the same to go into effect the first of May. This was turned down by the bosses and the lockout inaugurated. This all printing done for them. Patronize the above firms, and Unionists, the city action on their part has been an incentive for the men to cement the ties of unionism more strongly together."

DEMAND CHANGE IN CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

Song that Caught the Crowd-John Leech's Uniform Trial Law Passed by the Convention-Tokens of Appreciation, by Delegates and Visitors, Presented-T. J. Creager Made District Organizer-Notes.

[Words by Theo. M. Hammond. Music by C. H. WILLIAMS.]

Ho! all ye jolly printers, lay down your sticks and type, It's time to take a lay-off; it's time to "hit the pipe." Wash up the Gordon presses, and hide the quads from view, And let the "devil" holler "Three cheers for I. T. U.!"

> You're gathered here from Kalamazoo, You're gathered here from Boston; You're gathered here from Oconomowoc, And Manhattan Beach and Austin; And Koshkonong and Fond du Lac, And Waukesha and Pewaukee; And Ishpeming and any old thing. But to-night you're all here in Milwaukee.

And while you're in the business of giving cheer on cheer, It may be well to honor the heroes of the year. They've worked together nicely; they're beauties—that's a cinch; Then give another round, boys, for Donnelly and Lynch.

They pulled for you in Kalamazoo, etc., And to-night we cheer them in Milwaukee.

And there's another fellow deserves a hearty cheer, He's done a heap of business throughout the fiscal year. He wrote a million letters and kept the bloomin' books. His name is Johnny Bramwood; he's honest as he looks.

He punched 'em up in Kalamazoo, etc., But to-night we cheer him in Milwaukee.

Then there's the prince of printers, who's up to all the tricks. He used to work the cases in old New York's Big Six. He wears the Union label; he's always right on deck'; We're proud to do him honor, our genial old George Peck. He used to work in Kalamanzoo, etc.,

But to-night he's right here in Milwaukee.

The Union has a champion who wields a mighty power, He rules a mighty city from up there in the tower. And he's an old-time printer, as everybody knows He's up-to-date in every way, our Mayor David Rose.

He used to work in Kalamazoo, etc., But to-night he sticks type in Milwaukee.

But when it comes to printers, we give a quiet hunch, That old Mike Walsh, of Keogh's, is king of all the bunch. He's stood besides the Union and quieted their fears, In summer and in winter, for most a hundred years.

He's plugged for you in Kalamazoo, etc. And to-night we're for him in Milwaukee.

Then never mind the "copy," and let the cases slide. Who cares if rules are busted, or if the forms are pied? Wash up the Gordon presses, hang up the office towel; Let loose the printer's devil, and EVERYBODY HOWL.

Then here's to you from Kalamazoo, etc., AND THE I. T. U. OF MILWAUKEE.

Milwaukee, on Saturday last. Considerable work was performed by the siderable work was performed by the delegates, some good and some bad legislation being initiated, as is always the case at the sessions of bodies of this kind. President Donnelly was ment in that establishment; therefore fortunate in the selection of his law committee, all being able men and in full knowledge of the needs of the craft. Probably the most important piece of legislation to go the referendum for its approval is the proposition to increase the per capita tax from 30 to 40 cents per month. The statements made by the I. T. U. officers show that stead of the examination now required. such an increase is necessary to carry out the work of the organization as desired by the membership, and it is to be hoped that the referendum will agree with the convention and make the proposition a law.

A. W. Bowen, of Washington, introduced the following, which was passed

This piece of legislation is questionable, and would have been better defeated. When one man or a set of men get so infernally thin-skinned that they must seek protection of this kind, it can not be but doubtful of good results. The law smacks of jackassity, and it is a 100 to I shot that it will be repealed of them have grounds for complaint. at the next convention.

The local committee in charge of the task of entertaining delegates and visitors did themselves proud, and all voice. strangers were loud in their praise. Especial care was taken of the ladies by the committee of union printers' wives of Milwaukee, and the lady visitors expressed themselves as satisfied with their treatment. A trolley ride and fish dinner at White Fish Bay, a tally-ho ride over the city, and a theater party were a few of the functions in which the ladies participated. As a future reminder of the good times they enjoyed, they presented Mr. Fred Stearns, president of the local union, with an elegant gavel, properly inscribed, and a handsome marble block. Mr. M. P. Walsh, chairman of the committee on arrangements, was also recollected by being made the recipient of an elegant umbrella.

While these tokens were being handed out, the delegates, not to be outdone by the ladies, presented the committee with substantial remembrances of the occasion in the shape of gold rings for the president and committee, with the exception of Mr. Walsh, and a beautiful diamond fell to him, and it was heartily appreciated.

The delegates also made it pleasant for President Donnelly. An elegant silver service was presented to him ional Union. Mr. Donnelly's reply was full of feeling, and was warmly applauded.

The report of the committee on President's Report reported that document with but few minor changes, and the convention adopted the document by unanimous vote.

The report of Secretary-Treasurer Bramwood showed that that office was in competent hands, and the committee on finance complimented him on the neat and complete manner in which he conducted the affairs of that office.

The Chicago delegation introduced and secured the passage of a resolution giving the Chicago Union $1,000, to of new officers. aid in carrying on the fight against the unfair firm of the W. B. Conkey Co., of Hammond, Ind.

The committee on subordinate unions reported that the conditions of the trade in the city of Pittsburg were such as to require the immediate and careful attention of the Executive Council of the I. T. U., and the Council was instructed to render all the assistance in the power of the local union.

Mr. T. J. Creager, of Springfield, O., was elected organizer for the Third district, composed of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia. Joshua Lynch, of Baltimore, and Sam D. Nedrey, of Washington, were the unsuccessful candidates. All the Washington delegation with the exception of Mr. Harry F. Sauter, voted for Nedrey. Mr. they? F GH dues are always an indication of the strength of an organization, and attracts the outsider to membership.

THE action of the printers' convention in Milwaukee, in submitting to the referendum a proposition to increase the dues from 30 to 40 cents per month, is a good one and should be adopted. Those going on leave from this chapel this week are: Grant S. Barnhart, Jos. E. Sheehan, C. B. Yater, H. Lee Ragland, W. E. Cobb, Ira T. Bryant, and W. A. Lavalette.

The rapid vibration of the gray matter in Stanford's brain makes it look as though each hair of his head stood on end. Those who imagine he is an anarchist are in error.

Joseph E. Sheehan will establish himself at Old Orchard Beach, Me., for his vacation. He is familiar with nearly all the popular summer resorts, and says Old Orchard is the finest.

EXCURSION NOTES.

Although Alford refrained fram dancing, yet his smile indicated that he approved of the proceedings.

"Minus" Harvel, of the entertainment committee, gathered in tickets at the boat in a high-grade professional manner.

Alley 13 was represented on the floor of the dancing pavilion by "General Joe" Stelle, Duke Kirby, Hughey Griffin, and our efficient chairman.

The chairman of the entertainment committee certainly presented one of the finest and highest-toned programs that was ever put on in Washington.

Holland ably assisted the floor com mittee in notifying the couple giving an imitation of Bowery dancing that they had got on the wrong car and that they were not at Chesapeake Junction.

Our heavy-weight chairman was one of the lightest and most graceful step pers of all the light, fantastic trippers which appeared on the platform at River View.

Duke Kirby entertained the champion lady cakewalker on the way up from River View, so as to be able to advise his friends how to place their money when the next "competition" is pulled

The excusion to River View on Monday last was a most successful affair from all points of view, barring the weather. River excursions are not as popular as they have been for several years past, and the entertainment committee deserves the greater amount of credit for making the annual excursion of the Typographical Union a decided success and a most pleasant affair, notwithstanding the fact that a large percentage of the membership of the organization are taking their annual vacation. Among those present from the Fourth Division were: Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Archer, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barringer, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Butler, Professor and Mrs. Geo. W. Harvel, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Outcalt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Redfield, Governor and Mrs. Waite, and Messrs. R. W. Alderman, J. R. Alford, Charles Doten, Hugh P. Griffin, H. Harrold, Ferd. Harrison, Thos. F. Healy, Daniel L. Hegarty, J. E. Irvin, Duke Kirby, James F. Spence, General Joseph Stelle, W. L. Thomas, and Clayton E. Willard.

THE BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL

Eleven Organizations Present at Regular Weekly Meeting.

At a meeting last Tuesday evening of the Building Trades Council delegates from eleven of the allied trades were present. President Ratigan called the session to order which was principally devoted to the consideration of the propositions which are presumed to form a basis for the organization of a local Building Trades Council. The changes proposed by the Fitzgerald faction were not agreed to, the Council insisting upon the revised propositions as reported by the committee and

There was a cake walk, refined vaudeville, music, both vocal and instrumental, dancing, and plenty to eat and drink.

The committee have made this kind of an entertainment popular with the members of No. 101, and it will be expected to soon try its hand again.

Public opinion goes a long ways towards the right way. That's why the National Capital Brewing Company's "DIAMOND" and "MUEN-CHENER" Beers have such enormous sale—because the public asks for them and will have them.

The Laboring Man-~

THURSDAY, AUGUST 30, 1900.

In the following States the first Mon day in September is a legal holiday, and the labor organizations of the country have reason to feel proud, for this wide observance of Labor Day gives the celebration almost a national character:

Alabama. California. Colorado. Connecticut. Delaware. District of Columbia. Georgia. Illinois. Indiana. Iowa. Kansas. Massachusetts Michigan. Missouri.

Nebraska. New Hampshire. New York. Ohio. Rhode Island. South Carolina Texas. Utah. Virginia. Washington. West Virginia

Miss M. C. DeGraffenried, of the Department of Labor, in the July Bulletin, says:

"Labor Day could never have existed but for the moral force of universal manhood suffrage under democratic institutions. Advancing civilization and our general industrial progress aided the movement. In each State where the holiday is legalized, bodies of organized workingmen helped to bring about the enactment by influencing public sentiment in their respective localities. Where no date has yet been set apart for this celebration the State Governments will doubtless soon fall into line, for no serious opposition to the measure has been displayed even by legislatures which refused to enact other laws in the interest of laborclear proof that the significance of the mind.

D. J. KAUFMAN, 1007 Pa. Ave.

Bowen and Civil Service. WASHINGTON, D. C., August 26. Editor Trades Unionist:

DEAR SIR: I desire to offer a word of comment concerning the resolution of Mr. A. W. Bowen, of Washington, passed at the recent meeting of the

The resolution states that the examination for compositor in the Government Printing Office is not of the practical character it should be, and that "many good, thorough, practical printers fail to pass the examination because of the technical questions foreign to our business.'

It seems to me that this is very much overdrawn. I have been familiar with the compositor examination for several years and can not see wherein it falls short of being practical.

When the printers were first placed in the classified service tests were required to pass the second-grade basis or educational test. This was apparently considered more difficult than necessary, and they are now required to pass only the third-grade basis or lowest educational test. Formerly the arithmetic examination included problems in common and decimal fractions, but now it does not go higher than addition, multiplication, subtraction, and division. And yet who would deny that a "thorough" printer ought to know how to work problems in fractions. The educational test is certainly as low as it son who has actually taken the examina- patronage: tion must admit that the proof-correcting, copying from rough draft, and tabulating tests are thoroughly practical.

Besides, if I am rightly informed, the examination for compositors was drawn up by old and experienced printers in the Government Printing Office.

The suggestion that a practical test of skill be given by the Public Printer to all applicants instead of the present examination would have greater force if Mr. Bowen had kindly suggested how this may be done. It certainly would be impracticable and expensive for the Civil Service Commission to rent the use of printing offices at the many places at which the examinations are given.

I, for one, would rather let well enough alone. The new regime is far better and more economical than the old, and the examinations are open to all alike. In view of the fact that the removal of the printers from the classified service was contemplated in the late order of the President, is it not dangerous to agitate a change which might have the effect of removal?

Return to the old regime, and long would it be before the introduction of machines?

Public opinion goes a long ways towards the right way. That's why the National Capital Brewing Company's "DIAMOND" and "MUEN-CHENER" Beers have such enormous sale—because the public asks for them and will have them.

The Laboring Man-

—is quick to appreciate "a good thing" and to avail himself of it. That's the reason that "CHAMPAGNE" and "RUBY LAGER" is so popular with all the labor organizations.

The Bijou.

The Bijou Theatre is probably the strictest union labor theatre in Amerca. Mr. Chas. P. Salisbury, who has been successful in the management of theatres in Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis, Buffalo and elsewhere, is in charge of affairs at the Bijou. Mr. Salisbury's union principles date back nearly twenty years, although he is not an old man by any means. He became a member of Typographical Union in March, 1883, at Cleveland, O., where he learned the trade, and was prominent in the councils of unions in other ORONOCO RYE WHISKY... cities. He was was president of No. 211, and subsequently occupied various editorial positions on Western pa pers until he resumed theatrical work in 1890. In every contract let for the extensive improvements made at the Bijou Mr. Salisbury insisted that the union labor clause be inserted.

The Oriental Burlesquers will make their first appearance at the Bijou Theatre on Monday afternoon for a week's stay. Times We Live In.

The country is again by the ears. This time it is because miners want better treatment and wages. The military of Pennsylvania have been called in to arbitrate the matter for the mine owners. One miner has already been buried.

The action of New York Typographical Union at its last meeting in closing the "open" shops of that village to members of the union is as marvellous as some of the legislatign of the typographical sangerbund held recently in Milwaukee. According to Secretary Healy, his annual report shows that "Big 6" spent $38,001.70 on printers out of work, and the shops were open. All large cities have more or less printing offices that need straightening, and every now and again there is an effort mental Promotion, thorough. practical, made to "square" them, with the result that shops not wholly unionized have had men sent in to work, thus forcing out the nonunionist, or compelling him to join the union, had afforded adding a needed strength to the organization. In the face of the large sum expended in out of-work benefits paid last year, the closing of shops, thus robbing the union of its best missionaries and also adding to its running expenses, is beyond my ken.

Oyster roast 10 cents, day and night. Driscoll's, N. Cap. and Gsts. High balls.

Chinese labor unions exist not only in New York, Chicago, and other large cities, but also throughout the Pacific States, and are especially strong in California. The unions are composed of cigarmakers, shoe manufacturers, clothing makers, and laundrymen. Most of the jean coats and trousers worn west of the Rockies are made by the Chinese. The unions include the great majority who follow these occupations, as every effort is made to drive the non-union Chinaman out of business He is considered as an outcast by his countrymen, is boycotted and blacklisted, and sometimes murdered, if the | * * * organization thinks it best to get rid of | * * * him in that way. Public opinion goes a long ways towards the right way. That's why the National Capital Brewing Company's "DIAMOND" and "MUENCHENER" Beers have such enormous sale—because the public asks for them and will have them.

The Laboring Man-

is quick to appreciate "a good thing" and to avail himself of it. That's the reason that "CHAMPAGNE" and "RUBY LAGER" is so popular with all the labor organizations.

unravels the difficulties.

Among the many courteous people in the Proof Room is Senor Lane (he of linguistic fame). Mr. Lane hails from Boston, which accounts for his high culture and gentlemanly manners. He has not an enemy in the room, which is saying a great deal. We would not like to say that he has not one of the best readers in the room and he and the compositors some times disagree and the compositor's creed is "He who does not agree with me is against me."

Another good fellow is Bill Reed Always ready to tell a story or sing a song when the occasion requires ithe can do both like a troubadour-and, by the way, if he had lived in King Wood S Richard's time he would have been one of 'em. He is versatile, and can fill any old position from the Methodist pulpit to carrying a ward precinct. His friends are legion and he knows it.

Bill Anthony, old friend, Bill, The news I read to day Shut God's all-blessed sunshine out And draped the earth in gray. To learn that you were dead, Bill, In this, your native land, In woe and want, with mercy scant. And-dead by your own hand.

Bill Anthony, old friend, Bill, loved you as a bro When knee to knee, with bridles free, We crossed the plains together. Ah, why did you not write, Bill, That things were looking blue? You know, old pard, I would have shared The last red cent with you.

There's something out of joint, Bill, In this, our land, you bet Where aliens clink the gold and drink The sweet and eat the fat. While you a hero proved, Bill, American blood and bone,

You looked for shelter-there's a grave; For food-there is a stone. 'Tis hard to think the men, Bill,

Who nobly fought and bled At Caloocan or San Juan. Or where brave Dewey led, Who stemmed the press of fight, Bill, On land and ocean blue, Whose valor draws the world's applause Should die the death of you.

Republics are ungrateful, Bill, To all the luckless brave, And now there gapes-ah, sad, sad taps ! For you a pauper's grave. Far better had your bones, Bill, That night of terror lain Low in the deep, in dreamless sleep, Your sepulchre the Maine.

Wm. F. True can make the cold chills run down your back by relating some 'dead board,'' poor Brosnahan's old of the narrow escapes he had during the civil war. Four horses shot from under him in a day is not a bad record, and yet any day he can relate more harrowing experiences.

Mr. George Colquitt returned to work Wednesday morning, after spending his leave in the wilds of Tennessee. While away he put in a good part of his time hunting. One day while roaming through the woods with his gun on his shoulder, he spied a flock of turkeys. George dropped immediately, crawled through the grass to within several yards, took careful aim, and stood still, gobbling and frightened. When George picked up his game he found that he had fired into a flock of tame turkeys. He settled with the Driscoll's, N. Cap. and Gsts. High balls. owner for $1.50.

HARDSHIPS OF THE MINERS

is cheated out of a very considerable part of his fair earnings is through "dockage." When the loaded cars are sent up to the surface from the mines and dumped on the "breaker' they pass under the survey of the com pany's weighman, who docks each car as much as he sees fit for the slate, rock, etc., it contains. The miners complain that they are outrageously robbed through this process, and one demand of the strikers is the right to have an additional weighman-chosen and paid by themselves-at the surand paid by themselves—at the surface, who, with the company's weighman, shall agree on the amount of dockage. This seems fair enough, and a law of Pennsplvania, enacted in 1875, gives the miners the right to have such "check weighmen." The law is ignored that the surface and there are nored by the operators, and there are no "check weighman." The miners claim that the "dockage" is so dishonest that in many mines they have to send up as high as 3,500, or even 4,000, pounds of coal in order to get payment for the legal ton of 2,240 pounds.

In some mines the rates paid miners are based on cars instead of tons. Twenty-five years ago, when the exististing scale of wages was adopted, a car held only a ton, and the terms could be used indifferently. Since then the mines that work on the car basis have been gradually putting into use larger and larger mine cars until now the cars in use hold as high as 3,800 pounds. But the miners have never been able to compel any increase in the rate of payment per car. I have endeavored here merely to make plain the exact nature of the miners' demands and what they

Little Egypt Burlesquers at Bijou.

The Little Egypt Burlesquers will be the offering at the New Bijou Theater beginning Monday matinee, November 5. A fine aggregation, consisting of thirty people, twenty of them ladies, who are shapely and possessed of sweet voices. Their actions are modest, yet full of fire and pose, so much admired by the patrons of this kind of entertainment. The commencement is a wellseasoned and delicately-spiced concoction of contagious gayety, termed "A Nightmare," by Markey and Stewart. It deals with the trials and tribulations of a couple of countrymen who visit a secret lodge for the first time. Then comes an olio of novelties by Miss Mae Taylor, a dashing petite comedienne; 311 EAST CAPITOL ST. 1204 G St. N. W. 616 12th St. N. W. Rawson and Baisley, a clever pair of comedy entertainers; Al. Lawrence, Well patronized and well liked. who is known as the monarch of imitators, who can imitate anything from a buzz saw to a grand piano; the Sisters DeGraff, whose methods are essentially French, the team having all the dash of the Parisian fantastic; Markey and Stewart, who have no peers when it comes to rapid-fire conversation; also in their pleasing sketch entitled, "On a Tear." The termination of the performance is a fantasie of mirth and afforded. music, created for the purpose of amusement and a jolly good time. It is entitled "Forbidden Fruit," and is from the pen of Guy Rawson. The entire program is pleasing, without one dull moment. In the final scene of the burlesque, the original and only "Little Egypt" will introduce her favorite Oriental dance, which has made her famous on both sides of the Atlantic.

On election day Manager Coyle, of the cosy Bijou, will have a special wire from the Postal Telegraph Company, and the latest election returns will be read from the stage. So if you wish to see a good show, have a smoke, and hear the election returns, this is the AMAZON PURE OLD RYE, Hall Mills Company, of Jamestown, N. Y., Manufacturers of Worsted Goods Declared Unfair to Organized Labor-Portner Brewing Company, of Alexandria, Va., Placed on the Unfair List-Window Glass Workers' League, of Pittsburg, Pa., Boycotts the American Window Glass Company.

There was a good attendance of delegates of the various organizations affiliated with the Central Labor Union at the meeting of that body held last Monday evening. President H. W. Szegedy occupied the chair and C. E. Deitrich acted as secretary in the absence of Secretary John H. Brinkman.

After the reading of the minutes, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wild, representing the Textile Weavers' Union No. 164, of Jamestown, N. Y., were admitted and addressed the delegates relative to the strike of that organization against the Hall Mills Company, of that city.

Mr. Wild stated that the strike of the employes of this company has been portant action taken by the convention pending since last June, when their demand for an increase of wages was refused and their places were filled by non-union workmen, who average about 70 cents a day. The Hall Company, it is stated, manufacture worsted goods, and labor organizations are requested to list the product of this company as unfair. This matter was referred to the Grievance Committee, who, after investigation, recommended that the Hall Company be declared unfair, which was unanimously indorsed by the central body. A communication was read from Brewery Workers' Union, No. 118, formally requesting that the Robert Portner Brewing Company be placed on the unfair list, as the firm has persistently refused to sign the Brewery Workers' contract. The matter was referred to the Grievance Committee.

As a result the ague has declared the American Company's product to be unfair, and the union organizations of the country are informed of the fact.

The final report of the committee appointed to formulate rules for a building trades section was submitted and recommendations concurred in.

The bakers and drivers employed by Corby Bros. having became members of Bakers Drivers' Union No. 33 and Bakers and Confectioners' Union No. 118, a resolution was adopted declaring the firm to be fair to organized union "The firm of Corby Bros., bakers and for war."—International Journal. labor. As the firm is notoriously scab, the granite cutters requested that the secretary of the Central Labor Union inform the District Commissioners of the fact, and that Brand also be communicated with relative to the matter. It was so ordered.

The Retail Clerks reported that B Solomon, who has been late closing on Saturday night and who was listed as unfair because of such fact, has agreed to close his place of business at 9 o'clock p. m. on Saturdays. Solomon having complied with the request of the clerks, was formally taken from the unfair list.

Credentials of delegates were submitted and the same were seated from Hod Carrier' Union No. 1, Electrical Linemen's Union No. 144, Negative Cutters' Union, and the recently-organized Barbers' Union.

The Typothetæ's Assessment.

The Kansas City meeting of the United Typothetæ seems to have been dominated to some extent by an element antagonistic to the International Union and its affiliated bodies. From dreams. It is well known that the the information at the hands of the Journal, it appears that the most imwas that looking to the establishment of an emergency fund of $100,000. This fund is to be raised by an assessment of the members of the typothetæ, and is to be used to fight strikes and boycotts in which any members of the typothetæ may be involved. Each employer will be required to pay 10 cents a month per capita on each of his employes. Under this assessment plan, an employer who has fifty people in his shop will be held up for $5 per month, and so on. It is possible that the typothetæ will be able to collect the proposed assessment, but the Journal does not believe that such firms as J. J. CAN IT EVER BE REALIZED

Why Should One Be a Republican and the Political Parties to Their Knees-No Lawyer, Broker, Banker, Grain Operator, Wholesale Dealer, "Middleman," or Any Person Holding Political Office Should Be Admitted to Membership.

A. F. Bloomer in Typographical Journal of November 1.]

Now, at the close of a political campaign in which the rulers and policy of the nation for the next four years are to be determined, and in which we are all shouting Republicans, yelling Democrats, howling Populists, or, less likely, adherents of Eugene Debs or Wharton Barker, and before the result is known, seems to the writer peculiarly appropriate for the setting forth of a scheme for the attainment of political advantage by workingmen, which has long been one of his most cherished day radical partisans are those who have least to expect from the result of an election, as the most rabid defenders of the institution of slavery were those who never owned or could hope to ever own a slave. While the professional politicians and bigwigs of both parties are hobnobbing together, and the trust magnates are keeping things in such shape as to control legislation whichsoever party may win at the polls, the 'little fish,'' the people to whom the issue really means nothing at all, are ready to fight each other "at the drop of the hat" for no other reason than that one is a Republican and the other is a Democrat. Why should one be a Republican and the other a Democrat? were "born so." A man will say: " was born a Republican (or a Democrat), and my father was one before me," as born without teeth and without hair on his face, and if there be virtue in remaining as born, why did he not continue in that condition and avoid toothache and barbers' bills? And if "My father was one before me" is an argument, why does he not follow his availing himself of the discoveries of small dues paid (for money is necessary good reasons for being a Republican as his father had for his belief, and vice paign of education," before the toilers versa, for political parties are not invariable and no party stands for what it did a generation ago. And will not the exercise of italis banded together to enslave labor he can help, no matter what party is in power or how favorable legislation may be to his industry.

This leads us to the proposition intended to be made-the formation among workingmen of a non-partisan organization for political purposes; an organization of voters who will vote as a body for the man or set of men who will do most for or do the bidding of workingmen; an organization that will stand as one man by the course de-At the last meeting of the Labor Day termined upon, that will insist upon teachers' institute, and as soon as they having its mandates obeyed, and that left, the girls got drunk." selves to one party. There should be no hurry to get the new organization into practical operation. Not less than three or four years should be devoted to perfecting it, recruiting its membership, making known its purposes, and giving due notice to all concerned of its intentions. Under no circumstances should the organization nominate a ticket or even a candidate, for on that rock all workingmen's parties have split in the past. If one of its members should become a candidate for an office of sufficient magnitude to affect any of the interests of the organization, that fact should sever his membership and he be made subject to its demands on the same footing as other politicians. An unfulfilled pledge should be punished by the political death of the offender, beyond all resurrection. No lawyer, broker banker, grain operator, wholesale dealer, or any "middleman" whatever, or any person holding any considerable political office, should be admitted to membership. On the night of election "Steve" Caldwell, proprietor of the "Cafe," 407 Tenth street northwest, secured the services of a band to entertain his many friends who called on him that exciting evening, incidentally dispensing "wet goods" to those who, upon reading the bulletins, found cheering or discouraging news of their favorite, as the case may be.

The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of Mr. Henry T. Offterdinger, of 506 Ninth street northwest, between E and F streets. By strict attention to business and industry Mr. Offterdinger has built up a tobacco and cigar business second to none in the city. He makes a specialty of "Pluck" cigars, one of the best 5-cent Union-made cigars on the market. As he employs Union workmen exclusively he should receive the patronage of organized labor.

The Bijou.

"Wine, Women, and Song" is the Bijou next week, commencing Monday matinee. M. M. Theise, who is the manager of this company, has endeavored to make the attraction a greater success than it was last season, and with this end in view has selected an unusually showy company of vaudevilie artists, who are ably assisted by a chorus of pretty women, who are not only pretty but know how to sing. The costumes are the finest that money can buy, and the scenery is beautiful in detail. The electrical effects are grand. The specialties are furnished by Irene Mackey Trio, Shehan and Kennedy, Gilbert and Goldie, the Racketts, and Kline and Gotthold. There are two very clever and funny burlesques in which the company appear. "Wine, Women, and Song" is without doubt the very best attraction that has ever visited Washington.

Heilbrun's Shoe House. This old established reliable Union Shoe House has removed back to its original position in the magnificent modern building, lately completed at the corner of Seventh and D streets northwest, known particularly as 402 and 404 Seventh street northwest.

They carry a full and complete line of No. 604 Pennsylvania Avenue N. W. union made boots and shoes for ladies and gentlemen, which of itself is a guarantee of their excellence, and their prices are all right. They have still with them as manager A. Johnson Heilbrun, who is ever ready to cordially extend the glad hand of welcome to his many friends, and they are legions.

The firm has long been famous to the Washington public as one of the foremost reliable shoe dealers in the District, and we heartily wish them a long era of continued prosperiety.

His Proper Name Never Spoken.

In China the Emperor's proper name is never mentioned, as to pronounce it is a criminal offense. On ascending to the throne the ruler of the "Middle Kingdom" takes a name by which he becomes known to his people and history. The present Emperor's real, or personal, name is Tsai-t'ien; but, on been placed on the throne in 1875, he was given the title of Kuang Hsu, which in English signifies "illustrious succession."-Golden Penny.

The Laboring Man-

—is quick to appreciate "a good thing" and to avail himself of it. That's the reason that "CHAMPAGNE" and "CULMBACHER LAGER" is so popular with all the labor organizations.

These methods, known as the "initiative and the referendum," will enable the people to pass such laws as they want and veto 'DIRECT LEGISLATION" SYSTEM any laws they do not want. The people will be stronger than their representatives not only on election day, but every Prof. Parson's Views on the Subject-Says day, and in the event of a conflict the It Will Put the Affairs of the United people's will will prevail, and not the States Under Uncle Sam's Control-Why representatives', as so often happens

> This is a measure which is more important than any now before the American people. It will enable the people to stop any law before it goes into effect, or annul it after it goes into effect if it proves objectionable, and it will enable the people to establish any law they desire without waiting until Congress or Legislatures see fit to act. These waits too often are caused by the money of powerful interests, and the interests of the people are neglected.

Prof. Frank Parsons says: "Direct legislation will give Uncle Sam the means of controlling the movements of the great train in which he and his family are journeying through the years-he can turn off the steam and put on the direct air brake if the engineers and conductors he has hired to manage the train attempt to run it on a road he does not wish to travel, and if they go to sleep or are held up, or in any way fail to move on the line he desires, he can fix the switch and turn on the power to suit himself."

He further directs attention to the fact that the Broadway Surface Railway Company spent $500,000 buying alderman in New York, and thereby persuaded them to give the company, without payment to the city, a street railway franchise on Broadway for which another company had offered the city a million dollars (and which was worth a great many millions). If the citizens of New York had the initiative and referendum that grant would have been stopped, for no company would pay its dollars to buy legislation certain to be nipped in the bud by a petition and referendum vote. Many other instances are cited by Prof. Parsons, notably the sideration. It is no answer to say that proposition to extend the franchise of the they can not deliver the goods, because Chicago railways for fifty years. Cost of the Coal Strike.

The newspapers that have none too much love for toilers figure out that Pennsylvania miners have lost $7,200,-000 by reason of idleness during the strike. They then figure out that 137,-000 men were out 36 days, but let their calculations end there. If they would carry it out to its conclusion they would find that each man just lost $52.55, or $1.44 per day, not counting out their powder bills and supposing that each man had worked every day. Will any newspaper contend that $1.44 a day is enough to compensate a man for toiling in the mines? What have the men won? They have abolished the sliding scale; they have won a ten per cent. increase in pay; they have made the operators recognize the union; they have fixed a scale of wages until next April; they have shown to the world that they can conduct a strike in a business like and orderly manner. The victory is great, the cost trifling as compared with the fruits of their strike.-Coast Seamens' Journal.

Necessity of Purity in Laundry Soaps Economical and Safe.

ECONOMICAL because it is pure. Bleaches and will not injure the clothes.

SAFE because it is made of pure healthy material, namely, pure beef tallow prepared by ourselves and the purest and best chemicals and borax—thus avoiding the danger arising from the use of diseased grease and fats, which often cause sericus trouble.

Is sold in only 2 and 3-lb. bars (not wrapped), and every bar is stamped as above. It is put up in boxes containing 60 pounds, and is for sale by the best grocers. If your grocer won't furnish the goods and offers something he claims to be just as good, send to us $3.00 and we will deliver to you a box containing 60 lbs.

"Can religion and justice stand by and not lift their voices against the conditions that surround the Man with the Pick, the coal miner? If the trusts, monopolies, and great money kings can, by their power, grind down the Man with the Pick, where will the coun try land? These men of money can buy dogs for $1,000; horses for $10,000 to $50,000; I believe it has been stated that one of them lately paid $100,000 for a horse. They build yachts that cost $500,000 or more; the palatial residences of the wives and children of some of these men are almost as splen- 311 EAST CAPITOL ST. did as the sensual production of Louis XIV at Versailles. I say such indulgence is not legitimate in our teachings of Christianity, even in their family homes. Their indulgence does not stop here. The souls of women, redeemed by Christ, are led by them into the shambles of sin. These men are lower than Mohammedans. They, like the Grand Pashas, cover their victims with silks, satin, laces, and jewels, and all this comes out of the blood of the Man with the Pick, who by ten hours' hard work, can not exist in decency."-The Rev. Delegates Addressed by J. O'Connell and Thomas I. Kidd.

C. L. U. HIGHLY COMPLIMENTED

Mr. Kidd Says the Washington C. L. U. is One of the Most Substantial and Influential Central Bodies in the Country-Rules to Govern the Recently Organized Building Trades Section Adopted-New Delegates Obligated-Routine Business.

There was a fine attendance of delegates at the weekly meeting of the Central Labor Union held at Typographical Temple. President H. W. Szegedy was president, and John H. Brinkman was Secretary.

Before proceeding to the consideration of business the regular order was suspended and the chair introduced James O'Connell, president of the National Association of Machinists, and Thomas I. Kidd, of the National Association and the National Association of the National Association and at whose instance the ciation of Amalgamated Wood Workers, who addressed the delegates. The list. text of the remarks of the speakers was the benefits of organization. Mr. Kidd during his address incidentally referred to the Cen ral Labor Union as one of the most substantial and influen tial central bodies of the country. The at Tanzer's, 1300 7th street northwest. remarks of the speakers were appreciatcd and frequently applauded.

President Szegedy reported that he had personally called on Mr. Tindall, secretary to the District Commissioners, and through him had requested the Commissioners to formally invite the American Federation of Labor to hold its annual convention in 1901 in this city. Mr. Szegedy also stated that having called subsequently he was assured that the Commissioners would extend the invitation, as requested."

A communication was read from Charles Becthold, secretary National Union of United Brewery Workers, relative to the Portner Brewing Company, of Alexandria. Va., in which Mr, Bechtold states the brewers have several the interest of the craft, and without to sign the agreement of their organiza- terest in the affairs of the Union to to do so. The Central Labor Union having listed the Portner Company as unfair the secretary was directed to so inform Mr. Bechtold.

The rules governing a building trades section having been adopted at a previous meeting and ordered to be incorporated in the constitution of the Central Labor Union, the following of the building trades present were, upon recompendation of the various building craits, appointed to compose the section: J. B. Egloff, Sheet Metal Workers' Union; J. D. Wilson, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners Union No, 190; W. E. Kennedy, Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Milford Spohn, Bricklayers' Union No 1; Joseph Huff, Hoisting Engineers Union No. 14; D. D. Condon, Steam Fitters' Local Branch No. 10f Thomas Jackson, Hod Carriers' Union No. 1; J. J. Crowley, Granite Cutters Branch; L. P. scribes both parties. Mr. William H. Kelly, in the last issue of THE TRADES UNIONIST, in a well-written article, argues for "direct legislation." But, brother, who is to give us direct legislation? Bills for the initiative and the referendum have been introduced in legislative bodies from one end of the country to the other and they all sleep the sleep of death in committee pigeonholes. The governing class will never permit that boon to the people, and by one party or another it is denounced as "socialistic" or "anarchistic" or "populistic," which is sufficient to array "Tray, Blanche, and Sweetheart, and all the other little dogs" against it. But even if it could be brought about, I have grave doubts as to its effectiveness. The masses will not take the trouble to inform themselves as to the details, so as to form an opinion as to the effect or the desirability of a measure. We see Mr. Louis R. I am happy to report that Make-up Jim Maloney is slightly better, but not out of danger, but regret to state that the same disease, is dangerously ill.

The following compositors were transferred to the night force: C. W. Burnett, G. H. Cadett, W. E. Councell, T. M. Dunn, C. H. Gardner, A. C. Gibbs, T. W. Harper, J. H. Hogan, N. J. Lillard, E. S. Poole, J. H. Ross, O. J. Singleton, Chas. Voelker, E. S. Wild, and G. J. Woodgate.

A largely attended wedding took place on November 8, at St. Louis, Mo., when Mr. J. H. G. Debus, of this division, was married to Miss Pauline Kastler at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, by the Rev. Irion. Mr. Debus is one of the most popular men in this room, having come here about one year ago. They were the recipients of many valuable presents, and after a short wedding trip returned to this city, where they will be pleased to see their many friends at No. 51 Massachusetts avenue

The following amusing advertisement occurred in different papers: "To be disposed of, a mail phaeton, the property of a gentlman with a movable headpiece as good as new." See Brewer. "Wanted, an organist and a boy to blow the same." See Templar and Weaver. "Widow in comfortable circumstances wishes to marry two sons." See Moyer and Garner. "Bull dog for sale; will eat anything; very fond of children." See Hale. "Lost, a collie dog by a man on Saturday answering to Jim with a brass collar round his neck and a muzzle." See Burnside and Bill Norton.

The Bijou-" Fads and Follies."

The Bijou will have another of those really excellent burlesque entertainments that are winning a large clientele for this cozy home of burlesque and there is every reason to believe that "Fads and Follies," the offering for the coming week, will be accorded patronage of unusual proportions.

There will be the system are the company to the coming week and the company to the coming week. Well patronized and well liked.

There will be the customary two bur-lesques, the first of which is entitled "Tim Sullivan's Chowder," said to be a funny combination of music and the prevailing humor of up-to-date vaudeville and extravaganza. The entertainment will conclude with the laughable "Fads and Follies, or a Night on the Boulevard." The olio, which, it is claimed, is above the average, will include Shattuck and Bernard, travesty artists; Bennett and Rich, with some new ideas in the illustrated song line; "Bim, Bom, B-r-r-r," a trio of musical clowns, and James F. Leonard and Frank Fogarty, Irish comedians. There will be the usual daily matinee.

Manager Kernan will next week present to his patrons Weber's "Dainty Duchess" Company. The artists are well known here. Elaborate costumes and gorgeous scenery and the brilliant and gorgeous scenery and the brilliant effects produced by the dazzling throng of beautiful girls are promised.

The burlesques, "Queen of Bohemia" and "Pickings from Puck," are said to be right up to date with funny situations. Miss Letta Meredith, who plays the principal part in the burlesque, appears to advantage in her roles, and displays a versatility seldom equaled displays a versatility seldom equaled to-day for scope and sparkle. Monroe and Mack, Harvey Sisters, Sol. Fields, Russell and Tillyne, Nellie Laurence and Company, Bartell and Morris, Kessler and Olwell, Ruby Marson, and a chorus of twenty-five beautiful girls will contribute to the performance.

Mr. Johnson began his "Short Talk" office in a manner that would do credit by saying that he was glad to assist in making pleasant things happen to Jones. He spoke briefly but eulogistically of the sterling qualities of Mr. Jones per sonally and of his administration of the Union's affairs. He said, in effect, that substantial benefits had come to a large percentage of the membership as a re sult of his judicious management; that Mr. Jones was modest and unassuming; that he did not use advance notices nor indulge in long-distance predictions, Union, No. 101. I have always been treated with the very pleasant experience of this kind during the past week, when a delega-tion of members of this Union, with Secetary Garrett and myself, called at the White House to urge the appointment of an old and honored member of the I. PATTON AND HUBBARD.

With this issue of THE TRADES UN-IONIST my connection with the paper ceases, having sold my interest to Mr. A. J. E. Hubbard, well and favorably known in typographical circles. It is all to the high standard desired by those in the labor movement, who earnestly

I most heartily commend Mr. Hubbard to the trades unionists of the District of Columbia, and, while thanking my friends for the many favors shown to me, ask that the same be continued to the new firm.

Banquets.

The banquet tendered in honor of our esteemed ex President, Edwin C. Jones, was a thoroughly enjoyable affair and like all good things creates a desire for

It is the opinion of the writer that if similar occasions were held at frequent intervals it should be productive of great good to the cause of unionism. The combination of food, drink, songs, and speeches (serious and facetious) conduces to a feeling of good fellowship and brotherly love that is well calculated to weld the ties of organized labor. At such times everyone is in a contented and happy mood and the mind is in a condition to receive favorable and lasting impressions. Men who have not had a speaking acquaintance see each other and involuntarily shake hands or pass a happy remark, all of which tends in no small degree to solidify our organization.

Among our national legislators, in all of the great secret societies, and in the business world generally, the social leature of the banquet board is recognized as a powerful factor in promoting the general welfare of all concerned.

The open weather of this climate is rather hard the chicken if it weighs over eight on apples, so Harry is in a quandary whether to make them into cider or apple butter.

Uncle Zidon Ross, who dates his origin away back in the misty past (many years before the advent of his fellow-mariner, the late George E. Dummer) "is just as young as he used to be." Although the frosts of so many winters have bitten his fingers and toes and the warm rays of so many summers suns have beaten down on his devoted head, his physical and mental forces are not abated, as evidenced by the elasticity of his step when approaching the proof table or when he startles his friend Roderick with one of his tragic recitations from Great Scott's "Lady of the Lake." One of Uncle Zide's special characteristics is love for the rock-ribbed hills of Vermont, where in prehistoric times, in company with the noble red man, he was wont to engage in the chase for mints that then roamed at will in the the equivalent. howling wilderness of the Green Mountains. At my elbow is a copy of the Manila Times, forwarded by Private Loomis. For the purposes of diversion has been organized the Royal Order of Rumdums, whose motto is "The wheels in our head grind slowly, but we're nutty just the same," and whose banner bears the inscription, "Touch One Another."

Like Topsy, the Patent Record Company the past week "just growed," se curing nine additional rooms of the Evans building. All departments are now connected by the Viaduct Company's telephone service. The staff of the Record business office has been augmented by the transfer from Baltimore of Misses Hattie Stein, L. M. Carner and A. S. Mellman. Supering the staff of the staff of the Record business of the Viaductic Company of the Stein, L. M. Carner and A. S. Mellman. Supering the staff of the Stein Stein, L. M. Carner and A. S. Mellman. Supering the staff of the Stein ney, and A. S. Mollman. Superintendent Shipley now occupies palatial apartments on the ground floor. Reader Babcock has been transferred to Room 8, third floor. Brother Bab's domicile resembles a cross between a vaudeville resembles a cross between a vaudeville intelligence office and the sanctum of a country editor. The desk of Foreman Sudworth occupies more commodious quarters. The utility part played by this gentleman enables him to answer with a country and provided the foreman country and provided the sanctive of the foreman country and provided the sanctive of the foreman country and provided the sanctive of the sanc with equal readiness to all titles from shipping clerk to solicitor, in the latter role he proving peculiarly efficious, it being a chill day when a trip up town does not result in the production of an order of no mean proportions. Mrs. Kaufman is now in charge of the bindery.

The press room finds something doing, one order of a million and a half coming from a patent medicine house, and another, just in, of 200,000,000 im pressions. For fear my audience will think I am prodigal with my ciphers, I spell it out—two hundred millions.

The appointment of Captain Meredith recalls the active canvas of Chicago Union in that gentleman's behalf some years since. A party of twenty-six craftsmen from the nearby villages of Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York had chartered a coach of the Santa Fe Road, and as their train crossed the Indiana line it was boarded by a reception committee from No. 16. They be Indiana line it was boarded by a reception committee from No. 16. They began to chant the praises of one Meredith, when one of our party said, "You see that thin fellow up at the other end of the car? He's the man you want to nail. He's got a Bureau story up his sleeve;" and the delegation followed his instructions. Arriving at Chicago, the same word had been passed along the line, and though carriage rides galore were on the programme, what little of the Windy City I was enabled to see on that occasion was over the shoulders of an efficient was over the shoulders of an efficient committee. Over in the "wooley" the scene was like unto it. In the snow drifts of Marshall Pass, 11,500 feet above the level of the sea, Mark Crawford would sing out, "Maud, don't forget my friend Meredith," while in the depths of the Little Mine at Aspen, 2,000 feet below the surface, I would encounter "Pard I tell you Mandith encounter, "Pard, I tell you Meredith is all right." There was no abatement There was no abatement in the zeal until a resolution of indorsement by the International was introduced by a member of the Washington delegation, Mr. E. W. Oyster.

"The Bureau story up his sleeve' to which my fellow voyageur alluded was an exhibit of the legislative committee of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, showing the relative merits of hand and machine printing and consisting of a roll of bills big enough, in the language of our friend, "to choke a young elephant." After a demon-stration of the output of both processes, the International readily indorsed the hand method.

Two stalwart rumors stalk the Washington thoroughfare-one to the effect that the next job Perry Heath holds down will be the Public Printership and the other that William R. Hearst plants one of the journals that are lurid in this city, with William J. Bryan as managing editor at a $25,000 salary.

of Government from Class Rule to the Referendum System Has Been Elevated to the Plane of a Perfect Country.

Since the publication of my article on 'Direct Legislation' in THE TRADES Unionist of November 15, I have been was told that the voting was done very Rissler had just computed the first ignorantly by many and even maliciously by others. Some are said to vote against every proposition merely because they are opposed to the Union. While it is difficult to conceive that yet that should be no argument against the use of the referendum in political matters. Men often differ about the advisability or usefulness of trade union regulations yet agree that governmental policies should be voted upon intelligently. Of course we can not, in any legislation, take account of all the fools, imbeciles, and other incompetent persons, and every scheme of improvement must ignore these classes.

The best proof in the world of the practicability of any scheme is the fact in actual use. This can be shown in

Fifty years ago Switzerland was more under class rule than we are to-day Political turmoil, rioting, civil war, monopoly, aristocracy, and oppression-that was the history of the Swiss nation until within a few decades. Today the country is the freest and mos peaceful of any in the world. What has wrought this change? Simply Union and the Referendum-Union fo strength and Referendum for justice. Union to stop riot and war-the Referendum to overcome monopoly, aristocracy, and oppression. A solid confederation of the twenty-two Cantons or States was founded in 1848. THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1900.

Will It Pass?

The last session of the Fifty-sixth Congress, which assembled last Monday, will adjourn ninety days hence by constitutional limitation. It is a ques tion if within that period any attention will be given to pending labor measures. It is probable that much desired labor legislation, particularly the Eight-Hour Bill, which at the first session of several Congresses, has passed through the House "like a rocket," will come down "like a stick" in the Senate.

It is safe to assert that no measure ever presented to Congress provoked to a greater extent the active hostility of the millionaire Government contractor than does this bill. Each session their emisaries at the opportune time are effectively in evidence in the Senate lobby and committee rooms. Through the agencies of well-payed shrewd attorneys and hired subordi nates they succeed in convincing the proper committee a measure which tends to the moral, mental and physical advancement of men is exceedingly injurious to the financial interests of these favored employers. Thus they have thrown on the legislative scales the profit dollar bearing the sweat marks of labor and all other considerations are outweighed.

This measure, perhaps, to a great extent than any other consideration by Congress has aligned upon the opposites, the forces of Capital and Labor. So far Capital has succeeded in defeating the measure and probably will continue to do so, so long as Congress will legislate to the contractor those functions which should be properly exercised by the general government.

When the legislation, formed by the enlightenment and patriotic sentiment of the people, will recognize the fact that legislation which tends to advance the standard of American citizenship and promote the industrial independency of the people is of far greater importance than lobby-breeded schemes for the incubation of "cinches," and the distribution of loot profits among a favored few, the eight-hour measure and other salutary labor measures, now pending in Congress, will become laws.

Our Dependency.

The absolute dependency of the Federal Government upon a few monopolistic concerns for battleship armor was made evident during the last several months, where the Carnegie and Bethlehem companies succeeded in forcing a $15,000,000 contract from the Navy Department, from which they will realize at least 30 per cent profit. The fact that after quite a period of negotiation with the representatives of the companies named Secretary Long succeeded in persuading the armor manufacturers to reduce the price formerly demanded by them is regarded as a very satisfactory termination of a matter of contract which threatened indefinite delay in the construction of several battleships. The contract having been awarded "upon terms highly satisfactory to the government," when regardleast of those utilities which are neces- taking shape. by that body relative to the purchase of armor plate, it is evident that in time there will be a wholesome awakening to the fact that a government, presumably of the people, is completey and helplessly at the mercy of contractors and corporations who, performing services properly the function of the government, are in a position to dictate terms and rake down enormous profits from the substance of the peo-

Bindery Notes.

The largest meeting ever held by the Women's Bindery Union was the last meeting. There were 248 members present. The following officers were elected: President, Miss Kate V. Smoot, who received 210 votes, M. J. Speaks receiving 38; vice president, Miss Nan nie T. Daniel, who received 202 votes, Bettie Spicer receiving 14; recording secretary, Mrs. A. M. Marye; financial secretary, Mrs. A. B. Pitts; treasurer, Miss Effie B. Ritchie; sergeant-at arms, Miss Agnes H. Reid; inspector, Miss M. Bailey; statistician, Mrs. Lucy Rotenbury; guide, Mrs. Minnie Osborne.

The trial of Arthur Simmons, Jr., for bringing odium upon the members of the Union by his many arrests for dishonest practices occupied three hours of the organization's time at the meeting last Tuesday night. The investigating committee, consisting of Charles Nelson, chairman, Wm. Taylor and Charles Knockey, reported and recommended that he be found guilty. The prosecuting officer, Theodore Hardy, took every advantage and deliberated at great length to convict Simmons and showed he was thoroughly acquainted with all the facts in the case. Arthur Simmons, Jr., selected for his counsel to defend him Wm. C. Connor, and he made no mistake. It was a surprise to all present. It was a grand and noble effort, with everything against him. He was doing his duty for the Union and for his client. He held the members spellbound-he made them laugh. The brief he filed, if it had been a court trial, would have acquitted Simmons. The exceptions to the charges were well drawn, and the members of the Union are perfectly satisfied that Arthur Simmons had no fault to find with his defense. Dr. Daniel McFarlan, who is one of the most respected members of the Union and treasurer for forty years, made a great appeal to the Union for the defendant. The case was then given to the members for a vote, which resulted in the accused being expelled.

Wagon Builders to Entertain.

At the session of the Carriage and Wagon Builders' Union No. 1, of Washington, D. C., held on the 28th of November, a committee was appointed to arrange for an entertainment and smoker, to be held in Typographical Temple December 19. The committee is composed of the following gentlemen: Chas. E. Mason, David Fegan, James L. Stevens, Wm. F. Langraf, Samuel L. Brummer, Thos. H. Brinkman, Geo. A. Krug, Francis Willcocks, James Bright, Thomas Gately and Wm.

On the 30th of last month the committee met and organized as follows: Chas E. Mason, chairman, and David Fegan, secretary.

The chairman stated that no effort would be spared to make the entertainment a success, and that he desired the hearty support and co-operation of each member.

It was formally decided to extend an invitation to every carriage and wagon maker in the District to be present, though not being members of the Union, as well as the presidents of the different organizations allied with the Central Labor Union. Other gentlemen prominent in labor circles will be present to enjoy the hospitality of the carriage makers.

The program will consist of recitations, vocal and instrumental music, rendered by occomplished local talent. THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1900.

Notice to Correspondents.

It being the desire of the publishers that THE TRADES UNIONIST centains each week news from and pertaining to each and every one of the different trades organizations affiliated with the Central Labor Union, we respectfully request that each body appoint a correspondent, or some member volunteer to furnish news items from their respective bodies. Items need not be lengthy, and if only the facts or details of import are given us they will be properly written for publication.

To our other correspondents, as well as those referred to above, we would request that correspondence be mailed us, or left in a receptacle for the purpose at the office, not later than Wednesday noon, to insure publication Thursday.

Believing this matter will receive the hearty support of all correspondents, we will endeavor to publish a paper in every way truly an official labor organ for the District of Columbia.

An Act That Doesn't Act.

The decision of the courts that the act of February 26, 1885, generally known as the alien contract labor law, does not apply to artisans, mechanics or skilled workmen, has to a great extent nullified the intent of the law and requires that vigorous efforts should be ade to have the law so amended that in the future it cannot be impaired by udicial construction. This measure having been formulated by the representatives of organized labor there can be no doubt that it was intended to apply to all classes of labor. It is evident, however, from the uniform decisions of the various courts that an army of alien contract artisans as large in number as was that of Xerxes could pass safely to our shores without encountering the slightest legal obstruction.

If consistency to any degree characterized legislation Congress would speedily and effectively amend the law and thus to an extent secure the American workman from the competition of the alien as he is protected from the competition of the products of foreign

This matter, in a broader sense, involves the question of unrestricted immigration. In this connection it needs to be explained why an army of custom officials are employed and required to hold up every individual, bag and baggage, arriving on our shores lest they smuggle some foreign bit of handiwork to the serious injury of the American workmen, when another army of employees wait at every port of entry to welcome, in the name of Columbia, a vast number of alien workmen and send them with a God speed to the factory, mine, and workshop in immediate competition with the labor of our country.

At the risk of telling a chestnut-Andy Keiner is responsible for it-here goes: A young lady went into a bookstore and asked the clerk, "Have you got 'Angel Lovers'?" "I'll see, miss," said the clerk. Returning in a minute or two, he said, "No, we haven't got 'Angel Lovers,' but we have the sequel to it." "The sequel!" said she; "what is it?" "The Heavenly Twins," answered the accommodating youth.

What sort of a contemptible spirit is it that controls the City and Suburban Railway Company and causes the present inexcusable, niggardly transfer system? Does anybody ride in st eet cars for fun, and would he be likely to travel around in a circle because he could get transfers for nothing? Formerly we could go from the northeast section to the southeast for one fare, and I used to pay it. Now it takes two fares, and I walk and don't pay any. In fact, for every fare I ever beat them out of by taking transfers I have since saved ten by walking. The soul of a corporation is in inverse ratio to its size, and it finally gets so small as its owner gets large that people say, "Corporations ferendum is very interesting, and he have no souls." THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

Where hold Potomac's waters flow By Arlington's majestic heights, There is a city in full view In which the pilgrim now delights.

'Tis Washington, whose grandeur thrills The hearts of patriots far and near, Fair city of a nation great That loves the boon of freedom, dear.

Queenly thou art, thy scepter wield, Great city of the nation,s pride For thee the bard has tuned his lyre And martyrs, noble, bled and died.

Will answer every call to arms And will thy sacred gates defend, Preserving ever all thy charms Beyond the stream, upon its banks,

At thy behest the soldiers brave

There is a city of the dead, Where annually the nation bows And living comrades softly tread.

Hills ancient that encircle thee, And streams bedecked in silvery sheen Present through seasons of the year A beauteous sight constantly seen Thy Capitol, high on the hill,

And Liberty which decks its dome Their vigils keep from year to year To guard the portals of our home Thy Monument of lasting stone

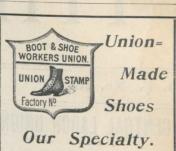

Whose pinnacle now glints the sky A grand memorial stands to one Whose glorious fame will never die. Dear Washington, thy name will live

Though thrones and monarchies decay Thy future greatness none can tell, Time will reveal thy perfect day. -JAS. M. MONTGOMERY.

Joseph K. Davison, of the Job Division, Government Printing Office, was elected chairman last week to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Morrison, transferred to the Library Branch, as proofreader. "Davey" had a hard fight, of the three-cornered variety, but under the generalship of Mark Barnum, who played the roll of Marcus Arelius with signal ability, the victory was complete. Out of 87 votes cast, "Davey" got all but 49, which were about evenly divided between Messrs. Wilson and Stephens.

The accompanying cut is a good picture of Mr. Davison, and was executed by him about twenty years ago.

Labor Notes.

President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, has declared against the proposition for compulsory arbitration of labor disputes which will be presented to the federation at its convention in December. Compulsory [arbitration, he declares, in its last analysis, would mean imprisonment for workingmen who refused to work for an undesirable employer, after having been ordered to do so by the courts, and would thus be a revival of slavery.

At the next convention of the American Federation of Labor an effort will be made to confine the representation to the national and international tradeunions and to exclude delegates from local-control organizations of various It is claimed that under the present system several trades, besides being represented by their own dele gates, gain extra representation through the seating of delegates from localcontrol bodies who belong to their local

After a discussion of the status of Berens & Sons, bakers, who have been listed as unfair for several months and whose bakers and drivers recently joined the bakers' union and drivers' union, respectively, the firm was taken from the unfair list.

A delegate from Columbia Typographical Union, directed by his organization, submitted a resolution requesting all local Woodmen camps to demand that all printed matter used or sent out by the Modern Woodmen of America bear the union label. It was stated that some time ago organized labor asked the Modern Woodmen of America, in head camp assembled at Kansas City, to legislate in favor of the union label. The request was acceded union label. The request was acceded to, and a resolution, which evidently reflected the favorable feeling of the Woodmen membership for organized labor, was passed. Notwithstanding this the result has not been all the this, the result has not been all that had been hoped for.

The delegates were instructed to bring the matter to the attention of the various unions and request any mem-ber belonging to the Woodmen to submit a resolution to their camps requiring the use of the union label.

At this stage of the proceedings Mr.

John Swift, American Federation organizer for Minnesota, was introduced and addressed the delegates on the subject of organization and education.
After the remarks of Mr. Swift, Mr.
J. L. Feeney, the delegate to the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor, submitted his report, which was read and placed on file. A vote of thanks was unanimously tendered Mr. Feeney for the able discharge of his duties as delegate. Delegate Ratigan offered the follow-

About the opening of the late Spanish-American war there was a story printed in the newspapers which told of a conversation between a boastful Spaniard and a truly patriotic American. It went like this: The boastful Spaniard said: Why, the Spaniards will land a force in Florida and march to New York and take possession without difficulty." petition. "That will be impossible," said the American. "Inpossible," said the Spaniard, "why impossible?" "Because the police will not let them," said the American.

I am reminded of this story by Mr. Bloomer's latest contribution to THE TRADES UNIONIST. He says, "the governing class will never permit that people? Is this "governing class" antagonistic to the people? If so we such as refer to the people's health, must oust the "governing class." A brother of our old friend Pollock was recently elected as one of the board of councilmen at Augusta, Ga., and Dave, in his note of congratulations, thought to suggest that it would be the proper caper to have the union label attached to all papers used in the transaction of the city's business. The suggestion was carried before the council and to-day the label appears on every completed blank. Tally!

How Not to Do It.

An instance of the miscarried intentions of those who are wont to pose as the specials of champions of the interests of the dear common people; who man. "Boss, I've stuck bigger papers at times get a "crick" in the back in than this 'fore now!" answers the would buy the stuff and get drunk at their futile attempts to lift the tax burden from the "muzzled ox that plowed more comfort out of old things-old the corn," and place it upon what they friends, old songs, old stories, and even greater exhilaration of being "treated" are pleased to term "the great aggregation of wealth," was demonstrated recently in the House during the consideration of the war revenue reduction bill. On this occasion Mr. Newlands submitted a proposition to tax industrial corporations whose gross receipts exceed $500,000, one-twenty-fifth of I per cent upon such receipts.

Giving due credit for good intentions and honesty of purpose to those who favor legislation of this character, it is possible that the method proposed, if legalized, would prove to a great extent abortive. Were the rich corpora tions thus taxed, ostensibly they would foot the tax bills, aggregating many millions annually, and apparently, as stated by Mr. Sulzer during the discussion of the measure referred to, "the big corporations would be compelled to bear their share of tax burdens." But really, would these "big corporations" pay to the tax gatherer millions of their substance when they are in a position to extort from Peterthe people-to pay collector Paul? Is it persumed that those who are interested in industrial corporations will unselfishly, through intense love for the dear people, reduce their dividends to borne by the masses? There must be solo entitled a radical change in the character of modern commercialism before we can reasonably suppose that the "great aggregation of wealth" will be disposed to forgo the pound of flesh when they have absolute control of the shambles. Even were it possible under prevailing economic conditions to compel the comparative wealth of the country to bear its share of tax burdens, wherein would the people be relieved when the corporations forced from the consumer an advanced price for their commodities largely in excess of the tax paid, or resorted to the usual alternative of cutting the wages of the employes?

It has become axiomatic that "the poor pay the taxes," not because there are more poor than rich but because in most instances, particularly in the case of corporation wealth, no method of taxation has yet been devised which will restrain the big corporations from taking a dime from the trouser pocket of the consumer and patron for every nickel paid by them to the tax fund.

A very interesting Christmas presentation took place in this division last Tuesday, John E. Snowden, Randall Bowie, and Frank W. Pettiford, helpers, being the recipients of a cash token of esteem tendered by the men, through the medium of our own Joe M. Johnson. Each of them expressed their gratitude and appreciation in a neat little impromptu speech that brought out encores.

Dud Fleming tells a button-busting story about trying to pass $20 gold certificates in Boston. People there not only refused his good money, but saddled him with suspicion and threat ened arrest as a counterfeiter, and when one of his pals exhibited a whole sheet of bills that had never been cut the jig was up. The story of their escape and flight to Washington to be identified by Secretary Gage can only be told by the persecuted victims.

Senor Emanuel Thomas, the star panhandler of this division, decided not to slight himself for Christmas turkey. Out of the lists he engineered he figured $3.20, which he said was all he could get. In the acknowledgment thereof on the bulletin board, the Godfearing gentleman gives due credit to the Lord for the offering, and in exceptional language invokes His blessing on the cheerful givers. Instead of turkey he will be able to buy an ostrich.

Emanuel says he is under an entire different "management from de press boys, see?" and so that is why he went on his own hook hunting for a turkey from among the boys. And he got there, too; and as an evidence thereof, read what Emanuel posted on tors. the bulletin board:

"To the Fourth Division Chapel: Thankful for all the cheerful givers in Auliffe in such a fit of jealousness that the name of the Lord, is willing to give me a nice turkey for Christmas.

"EMANUEL THOMAS."

Dud Fleming has commenced "see-Owing to the increased membership ing things" again. He came down Tuesday morning all puffed up over the good luck that he thought was coming to him, and expressed regret that the ponies had left Bennings. When asked to explain what license he had for thinking he was lucky he said that he got up very early that morning and saw the new moon over eigars for a Chiristmas present, or a his right shoulder. A Golden Opportunity.

Now that we have another four years let's all get together and see if it is not possible to benefit ourselves and posterity. At $4 per we should all endeavor to accumulate enough of the stuff that talks to raise us above the level of the ordinary breadwinner. This thing of working day after day and being subservient is not calculated to wreathe one's face in smiles, or to imbue our minds with that spirit of Chris- Driscoll's, N. Cap. and G sts. It is up to us. Now is our opportunity. Have you ever looked back over the past and speculated how much you Corner Seventh and D Streets. might have been worth had you confined yourself to the necessities of existence? Suppose we were to stop buying everything except the absolutely essential. Why, we could put the merchants on the bum and buy 'em out in a few years. Think of that! Wouldn't

As a rule we pay too little attention to the power of imagination. For instance, we imagine we are thirsty. We don't stop to analyze the thought, and the result is the price of a portion. Catch the idea? In the course of time we become abject slaves to our imagination. I imagine I need one now.

Some one has said that riches don't beget happiness. That's a big bluff started by some rich wise guy to throw us off the scent. There's a "smile' concealed in every 10-cent piece.

Amelioration of the Condition of Labor People in their Own Hands.

IN NEED OF FULL ORGANIZATION

The Laboring Class the Ultimate Rulers of Mankind-Members of Labor Unions Should Attain a High Standard of Perserverance, Honesty and Firmness, to Enable Them to Become Such - The Reading Circles as an Incentive Power.

I have read with great interest what Mr. Kelly and Mr. Bloomer have been saying in THE TRADES UNIONIST. So far as I am able to judge, the average member of organized labor cannot at this time be lead to adopt their suggestions which, in one form or another, have been presented to working people for several years past.

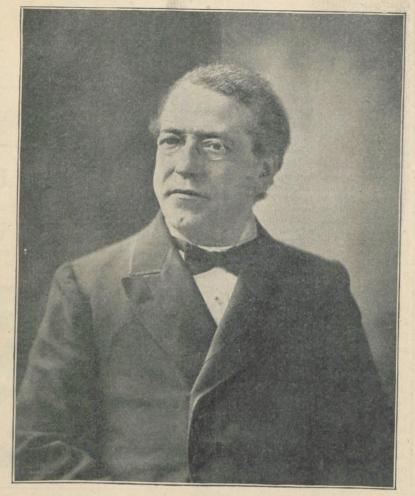

In my opinion, there is nothing more certain than at some time in the future the working class will rule the world. That time will come sooner or later, as working people shall fit themselves to be rulers. Rulers, to insure the continuance of their policies, must be men of high character who cannot be moved by temptations of wealth or of personal comfort; who hold to their principles and will not be turned aside from them, and who will be true to them in death and life. Men who are infirm of purpose, or who weary in well-doing, or who have not a perserverance that will overcome obstacles, can never become, for people. The first thing then, for working people to do is, to fit themselves, by acquiring high character for honesty, firmness and perserverance, to become, the rulers of mankind. Every man who wishes to advance the cause of the working people should advance every day in wisdom, virtue and knowledge, conduct during the day to know if he has kept his resolution to overcome some fault, to become an honester and truer man, and to gain some knowledge that will benefit him and his fellows.

Working people should combine in small numbers in some manner to study those things which will be of most interest to each one outside of his particular calling. The reading circle of the time may afford a monel for such study and work. This is next in importance to the complete mastery of one's trade or calling. As capitalists have found that individual capital is insufficient to carry on enterprises of profit and usefulness, and therefore combined their people what their plans and purposes capital for their greater profit, working people have found it to their interest to combine to better their condition. To make such combinations effective, working people must be thoroughly devoted quarters of a century, yet few people to them, and seek to establish them among all classes of working people, for, as society is now constituted, there is no other possible means for the advancement of the laboring class.

But working people have duties to perform as well as rights to mantain, they have combined in some of the and they should at all times insist upon workingmen performing the duties appertaining to their labors, as well as is yet to be fought out in the South as those appertaining to their citizenship. The latter they should consider a sacred in the Northwestern States of this trust, to be executed as faithfully as any other trust which may be placed in

Pick up a morning paper and the tale the telegraph tells is that, after giving the details of a sudden death, "he had but a few weeks before retired from active participation in business." Labor's Opportunity. The Minnesota legislature will endeavor at its next session to elect a successor to the late Senator Cushman K. Davis. The twin cities Minneapolis and St. Paul will undoubtedly have rival candidates in the field, and the millionaires will no doubt enter the race as they do in every senatorial canvass, and the poor but honest candidate who is the people's choice very seldom ever succeeds in winning the prize.

In the United States Senate at the present time labor has not a representative, and we need one very much in that body; if the organized labor of Minnesota would unite on a candidate there would be a good chance to elect one as the Minnesota legislature, we believe, cannot be bought at this time. One of the amendments to the Constitution of the United States guarantees, among other things, the right of the people to "peaceably assemble and petition for redress of wrongs." (I quote from memory.) But of what use is a petition if its prayer and the arguments in its favor are not made known to the power or body to which it is addressed? Half a hundred or more petitions are presented to Congress every day by being dumped into a box, out of which they are fished by a peti tion clerk, who proceeds to brief them

The Successful Business Career of a Georgetown Citizen Closed.

The funeral of the late James Ragan took place from his late residence this morning. The remains were accompanied to St. Joseph's Church by large delegations from the Master Plumbers Association, the Washington Lodge of Elks, and the Veteran Volunteers Association, and a large concourse of sorrowing friends, where services were held. By the death of Mr. Ragan the District of Columbia lost one of its most respected and progressive citizens. James Ragan was born in Georgetown sixty-two years ago, being a resident of the District ever since. Upon attaining manhood he engaged in the plumbing and steam fitting business. For a number of years prior to 1875 he acted as chief engineer at the Capitol, and superintended the heating and plumbing systems now in use in that building. He resigned that position to engage in business on his own account, and shortly before his death he completed a contract for remodeling the plumbing at the Capitol.

For several years Mr. Ragan served as President of the Master Plumbers' Association of the District of Columbia, and was a member of the board that framed the plumbing regulations now in effect in this city. Mr. Ragan was a member of the local lodge of Elks, and also of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association of which he was for a time the president. The memory of James Ragan will be long cherished by the members of John F. Murphy Local Union No. 5 of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters, and Steam Fitters' Helpers of the United States and Canada, and the Richard A. Lanis Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters of Washington, Local Branch No. 10, N. A., to whom he was always a sincere friend.

The New Bijou.

The Victoria Burlesquers will be at the Bijou next week. It will be remembered what a favorable impression this show made on its last visit. Since then great changes have taken place, and afforded old ideas have given way to new ones. It now contains more bright material than heretofore. The performance be than heretofore. The performance begins with a vaudeville cocktail entitled "The Victorias' Reception," presenting the full strength of the company. The olio is made up of the following specialties: Aggie Behler, the American chansonette; Reid and Gilbert, presenting fun and amusement: St Claire presenting fun and amusement; StClaire and Celeste, bright exponents of song and dance; Curtis and Sidman, Dutch and Hebrew ambassadors; Morrell and Evans, singers; Weiland, clown juggler, and as extra added New Year's feature, the "Seven Sohlkes," Augustus and Maude, and their five original little archipeligoans. The closing bur-lesque will be "A Queen of Bohemia." Matinees daily at the Bijou.

THE CENTRAL LABOR UNION

Resolutions Relative to Philadelphia Plate Printers' Strike Passed.

ENDORSES THEIR UNFAIR LIST

Communication Received From George H. Harries, Vice-President Washington Traction and Electric Company, Defining the Position of that Company Tooward the Railway Employes' Union.

After an adjournment over the Christ mas holidays the Central Labor Union met last Monday evening in regular session, which was called to order by Delegate J. H. Babcock. J. H. Brinkman was secretary. Delegate from twenty-eight unions responded to roll

A favorable report was made upon the credentials from Bricklayers' Union No. 1, Columbia Lodge of Machinists No. 174, United Brotherhood of Carpen ters and Joiners No. 190, and Columbia Typographical Union No. 101.

Reports endorsing the action of the central body in listing the Portner Brewing Company as unfair were made by Photo Engravers' Union No. 17, Bricklayers' Union No. 1, and Carpet Upholsters' Union No. 7597.

Several weeks ago a report was made to the central body that Frank Scheaf, a section superintendent of the Washington Traction and Electric Company, had very offensively opposed the employes becoming members of the recently organized union and it was deter mined to inform the official of the road of the fact, and, if possible, ascertain if the action of this subordinate represented the sentiment of the management. In reply to letters sent President Stevens and Vice-President Harries a letter to Secretary Brinkman from the last named gentleman was read in which he says:

"In response to your direct inquiry permit me to state that, from the time when the organization of the railway union was first mooted, all of the officers employed by our companies were notified that they were not in any way to interfere with any of the employes who would not countenance any form of inunion, and that is our position to-day, hibition of true unionism. If any one of our employes are found receive prompt and positive considera tion." A communication was read from H. W. Szegedy and T. L. Mahan, president and secretary, respectively, of the National Steel and Copper Plate Printers' Union, requesting the central body to adopt resolutions relative to the strike of the plate printers of Philadelphia The request was complied with and the following resolutions were adopted and ordered published in THE TRADES UNIONIST:

HEREAS Plate Printers' Union No 1, of the city of Philadelphia, chartered by the National Plate Printers' Union and affiliated with the American Fed eration of Labor, has been on strike since the 14th of December, 1900, for better conditions. Resolved, That the Central Labor Union of Washington, D. C., fully ap preciates and commends the stand taken by Local Plate Printers' Union No. 1, in the city of Philadelphia, and promises to aid them in their struggle in any way possible to bring about the desired result. After careful investigation we find that the demand of Local Plate Printers' Union No. 1, is justified in every particular, and we request that organized labor throughout the country will assist these brothers in this strive. We respectfully request that all friends of organized labor will patronize the following firms who have granted the scale to the Plate Printers' Union, No. 1:

> H. M. Beadle gave us a good sermor last week on "Organize, Educate Agitate," and the value of this standard advice is witnessed every day. We in the printing business especially realize the value of the first injunction, for whatever we have of advantage in the way of wages and short hours come to us because of our organization. It is true we have had the assistance of powerful friends. but would they have been our friends if it were not that we are strong enough to make our friendship worth having? But there are occupations that have no organization, and they are not sharers in our prosperity. There are the bookkeepers-a skilled profession-without a union, and what are their hours and wages? I now an electrical-supply house here that pays its electricians $3 50 or $4 a day (I don't remember their scale) for eight or nine hours' work, because they are organized, and its bookkeeper $12 a week for 12 hours' work a day because the bookkeepers flock by themselves. The pharmacists are in the same boat. With a vocation of which the law gives them a monopoly by requiring all pharmacists to be registered and licensed, they receive $40 or $50 a month because they have no union and compete with each other. The proprietors will tell you they can not afford to pay more, but it is a poor business that can not afford to pay living wages, and the well-known profits of the drug business give the lie to that statement. It is because they do not have to pay more. I saw a Labor Bureau statement not long ago to the effect that occupations in which the workers are organized receive 25 per cent more wages than those unorganized.

Central Labor Union.

Next Monday the regular election for officers of the Central Labor Union will be held and the present incumbent of the office of President has announced that he will not be a candidate again for the office that he has so ably filled. In the retirement of HENRY W. SZEGEDY from the office of President that body loses an officer who has conscientiously performed his duty. He has been elected for six consecutive terms and he could secure a re-election if he so desired. In selecting his successor care should be taken that the right man is nominated and elected. The central body has prospered under the leadership of President Szegedy and his successor should be a man of even temper, clear headed, and free from leadership or a participant in any factional dispute that has arisen or may arise. The President of the Central Labor Union should command the respect and esteem of every delegate. There are in the body several men of intelligence who would creditably fill the office, and in the interest of the many locals affiliated therein we hope no mistake will be made in the selection of a competent presiding officer. THE TRADES UNIONIST has no candidate for the office, but simply desires the selection of a capable man.

Individuals of this character as members of trade unions have, at most, but a crude conception of the principle which gives force and vitality to the labor movement of the country. Their horizon is bounded by a day's work and the wages therefor, and so long as that is attained they are perfectly willing to impose the labor incidental to organization upon others and then imagine that they evidence their unionism by criticising and fault find-

At the turning of a corner Mrs. Lockwood let her little child drop out of the vehicle and she leaped out, sustaining severe injuries. The child escaped without a scratch.

When one looks retrospectively east, west, north, and south through the old building on the corner of H and North Capitol streets and even vaguely com prehends the vastness of space and the immensity of the resources of the great est printery in the world, it is difficult for the mind to grasp the infinitesimal littleness of the worker in this immense plant who imagines the fixtures, the material, and the tools of trade are intended solely and exclusively for oneman service. The great American pig of selfish ignorance it is proclaimed prevented his carrying out the work reveals himself in diverse places. Sometimes the day man, sometimes the on its own bottom." This can be and which has resulted in the loss of night man shows his bristles and at the same time his propensity to disregard every principle of good fellowship toward his brother craftsman. Personal discomfort, it may be inconvenience, can oftimes be greatly minimized and the rough edges of imaginary wrongs may be tempered and softened with a little more of the spirit of universal toleration.

> The whinning "cheap skates" who patronize railways and street cars every day in the year have brought about a transition in the transportation problem during the past twenty-five years that probably exceeds anything in the catalogue of progress. From slow-moving, uncomfortable stage coaches, tramcars, and bob-tail horse-cars, which were rarely profitable to their promoters, we have arrived at a period where convenience, comfort, combined with rapid transit, make it a pleasure to travel. The aforesaid "cheap skates" contribute enough cold cash every year in car fares to enable soul less corporations to pay millions of dollars in dividends to their stockholders. If a man wants to travel on top or underneath a car, let his desire be gratified. He should reflect, however, George R. Merriam was on leave before decrying the feelings and motives of persons who demand what they The sick and excused numbered are willing to pay for.

JUST EVERY-DAY LIFE

My "Lady in Literature" is howling. She states that a few years since an in dividual who could not make the rounds in Washington and secure a batch of As stories must be new at the business. Now the several "good things" are held up by the several officials for magazine or newspaper use over their signature.

I was talking to a savant in one of the branches of the Smithsonian. He attends the meetings of the American Baltimore Dental Parlors, Association for the Advancement of Science and contributes literature to kindred societies. "You ought to have Corner Seventh and D Streets. that paper of yours pulished," says I. "Yes, I intend to," he responded-here I pictured myself turning in copy for a booklet to a publishing house I had in my mind's eye-" after I round it up a bit I am going to send it over to the - Magazine."

I always read the want column. Summer before last, when I would pick up the Times and see an advertisement worded a certain way I knew a certain female was minus a position. Believe me, here was an instance where educa tion and more or less good looks proved an actual bar to the holding of the place of a menial. The lady in question was one of those few women who can make the transition from the hall room to the ball room within the hour. Could dress in frigid black and, with a colored ribbon at the neck or waist, assume a most presentable appearance. She was working for a family on Capitol Hill, and one day, in the course of conversation with the lady of the house, happened to use the word quintessence. Madame John Wanamaker asserted that she was familiar with al the essences, but never had she heard of a quint essence. The retort was made that any other crime than ignorance might be condoned. Then came a parting of the ways, and our dear girl was jobless.

Then, in response to an advertise ment, she landed over on Fourteenth street. All went well until the husband put in an appearance for the evening meal. As he entered the dining room and his admiring eyes fell on the "new girl" he gave utterance to a prolonged whistle. She colored, while the female head of the house looked daggers in seven languages. He was old enough to know better, but at each meal time this performance was repeated. At the end of a week my friend could stand it no longer. So she says to madame: "I assure you I never met the gentleman before in all my life. There has not been, is not, and can not possibly be anything between us. Surely you can not hold me responsible-

"No; I know you are not responsible for the fact that my husband is a fool but then I would rather you would find a place elsewhere.'

Again the advertisement. This time it was answered by a gentleman who long since won his spurs on tented field and whose name is a familiar one in the business circles of the nation's capital. He drove down in his buggy to her modest boarding place and engaged her in less than a minute after he was ushered into the parlor, insisting that she should accompany him at once to his home in the far northwestern suburbs. She said that would be impossible, and finally was forced to give as a reason for refusing that her week's washing was at that moment at the home of a colored woman over on Tenth street. That would be all right, he insisted. They would drive right around and get it and take it out with them. Her trunk, he said, he would send his negro man down after in the morning, when he came to town after some groceries. Making a hasty toilet, the lady started, securing a large bundle from the residence of the Tenthstreet wash woman en route. Drizzling when they started, by the time they reached that long, sandy strip known as Connecticut avenue extended a heavy downpour had set in. Putting up the buggy top and remarking that they were now as snug as two bugs in a rug, the gentleman proceeded to put one arm around the waist of our friend. A hearty slap in the mouth was next on the program, followed by a spirited session, which ended by a lone female, accompanied by a large bundle of washing, making a three-mile trip to the city in a driving rain storm, being too spirited to accept car fare. The negro never called for the trunk.

Mr. Oscar J. Ricketts Called Chapel to Order in a Neat Speech-Presentation of Kalamazoo Celery Pickles Queen Olives a Gold Fountain Pen to Old Member-Remarks by Edwin C. Jones-Resolutions of Sympathy for Sick Members Adopted— Maryland Quail au Cresson Letters Received from Absent Members

On Monday evening at 8 o'clock the annual reunion and banquet of the Old Third Division of the G. P. O., as it existed from 1890 to 1894, was held at Reuter's. Former members of the division to the number of 57 assembled around the festive board, and for four hours partook of the elaborate menu and listened to the flow of oratory and wit that always abounds at the Old Third's banquet.

The invitations were printed in the form of a U. S. Supreme Court brief, reminding the recipients of the old days when they were compelled to lay aside "phat" census tabs and "take out" on the small pica brief work which was always "rush." The following is the brief and it is unnecessary to say that the court ruled affirmatively on the point stated:

AROUND THE PRINTERIES.

Down Town.

Cheer up!

Matt Hayes has left us.

Work down town continues dull. Baltimore letter arrived too late for publication this week.

Columbia Debating Society will take up the canteen question next Friday afternoon, Messrs. Heming, Bynum, Jaques, and Clements being the partic ipants. At the same time the annual in that island without food or shelter, election of officers will take place.

It is rumored that a club has been organized for the purpose of creating a better social and friendly feeling among printers. Why not follow ex-President Jones's advice and give a banquet and invite all the "would-be" candidates for delegates, and give them rate and have a banquet of the young a chance to "spread." The name of Third? It could be done with ease the club, it is stated, will be "30-Good- and at no large expense at that. I sugnight Club."

The grip put A. L. Randall, our assistant foreman, in bed for a few days. James Haslet took his place at the desk and Uncle Si Phelps looked after the post-office.

The relief association paid E. F. Geyer a handsome compliment recently by re-electing him secretary. No wonder, for Geyer is as courteous as he is handsome, as polished a gentleman as you will meet in a day's hunt.

John A. Phillips, while coming down the stair steps of his house the other morning, made a misstep and landed at the bottom of the steps in a heap The fall was a serious one and caused Phillips no end of pain, besides entailing loss of time from the office.

The substitution (by your devil) of the word "three" for the word "then," caused me to say "Graff received almost double the votes of the three can didates," whereas it should have read "Graff received almost double the vote of the then candidate, but now good-aselected delegate," etc.

The Commercial Mote.

It is currently reported that the authorities of New York are preparing for a more or less vigorous crusade against the vice and crime prevalent in that city. Whatever may be the outcome not even the most optimistic dreamer city of the leprosy sin and convert municipal fist will be raised more or public display of tattered scarlet. Per him to cast the first stone may credit himself, the municipal authorities-and Providence for what was done. For did not public sentiment, led by parson and press, demand that the Magdalines be stoned and the notorious places of vice and crime be closed? And if this is done will the righteousness of Gotham, led by parson and press, demand that the commercial buccaneers of the sweat shop be scourged and that these breeding places of disease, vice and crime be eliminated?

Through the tawdry drapings of the bagnio they beheld the revolting rev elries of sin; will they observe behind the screen of heartless commercialism the sweat shop miseries of hopeless, that reason is tolerated though the and death lurks in every garment the filthy fingers of the sweat shop slaves have made. Flotsam and Jetsam.

I like to "reminisce" and let my mind run back to persons and things that were and are not. It is said that it is a sign of age when a man gets in that condition, for the aged live in the past; but in my case every one knows it is different. A quarter of a century, though, makes a wonderful change in the personnel of a community. When I first went in the proof room, in 1882, I found there, among others, Melvin Noyes, William Towers (father of the present W. H.), John Furlong, George Gregory, Frank and Fred Stitt, E. M. Speddon, C. A. Waterman, E. W. Dennison, Jim Osborne, Jake Slentz, Mr. McDermott, W. H. McFadden, Isaac Fuller, Judge Griggs, J. W. Shotwell, H. A. Foresman, A. T. When the Durham (N. C.) tobacco works was in its inciniency the head of the concern had some labels printed in a neighboring city-a North Carolina friend tells me this story. The foreman of the office was General John C. Gorman, who, ten or twelve years ago, was an employee of what is now the first division, G. P. O., as all the older men will remember. He has since "gone to his reward." Gorman submitted a proof of the label, and the customer said:

Charlie O'Doten handed me a copy the other day of the "Illustrated, Trade Edition" of Bob Smythe's Harrison burg (Va.) Evening News. It contains 12 pages of illustrations, descriptions, and biographies depicting Harrisonburg's institutions and prominent men, on heavy paper, every page being thickly studded with half-tone engravings of street scenes, noted buildings, and portraits. The magnitude of the undertaking shows that the News is a well equipped printing establishment and that its head is an enterprising man. Mr. Smythe is an example of what a young man can do. Though born in Kansas, still he forges to the front. In his extremely modest sketch of himself, contained in exactly a dozen lines, he says:

Robert B. Smythe, publisher of the Evening News, was born in Kansas in the year 1866 At the age of 16 he left home and made the circuit of the globe pefore he was 21 years old, working nis way as a printer and newspaper writer. Since then he has been employed in the larger cities of the United States and the Government Printing Office, until May 1, 1898, when he established the Evening News.

Mr. Smythe was so well known here, where he was a candidate for presiden faint recollection of hearing of it at the of the union a few years ago, that there time, but it had faded out when the will be felt a general interest in his enterprise and rejoicing at his success

A sister, Mrs. Agnes Rowan, who made her home with her brother, also survives him.

Merry Bakers.

The members of Bakers and Confectioners' Union No. 118 and a num ber of invited guests enjoyed a social entertainment given by the organization last Saturday evening at Typographical Temple.

The program consisted of music by Krosskurth's orchestra; comic and sentimental songs by Henry Wesburg and Harry Jeffries; comic recitations in German by Otto Harring, and short addresses by John Swift, of the Minnesota State Federation; John H. Brink man, Secretary Central Labor Union, and Samuel Nedery organizer I. T. U.

The entertainment was the first given by the union since the membership of former Baker's Assembly 2389 disbanded their organization and attached themselves to the union. This fact was a matter for general congratulation and added additional pleasure to the occa sion. The result of this consolidation, it is said, has materially benefited the bakers, as they report a membership of 175, which includes all the efficient bakers in the city.

The entertainment was in charge of the officials of the union, who are: John Weber, president; Henry Volmer, vicepresident; Fritz Schulz, financial secretary; Frank Link, recording secre- 311 EAST CAPITOL ST. tary; Otto Seebode, treasurer, and Well patronized and well liked. A Business View.

It should need no argument to con vince that class of business men who deal in necessary and staple products that they should encourage and promote the organization of labor. They recognize the self evident fact that the individual who receives a sum sufficient to enable him to satisfy all reasonable wants is a more profitable customer than is he who driven by inexorable necessity is forced to limit his expenditures within the bounds of a beggarly wage. Therefore any effort made to advance the wages of the working class in any community means the general advancement of the interests of that locality. It means the uplifting of humanity to the plane of creditable citizenship, which can only be maintained under those conditions where a community is well housed, well clothed, and well fed. These material creative comforts are productive of those higher moral and intellectual elements upon which must rest our social structure and the stability of the State.

It must be admitted without question, that if this, as a condition of the wageworkers, universally prevailed all classes would be materially benefitted. Regarded from the selfish view-point of commercialism the masses would be larger consumers for they would be too late for notice. They all have inexperience of youth. usufruct of the world's labor. The many would not be homeless and penniless with their noses eternally at the grindstone of abject poverty; many unable to fully supply themselves with the products of their labor, while others only receive a meagre share of the "over production" of the common necessities through the medium of a board of charities. Quite a large per hours deplete every store house in the country. To place the masses in that position is the mission of organized labor and those who have any regard for humanity and country should encourage and promote the organization of labor, and bid it GoD-speed in its efforts to elevate the manhood and womanhood of our country.

'Omaha'' Blakemore—G. P. O. News= paper Men-Sibley Hospital-John Jack-"F. A R." Harry Cowles, etc.

Willard Blakemore will be well remembered by all who were here in the seventies and early eighties as a jolly, whole-souled, erratic, devil-may-care fellow. Though an Iowa boy, he was universally called "Omaha," and he had a vigorous way of stating things that left no room for a suspicion of ambiguity. His first appearance on the G. P. O. stage was the occasion of an incident showing his straight fowardness of speech. He came to the office with a letter from Senator Wilson (I be lieve), of Iowa, and on presenting it he

"Mr. Blakemore, this letter will be placed on file, and when there is a vacancy you will be informed," in the artless manner in vogue in those days. "Omaha" left the office and went to the Senate Chamber (Congress was in session), calling Senator Wilson out to the lobby. "Hell, you haven't got any influence!" was his greeting when the Senator appeared.

"What did you say?" asked the Senator.

"I said you haven't got any influence. They said they would put your letter on file and send for me when they wanted me," said "Omaha."

the Senator.

They rattled down to the G. P. O., and of course "Omaha" went to work. (I think I have told this story before, but what do you care?)

"Omaha," Jack Hamilton, Tom Salmon, and Charlie Conaty formed a quartette of roystering young blades who made Rome howl and painted the Vatican and the Quirinal red about once a month. "Omaha" was well known throughout the land as a tourist, and his resources were remarkable. He left here in the early eighties, finally became mentally unbalanced, and ended his days in an asylum, according to report.

A great many gentleman throughout the big printery experienced last week what it means to "bump up against the hard and cruel world." Many printers own Mergenthaler stock, and when that stock dropped to $160 last strenuous man in his alley. Saturday it gave them a scare that almost resulted in heart failure. Incidentally, this stock seems to be the most spasmodic of any on the market. It has only been a few months back since it was quoted at $230.

It is rumored around that A. L. Randall will enter the spring handicap for delegate. Well, I do not see why Al. should not be elected. He has long been a member of Columbia Union and has served it in many capacities thereby coming in touch with a great majority of the printers. Al. has many friends who would like to see him enter the field, and while he could not expect to get all the votes he could no doubt land with a handsome majority.

I overheard some folks discussing the chairmanship of this room the other day, and from what I could understand Morgan will be hanging from the "sour apple tree" at the next handicap-that is, if he does not elect himself before anyone knows what is going on. Morgan has a tenacity for holding office that is phenomenal. Yet if his friends stick to him in the future as they have in the past and elect him I don't hnow that it behooves me to kick. However, the plot was laid, and we shall see whether it thickens during the remainder of this term.

There is always a scrap going on over in "bug house" row. "We never speak as we pass by" is up on every frame, with the single exception of same. "Don't Forget The Union Label." Note.—The words and music of this song has just been composed by Thos. H. West, the well-known compositor of "Stick to Your Union," the official song of the American Federation of Labor. It is dedicated to the Women's International Union Label League and it is the compositors hope that its rendition will aid in creating a sentiment towards the demand for the union label. 311 EAST CAPITOL ST. A piano copy of this beautiful song will be sent to any address on receipt of 10 cents. Address Thos. H. West, Kansas City, Mo.

There's a precious little emblem That's familiar to you all, It's a tried and true protector, come what may. And where labor is united

In response to duty's call, There this brilliant little star lights up the way For its mission is to bring about The brotherhood of man. There's nothing can your rights so well defend

So help it on with deed and word In every way you can. Don't forget the Union Label, it's your friend.

CHORUS. It will make improved conditions, Better homes, a better wage, And aid to its advancement you should lend.

It will make your country better, It will brighten history's page. Don't forget the Union Label, it's your friend.

Though apparently so silent Yet it speaks throughout the land, For the noble cause its striving to uphold And to free the sweatshop slaves The Union Label takes a stand

From their wrechedness and miseries untold. It will educate the people To the evils that exist And success will crown its efforts in the end.

Help it on its noble misson; It will win if you persist, Don't forget the Union Label, its your friend.

of the resolutions which were proposed and unanimously adopted by our class at a meeting held on Wednesday eve ing, January 23, 1901.
These resolutions are not for the purpose of show or advertising, but we can assure you that it is the sincere desire of this class that we shall have our invitations, etc. for our closing exercises done only by firms employing union labor; and nothing that this class c n do will be left

In conclusion I will say that I have tried to make an always that I have expended more strength and nervous while pushing down the space between keep it up year in and year out, too, with the result that they never reached above mediocrity. Yet others attribute it to quickness of intellect. But while I have never met a swift who was not and sheckles in putting up big strings, and I think it will be always and the putting the number of years I worked on piecework, when there were glory and sheckles in putting up big strings, and I think it will be always and the putting the number of years I worked on piecework. above the average of intelligence I and I think it will be acknowledged have, nevertheless, seen some of the that it is practicable and feasible in brightest intellects at the business who were painfully slow printers. Of course to be a fast compositor it requires ambition, the faculty of "stickativeness, and the qualities above mentioned, but not to an abnormal degree.

What, then, is the cause of the dis-parity between the speed of printers, all things being equal mentally and physically? It is simply that one man has a more "false motion," to use a trade technicality, than his neighbor. What is it that causes the false motion? It is caused, first, by neglect to locate a type with the eye before touching it setting a study would make public his system or a system whereby the much-coveted goal may be reached. He also or rigid while working. These are the principal obstacles to acquiring speed. How shall a false motion be overcome? I will first draw attention to the part the eye plays in this question. To un-derstand clearly what follows it must be borne in mind that the hand is much quicker than the eye. It follows, then, that the hand must follow the eye and the eye be the guide of the hand. When a type is located with the eye let the hand move toward it, and while doing so turn the eye to the next type needed, always making it a point to look for the head of the type. It will surprise you to find that the fingers will go direct to the particular type located and pick it in although the way her head of the particular type located and pick it. with the Central Labor Union. The practice of this principle for a short time will enable one to accurre a considerable with the eyes of about the art of fast type setting in the A man can set type only so fast as his eve can locate the type—not as fast as his hand can move. The next most essential aid to speed in setting type is that the wrist and forearm must be loose and flexible while working, depending on the mus-cles of the biceps to do the work. This holds good not only in type setting but and of his many commendable traits of character as a husband and father. He began work at the age of fourteen years, so that for sixty eight years his life was devoted to zealously dischargquired, nor could he draw a graceful curve or line, with a stiff wrist. The violinist would find it impossible to play a smooth legato or crisp staccato if he held his wrist and forearm rigid. Nor could the billiard player execute a shot with any degree of accuracy if he did not keep the muscles of his wrist and forearm flexible and loose. This looseness of the wrist saves 25 per cent of labor in setting type. It also insures accuracy in picking the type and sures accuracy in picking the type and helps to preserve the softness of the signia, filed into the room and took a last look at their dead brother, who for more than half century was a fami-

There is scarcely a large concern in the country that is not now using some sort of a typesetting machine, and that the machines are One year (in advance) - - - $1.00 economical is proved by their continued use and the new ones being installed. The Linotype machine is not the only one in the market by any means, though it is the best adapted for newspaper work, and therefore there are more of them in use than of any other kind. But there are single-letter or monotype machines, the product of which has all and the Building Trades Council, as well as the capacity for correction and overrunning that hand-set type has. That they do good work is evidenced by the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post and Ladies' Home Journal, two as handsome publications as there are anywhere, which I am told are machineset. A well-known "Swampoodle" business man was overheard to say the other day, in answer to a question whether they had machines in the Government Printing Office, "No, but they will have as soon as they get into the new building." What knowledge he pased his statement on I have no means of knowing, but he said it as though he knew. When the time comes and the machines are in sight, I do not believe in making a fight against them. It will be fruitless and a foolish waste of our substance. We can not take as an example the plate printers' victory over the machines, for we have not the machines are many who is fit to be a force of the machines are in the fit to be a force of the machines are in the fit to be a force of the machines are in the fit to be a force of the machines are in the fit to be a force of the machines are in the fit to be a force of the machines are in the fit to be a force of the machines are in the fit to be a force of the craft. I don't think making a practice of the craft. I don't think making a practice of patting me with me w the machines, for we have not the ground to stand on that they had. The plate-printing machines did not have a powerful corporation to push them, as have typesetting machines, and the plate printers are artisans of whom there is hardly a sufficient number in the country to do the work, while ours is a trade that is so overdone that we are weakened by that very fact. We can lie back in our chairs and say com-

remember the time when we said, "Oh, you can't make a machine that will set type—that requires brains." There is much work there, it is true, that machines can not do in its present style; but as newspaper styles are made to conform to the capabilities of the ma-chines, so can almost all of our work It is useless to struggle against the progress of the age, and the man or body of men who do so only expend terially alleviate the hardships of the I do not anticipate that Mr. Palmer would introduce machines of his own motion, nor that the office will be fully equipped at one fell swoop. In 1882 or 1883 he took his family and went to California, putting in a year in that State, Oregon, Washington, and Idaho, when he returned to this city, was reinstated in the G P.O. and remained there until he died, in 1894, the last three or four years on Specifications. He was as unselfish, whole souled a man as ever lived, and

A friend of mine told me the other the Nebraska Soldiers' Home. A friend of mine told me the other day another instance of a man being practically kicked into prosperity by apparent adversity. A wood worker fed his hand into a machine, disabling him permanently for his occupation. Forced to draw on his wits, he so managed his opportunities that in two years he owned the factory in which he had been crippled.

A friend of mine told me the other the Nebraska Soldiers' Home. Originally from Penn Yan, N. Y., he was a washington newsboy during the early part of the war, later enlisting and serving in a United States cavalry regiment. He was an inveterate "hobo" in the days when that gentle and as a "train jumper" he had no superiors. He was remarkably dextrous been crippled.

The various foremen of the G. P. O. received an increase of salary about the first of the year, bringing them up from $1,800 to $2,000, according to my information. This is a step in the right direction, but the compensation is still less than it ought to be when compared with large private establishments throughout the country. There is probably not a foreman of any of the great newspapers of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, or Cincinnati who gets less than $50 a week ($2,600 a year) and many of them get $60 or more, and the great book houses pay about the same salaries. True, foremanships do not go begging at the present rate of pay, but they have not been receiving as great an advance over their subordinates as they should according to the traditions and ment-but a man who is fit to be a foreman is worth about double the pay of the ordinary or average man.

The word "selfish" divided on "sel" is the worst kind of billingsgate. (I worked this on my right-hand deskmate the other night, and as he said it was good, so I have embalmed it.)

I don't believe there is a man connected with the printing business any where in the United States who is no known to somebody in the G. P. O. chanced to discover a year or two ago that the man who first showed me the space-box route to reputation and an easy life is still living, out in Missouri (he isn't a very old man either), and I mentioned the fact in the presence of Major Russell.

"Can you roll?" asked Marens.

Expansion seems to be the order of the day. By a change in Patent Office methods a new form of jacket for the specification and accompanying papers has been adopted, which has necessitated the removal of the old and supplying a new receptacle for the accommodation of compositors. As is usual with all innovations, the change was discussed pro and con, and for a time the concensus of opinion was that Uncle Sam had been terribly buncoed that there was circumstantial evidence sufficient to show that he was off his base, particularly at the time when he decided upon the change, but as the force began to get used to the load they gradually acquiesced and now the expansion theory is growing in favor, and all without a call of the chapel.

Steam Fitters Declare Johnson & Morris of New York and Arlington Hotel of This City, Unfair-W. E. Kennedy Elected as Business Agent-Discharge of Employees of Washington Traction and Electric Company Discussed.

At the meeting of the Central Labor Union held last Monday evening dele- You should have gone to Morrow yesterday and gates from thirty-nine organizations responded to roll call. The session was Feeney; John H. Brinkman, secretary.

Under the order of communications a personal letter was read from William A. Larkin, acting secretary of Painters' Local Assembly, 1798, Knights of Labor, addressed to Mr. John Brinkman, which stated that the assembly "has no reason or desire to make any changes." This letter, it is presumed, is in response to an official communication sent to the assembly by the Central Labor Union inviting them to become allied with the National Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators and become represented in the Central Labor Union.

A communication was also read from Edward J. Ratigan, president of the local Building Trades Council informing that body that representatives from a sufficient number of organizations having desired that the council be Can you go anywhere tomorrow and come back called in session a meeting will be held at Costello's Hall, 610 G street northwest, on Tuesday evening, February 26.

The Steam Fitters submitted a communication from the Drop Forgers and Hammer Men's Union No. 47 of Boston, Mass., conveying the information that the Trimont Wrench Manufacturing Co., of Roxbury, Mass., is unfair to organized labor and requesting that the sale of the "Trimo Wrench" be discouraged until the firm employs union labor. The request was approved and the letter placed on file.

The steam fitters reported that their association had declared as unfair Johnson & Morris, of 30-32 W. 13th St., New York, doing business in this city at 509 11th St. N. An Act of Simple Justice.

It would be impossible for the most rigid economist or most faithful "watchdog of the Treasury" to frame any good reason for discrimination against the per diem employes of the navy yards in the matter of leave with pay Formerly-and not many years ago-no such leave was granted to any per diem employes. Salaried officials, from the lowest to the highest rating, were, as they now are, given thirty days annually for recreation, and an additional sick leave for the same length, while those whose compensation was reckoned by the day had no leave at all. When a mechanic or laborer in Government service was disabled by an accident to the machinery or an explosion his pay stopped, not at the close of the day, but at the hour when he stopped work. For ought we know to the contrary, that is still the rule.

But after a long effort to secure something like justice, the employes of the Government Printing Office and Bureau of Engraving and Printing were granted the annual leave. Why the navy-yards' employes have not long ago been treated with equal courtesy, we shall not try to explain. Their deserts are as great as those of any other public servants. If it be right and politic to give the chiefs of bureaus and divisions, and the clerks under them, a vacation with pay-and we think it is-it is equally just, equally in accordance with sound policy to extend that favor to every man and woman whose name is on the Government pay-roll.

The navy-yard employes modestly asked for only fifteen days, and both branches of Congress have granted the

The following verse is from the wellknown pen of 'Manuel Thomas:

Who swiped my spaces and my quads? I'd like to know be jabbers. If I could get my hands upon Those gol darn midnight robbers

I wouldn't do a thing to them But tear them all to paces; Vou bet they'd never try again To steal my quads and spaces.

So the suburb of Woodridge caught him. He is going to run a summer hotel. In the good old days Frank was eternally looking for a hotel, and it is a safe bet that he will enjoy owning one now. He will also have occasion to indulge in old-time customs. After the whistle blows at 4.30 he will hie himself to the yards and catch a friendly freight for Langdon, from which point he will drill across green fields, when, lo! a summer hotel will loom up before him. Frank will recognize it as his own, and he will go in and order drinks for himself. He will then eat a big dinner and congratulate himself on the fact that he doesn't have to saw wood for it.

Bindery Notes.

We have just received a telegram from Geo. O'Connor that he will posi tively appear and will sing some new "Buffo songs." The committee ex pects to secure the services of Miss Dolly Leach who has appeared before all the royal families of Europe in her refined drawing-room act. Mr. Wm C. Connor will take charge of the stage, Dr. Daniel McFarland will look after the welfare of the guests, and Gustave W. Wiegand has been ap pointed floor manager and John W Dwver assistant.

Prof. Holmes will open the second part with a string orchestra of mando lins, banjos and guitars. This gentleman has directed the largest string Corner Seventh and D Streets. orchestra of this kind in the city, and has achieved phenomenal success. Mr. Weston, monologue artist, and numerous other shining lights in the professional arena will be on the program that evening. The New Grand will be closed that week on account of the convention being held there. The committee has secured the orchestra of the theater and they have promised to score the musical hit of the season Miss Isabel M. Pechin is engaged to appear in humorous recitations.

Mr. Arthur Middleton will capture the hearts of the ladies at the Book binders' Entertainment, February 21, when he sings his bass solo "Down in the Deep." The song is new and will be sung for the first time. He has a very deep voice which he uses with genuine feeling. Ten minutes fun with Billy Conley will also be one of the numbers. Billy is the funniest come dian in Washington and an ideal enter tainer, and, judging from the many encores he receives, is very popular. He has just finished an engagement with the Lafayette Stock Company. Mr. Guy G. Gangler, the favorite cornet soloist of Haley's band, will appear, and also Mr. Jno. Edbel will play a trombone solo, "In the Deep Cellar." These artists have extraordinary marks of high official endorsement in concert work.

Consumers' Co-operative Store.

Recently a meeting of the Consumers' Co-operative Store was held at 419 10th street N. W. Notwithstanding the objects of the association are not generally known, there was a large attendance and the success of the plan assured Constitution and by laws were adopted and officers for the ensuing year elected, Mr. L. C. Hay being chosen presid nt Mr. E. A. Clifford, treasurer, and Mr. J. H. Heslet, secretary.

The object of the association is to secure the necessities of housekeeping at a largely reduced price. Shares of stock will be $25 each, non-assessable, and non-transferable. In case a member for any reason desires to dispose of his share the association guarantees to purchase said share within 60 days at face value ($25).

The business is to be conducted on a cash basis, enabling the concern to take advantage of all cash discounts Goods will be sold at cost plus actual expenses (and 2 per cent. to be set aside as a surplus fund), enabling stockholders to purchase at a saving of probably 20 or 25 per cent. on the market price.

The funds of the association will be in the keeping of the treasurer, who will be bonded in the sum of $10,000 The other officers to be bonded.

The management of the store is to be placed in the hands of an experienced man, who will be bonded for faithful performance of duties. No stockholder to be employed in store.

Under the call of unions, a delegate from the Plumbers called the attention of the body to the fact that an individual named Belk, of Newport News, Va., an American Federation organizer, is falsely publishing that the Robert Portner Brewing Co. is fair to organized labor; that the boycott has been removed, which was imposed by the Central Labor Union a year or more ago. The action of Belk was severely criticized and a motion prevailed that the Central Labor Union request President Gompers to remove him as organizer. To Reduce Tendency to Degradation and Crime a Wage in Keeping With Cost of Support and Education of a Family Must Be Arrived at -Writer Suggests Method To Obtain Data Thereon.

TO EDITORS THE TRADE UNIONIST:

In a recent issue of your paper which have seen there is an editorial setting forth both the justice and expediency of an income to the toiler which will enable him to feed and cloth his family and educate his children. Reading it I could not but recur to the old question: What is a necessary wage?

That is a different question for men's needs depend upon so many things. What would enable a man to pay his expenses and have something left in one locality would not give him in another locality a bare subsistence, and the product of his labor in the dearer locality would in all probability command no greater price than the product of his labor in the cheaper locality. But it seems to me that the question can be answered approximately.

In the Times of this city of February 11, 1899, I published an article showing the cost of living in the larger cities of the country which I hope you will relight on my subject. It was as follows:

"How Poverty Leads to Crime—An Argument for the Better Compensation

The Truth.

The workingmen of the country can never appreciate the good the labor press accomplishes for them. Truly "the pen is mightier than the sword," for during the past fifty years organized labor has advanced and improved conditions of workingmen generally more than it did during the previous 150 years. The labor press first pointed out that there was strength in union, in concerted action; and that laboring men can accomplish wonders when they unite and work for one common end Though the labor papers of the country are continually battling for the rights of members of different unions the and but a small percentage of the organized workingmen of the country are supporters of the papers they are in duty bound to subscribe for and help build up. When this condition ceases to exist, not only will the labor papers be properly recognized, but labor itself will be given recognition by every daily paper in the country on a par with dramatic news, with sports, politics, Omaha Daily News.

To Our Readers.

We desire to secure a correspondent in each of the Government Printing office and down town chapels, in each of the Government Departments where members of trade unions are employed, in the different trades affiliated with the Central Labor Union, and, in fact, that all copy be mailed or sent in not later than Tuesday evening to insure tapeworm. publication. How Dave Walton Came to Washington-Joe Murray-Trash-Colonel Tebbetts's Pot of Beans-A Correction of "Spavin"-"The Squarest of the Square"-Debating Society Banquet-The "Y"-Charlie Graff-A Two-Dollar Ear.

A long time ago Dave Walton told me a little of his experience in getting to Washington about 1875. When I was in Atlanta in 1873 he was president of that union and a caseholder on the Constitution. The next year the concern was ratted and Dave started for the North. Passing over the painful experiences of the journey from Atlanta in. to Richmond, by way of Chattanooga and Knoxville, which had mostly been of the character formerly known as "traveling by hand," a form of luxury for which Dave's peculiar style of energy specially unfitted him, I have only to deal with what happened between Richmond and Washington. It has not been fully determined up to date about H. Y. Brooke's candidacy for the delegate race this spring. 'Windy' came here from Alabama last spring, and it is only natural that he would take great pride in representing No. 101 in the State he now claims a residence, as the convention will be held in Birmingham. As a campaigner he knows the in and outs from a to z, and we think a combined rally on the part of his friends will induce him to enter the handicap.

Patsy McAuliffe is unfortunate-very unfortunate. While on his way to the office Sunday morning a man-a very large man-walking alongside of him slipped on the icy pavement. Patsy grabbed him and tried to save him from a fall, and in some way got his finger in his companion's mouth. He-Patsy's companion-thought it was a lamppost or something equally as large put in his way to save him, and he closed down. Patsy shut his eyes to his own excrutiating pain, and by almost superhuman strength raised the man to his feet. But what a finger, and the intense agony he has suffered. He is somewhat fearful of hydrophobia, and is now thinking of fleeing to Indiana to try the properties of a madstone, the only one of its kind in the world, so he says. But while Patsy is debating the question we will hope for the best.

The Second Division correspondent suggests the girl in blue as the star attraction when the Third gives it banquet. There was a time when such a suggestion might have been entertained, but not at the present. The Third has always had the welfare of its members at heart. ## JUSTEEVERY-DAY LIFE.

In this column I have endeavored to prove on more than one occasion that Washington is the smallest town in the United States-a veritable village. The able corps of Chief Sylvester is augmented by 17,000 pair of eyes, divided in that city $50 to buy shoes for poor into six divisions, one for each of the children. great governmental bureaus. This surveilance means virtue-an enforced virtue, if you will. I have yet to visit Bennings race track; were I to do so, each and every acquaintance would be aware of the fact before the train made its return trip to the city. In the pursuit of knowledge you patronize one of the second-hand bookstores of Silk Stocking Row. En route, a Venus built on Milo lines approaches. Of her you can say, as the Hebrew King to the Sweet Rose of Sharon: "Thou art fair; behold, thou art fair." You Direct from the Dewey Theater, New 211 Seventh St. nw., Washington, D. I vos also nodiced slightest semblance of an eye-play. Last Labor Day I attended a-fuction, we will call it. On each side of the seat assigned to me-I got in late-was a more or less prepossessing lady. Despite that little paragraph of Mr. Shakespeare, "What pleasure could there be with one were the other dear charmer away," I proceeded to "garrul all the while discourse most sweet unto their ears," when I felt a hand tugging at my coat tail and a small krease my speed und haf no more voice whispered, "Maud, you're gettin" up your average?"

Delegates representing thirty-nine of the allied unions were present at the last weekly meeting of the Central Labor Union. President J. L. Feeney called the session to order and John H. Brinkman recorded the minutes.

Under the order of communications a letter was read from Typographical Union No. 6, of New York city, officially notifying the body that in the long-standing contention between that union and the New York Sun opposition is withdrawn by the union. It is also requested that the matter be brought to the attention of the members of organized labor as they desire that the same publicity be given their peace proclamation as was given their aggres-

The popular reviser, Capt. D. V. Chisholm, whose picture is presented in this week's issue of THE TRADES UNIONIST, is a candidate for delegatorial honors. As the next meeting of the International body will be held in a Southern city, the redoubtable captain thinks, as a Southern man, he will be able to creditably represent No. 101 therein. The captain has an excellent military record, having been for many years commander of the well-known company of Morton Cadets, whom he led to many victories in prize drill contests; and as first lieutenant and adjutant with the First District of Columbia Volunteers he tion with better effect on a drum than served in the Santiago campaign, suffering many privations while lying in the trenches during the memorable siege of that stronghold. Eugene George Now and Atlanta Twentyseven Years Ago-"Fatty" Johnson and St. Joe-" Joshing "-Billy Wilkinson and Syracuse-Gessler Gone to the "Times"-"Davy" Sloan-"Mind Your Own Business"-Ike Simonds's Preferred Job.

I had a letter last week from Eugene George. He is the head reader on the Atlanta Constitution. He mentioned three as being still connected with the paper who were there when I paid the town a brief visit, in the winter of 1873-1874, during which time I did a Lazarus crumb stunt at the feasts of the Constitution Dives. The three are Paschal J. Moran, now leading editoral writer, and Walter Henderson, foreman of the composing room, then both caseholders, and Louis Saloshin, then an apprentice, now a make-up. I remember them all very well, as well as the most of the force at the time I was there. Tandy Wilkinson was foreman, and some of the caseholders were Henderson, Tony Travis, Moran, Joe and Lem Lively, John Blatz, Dave Walton, Isaac Pilgrim, Tom Wilson, Dr. Yeager, Skinner, Gus Cunningham, and Jackson; while among the subs were Fred and "Buffalo Bill" Cunningham, Henry Vance, Harry Worsham, John Marshall, Doutney, and others. Bill Pittman was working at the State printing office. Another I remember was Tom Murphy, an old fellow, celebrated as "a resident of the principal cities of Georgia." Dave Walton was president of the union when I arrived there, but a political campaign was on, which resulted in the election of Knox Thrower as president and Tom Wilson as delegate. The late W. P. cinnati and Chicago papers, besides Walter Johnson ("Fatty"), widely pounding up long primer and horse known in printerdom, is one of the bills in the office where he acquired his typographical accomplishments. Within the past three or four years he has added photography to his repertoire, especially excelling in outdoor work. Whatever Gessler does he does well, congratulating him on getting a good situation. I predict a good fit both ways.

Some will remember a little fellow named "Davy" Sloan, who worked in "Botany Bay" twenty-five years or so ago. He was then but a boy, and of course was called "Kid" Sloan. I room one day, as he occasionally did, when he espied Sloan, whose extreme youth and boyish appearance held his attention for perhaps a minute. The had frequently been an object of wonder he became impatient. "Say, you!" said Sloan, "if you've got anything to do yeu'd a d-d sight better be doing it, instead of standing there gaping at me." Mr. Defrees remembered something he had to do and went his way, It is queer how some people will when some of his alleymates told Sloan who he was.

Job Room.

We are glad to state no one has been absent on account of sickness since last issue of THE TRADES UNIONIST.

The last exchange has been made by the magazine clubs for February and all are anxious for the March numbers.

Our chairman got his name in the daily papers last Tuesday-"top of column, next reading matter." We read it with our own eyes and "testimonials" are unnecessary. For further information C. L. KRAUS, Druggist, tion see "Davy."

Washington's birthday was not celebrated by working extra in this room, and while most every other division had her "prints" pulling up an average, we were scattered over the city-

Cheer up. Monday is inauguration. Candidate are getting a little bold. Candlelight was a bum tip. It was a good light in 1776.

Quite a number of printers were put to work to-day in the G. P. O.

James Maloney is able to be about after a very severe spell of sickness. Tom Monyhan, a well-known downtown printer, is working at the Agricultural Department. Tom Fitzwilliams, one of the most popular employes of the Fifth Division, G. P. O., is confined to his room with sickness the past two days.

E. E. ("Ike") Wear is being spoken of by his friends for delegate. If any printer deserves to be elected on his soldier record, Ike's the boy.

"Kid" Polk, who has been confined in one of the local hospitals for the past several weeks with an affliction of the eyes, left this week for Hot Springs,

"General" Lambert, well and favorable known throughout the G. P. O., is lying very sick at the Emergency Hospital. He is suffering with whiteswelling of the right leg.

O., who has been under treatment at Providence Hospital for some time past, will be pleased to learn that he is slowly convalescing. His fellow-workmen in the foundry, through a committee composed of Messrs. J. B. Collins, C. F. Denley, S. R. Copper, T. W. Shomo, and F. S. Clinton, are in charge of a plan to raise a litte purse for him. See any one of them and help the good cause along. At a recent meeting of the Knights of Phythias for the domain of the District of Columbia, held on the evening of February 22, a resolution was adopted placing the Allied Printing Trades Label on all their printed matter in the future. For this substantial aid to unionism the Council owes its thanks to Messrs. H. Y. Brooke, James Carter, Samuel W. Edmunds, Percy L. Moore, Frank Crown, and Wells Harrold. Printers connected with other organizations would do well to follow this example. A resolution was also adopted

HOME.

When in rev'rie I am dwelling, In that land of things that were, I go flitting past the shadows Of the years that would deter.

To a home of early childhood, To that dear and sacred place Where I knew that loving kindness Which to life gives tender grace.

Smiling faces give me welcome As I pass the threshold door, And I take my place among them As I did in days of yore.

Once again I hear the murmur Of the water as it falls, In a gleaning sheet of whiteness O'er the high-built milldam walls.

And I scent again the fragrance Of the fruit trees' sweet perfume, As 'tis wafted from the orchard, Proudly crowned with snowy bloom

To my ear there comes the rustle Of the giant forest trees; And the dreamy, drowsy, droning Of the busy honey bees.

O'er again I hear the song birds Sing their praise to God at day. And at twilight's gath'ring shadows Catch the lonely bobwhite's lay.

Now, I stand beside the willow, Drooping o'er the crystal well; And I feel again the heart break When beneath the ax it fell.

But, alas! I know I'm dreaming-Things that were can never be, Save in mem'ry they are treasured-Love the lock and dreams the key.

Heedless time has wrought sad changes

In the circle of that home Some in spirit now are dwelling, Some in exile sadly roam. But my heart is ever with them,

Be they there or gone above; And when life and dreams are ended I will find them by my love.

Ah, 'tis true that age brings wisdom, And perception of life's ways, But the talent for enjoyment That belongs to youthful days.

Yet, while youth is life's glad dawning, Bright with innocence and lov Joy astir and sorrow sleeping, Morning star of Hope above.

If we labor well at noontide, Heeding duty's stern behest. We may find at quiet evening Blessed peace, contented rest.

Several candidates for delegate to the coming convention have quietly announced themselves. Joe Birmingham, Charles Schulte, and Emil Petersen are making modest claims for the job. It is not altogether fifty years to bring our constitution to a question of wages, because in many cases the non-union mechanical departments pay the scale. I believe that if the fear of strike, the fear of a suspended newspaper following unionizing of mechanical departments, can be ployers The agreement makes the strike absolutely the last resort.

While in New York City in attendance on the convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, I had an exceptional opportunity to meet the leading publishers of the country. I know that they look with favor on the arbitration plan, because it gives a reasonable guarantee of industrial peace, and the further fact that it gives to the employer an opportunity to be heard before an impartial tribunal. It gives the union the same right.

It is true that we obligate ourselves to underwrite existing contracts. But is any member of the International Typographical Union in favor of breaking these contracts at the present time? Could we afford to sanction such a proceeding? And, again, if the agreement has done nothing else, it has brought to the fore the question of contracts. There are contracts in force to-day that, had they first been submitted to the and Golf Hose at Tanzer's, corner International officers, would have been promptly disapproved. But they are signed, sealed and in force. However unsatisfactory their terms may be, I do not believe we can with honor break them. It may be pertinent in this respect to quote from my address to the publishers' association:

"In his address (at the Milwaukee convention) your commissioner said: 'Complaint is made that the International Typographical Union does not at all times respect as sacred the contracts made between local unions and the publishers. If I have been correctly informed, the International Typographical Union can modify or annul any such contract, unless it has been specifically and formally approved by the parent organization. I venture to state that nine-tenths of the local contracts approved. Bear in mind that, while be permitted to charge. the publisher is generally responsible union. ## MISTAKES THROUGH IGNORANCE.

Comments on Affairs of the District Firemen and the Steamfitters.

It is as common and as natural for a man, or a business concern, or a labor organization to make mistakes as it is common and even natural for a person to be ignorant of stated propositions or to be selfishly disposed.

The world is at the present time beyond the age of individualism, and organization and centralization are the order of the political, financial, commercial, and social problems.

The wonderful strides to the fore ranks of industrial progress are due labor interests through the American Federation of Labor, and the acknowledgment of the affiliated trades of the fact that they can not progress alone, but must sink their individuality into a found here. solid whole.

Secretary McMahon, of the New England Allied Printing Trades, writes from North Adams, Mass.:

"The Father Mathew Temperance Society here own their own building. The land cost $8,600, the building $19,000 and the furnishings $26,000. Third floor, society rooms; second floor and part of the third is an opera house, which seats 800; the second floor front is headquarters of labor unions, and beneath are two stores, the society itself occupying the ground floor in the rear. The building is running about even with the expenses and income. The property ought to be worth $40,000. It is managed by seven trustees, who receive no salary. The treasurer is a printer.'

Mr. Frank A. Kennedy, publisher of the Western Laborer, Omaha-better known to the craft as "Sadie Maguire," in characteristic vein writes:

"We have a temple. It is a leased building. It was started on air, in November, 1895, and dedicated Febwas any; bought on time. The fixed averaged ten. cost was about as follows: Rent, $140 per month; janitor, superintendent, $70; gas, $22; telephone, $5; insurance, $20 per year; insured for $15,000; worth about $20,000. Income, wholly from rents, which runs about $10 to $15 per month more than expenses. The temple has four halls and ladies' reception room on third floor of building, one hall, office, card room, reading room, and two committee rooms on ground floor. About forty-five unions and fraternal orders meet in temple. Rents run from $1 to $15 per month. The establishment of the temple has been a source of great benefit to labor in Omaha. I think more than is appreciated. All crafts commingle. There is no other place to see union men. The wine-room committee meeting is a thing of the past. No saloon in entire block. No city ought to be without a temple."

These are not, as might be imagined, crude affairs, but are in many respects quite metropolitan, several having typesetting machines, power presses, and their own electric lighting plants. The Skagway Alaskan recently put in a linotype, and the Dawson City News has one on the road over the ice.

"With this progress has come the spirit of organization, and in July, 1900, Skagway printers organized a branch of the International Typographical Union with fifteen charter members. At its first meeting after organization the following officers were chosen: President, Roderick Sprague; vice-president, George I. Town; secretary-treasurer, Will H. Moore; financial secretary, O. D. When about ten miles the other side of that place he and John Barber, who accompanied him as machinist, encountered such bad weather that Roediger returned to White Horse for more horses. Recent arrivals who 'mushed' in from the Yukon country reported a man with a 'printing press' on a broken down sled, who was keeping warm by means of a curious-looking oil stove. From the description, it would seem that lone watcher was Johnny Barber, practicing with his coal-oil burner.

2.—ORIGIN OF THE RIGHT TO STRIKE. The right of living wages being granted by religious and scientific authorities, society has conceded to labor the complementary right of resisting the "oppression of hired servants that are poor," as the Bible puts it (Deut. xxiv, 14). As America has not clothed its governments with the power to regulate industry in the manner of European governments previous about by the doctrines of Adam Smith, gaining and the machinery of trusts the power to regulate the traffic in commodities and labor rests in our country fully with the people thempowers flow. 5.—NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' SCHEME OF ARBITRATION AND THE STRIKING

Let lawyers answer the question whether or not the agreement submitted by the Newspaper Publishers' Association to the Union carries with it that obligation which is necessary to give it duration; neither shall I attempt to examine whether or not the various sections of the instrument are in harmony with each other. In this place I will merely question this. But as an employing printer who merely wants peace with his workmen, and as an American citizen deeming self-government in State and business the greatest acquisition of the age, I ask: What becomes of the striking power under the agreement?

Sections 4 and 14 answer this question fully: "Work shall be continued pending decisions under appeal" to the National Board of Arbitration, and the conditions obtaining before the initiation of the dispute shall remain in 3.—ABUSE OF THE POWER TO CORNER effect." This is not a limitation or purification of the striking power, but a Madison says, Fed. XLI, "That the paralyzation thereof, pure and simple.

Matter of Interest to Temporary and Extra Employees of the G. P. O.

This office is in receipt of a copy of the brief for the claimant in the case of Arthur B. Barringer v. The United States, now before the Court of Claims THE BUILDING TRADES SECTION in this city. This case involves the right of temporary employees of the Government Printing Office to pro rata pay for the unused leaves of absence which have accrued during the years since July 1, 1895.

George A. and William B. King, attorneys at law, No. 728 Seventeenth street have charge of the case for the printers and to them we are indebted for a very exhaustive explanation of the claims, and if the character of the brief is any criterion it is believed that the long suffering and much buffeted temporary "will shortly secure a settlement of his demands on Uncle Sam.

Several months ago this matter was brought to the attention of Messrs. King by individual printers who had worked as "extras" in the Printing Office a few months in each year, and it appearing that there was a chance of

NIGHT PROOF ROOM.

Chairman Thomas.

Last Saturday night-or rather just of this trade. before 4 o'clock on Sunday morningfeeling that the night force was probably near its wind-up, and wishing to demonstrate the good feeling and sense of obligation that exist in the Night Proof Room chapel toward Chairman Ed Thomas in consideration of his arduous labors and impartial rulings, a meeting was held. W. N. Brockwell was called to the chair, and a set of whereases and resolutions, handsomely engrossed, was presented, read, unanimously passed, and presented to Mr. Thomas, who responded in a feeling and appropriate speech. The occasion was an altogether delightful one, evidencing the great harmony and cordiality existing in the chapel. The following is the document:

WHEREAS, In the near future it will probably please the Powers that Be to disrupt this Chapel, which has been so long and so ably presided over by the present Chairman, who has guided, with a virile mind, a good eye, and a strong arm, the destinies of this Chapel;

WHEREAS, His many decisions have been rendered with a due regard for equity and justice, and with an eye single to the welfare of the downtrodden, the oppressed, and the agreement and grieved; and

WHEREAS, He has unselfishly devoted his time to the collection of Union revenues for the paltry rake-off of 5 per cent, and refrained from knocking down more than one-half the proceeds;

Carriage and Wagon Builders' Union, No. 1, Report Organization After Two Years' Efforts - Communications from Upper Iowa University and Bakers' Drivers Local, No. 33-Infraction of the Federal Eight Hour Law at Soldiers' Home-Mosaic, Marble and Granite Rubbers' Union Adopt Wage Scale.

President James L. Feeney presided at the weekly meeting of the Central Labor Union held last Monday evening at Typographical Temple. John H. Brinkman was secretary. At roll call delegates from thirty-eight unions responded.

Under the order of reports, C. W. Winslow who was secretary pro tem at section submitted a report of the proceedings which was indorsed. The report states that in the absence of On Grievances, Milford Spohn, C. W. tion has been decided. Winslow, Moses Peyton; Contracts, Charles McGowan, T. Hagaman, T. J. Neidomanski.

Several individuals and firms were reported as working non-union labor and the secretary was directed to communicate with the parties and request that union labor be employed.

Reports were submitted from the treasurer of the last Labor Day excursion committee showing a net receipt of $432 46, the gross receipt $411.

The contract committee reported that Robert Portner of the Portner Brewing Co., has agreed to employ only union workmen on buildings constructed by him, and the products of that brewery was removed from the unfair list. Secretary Brinkman was directed to so news would have little local value exinform the central bodies of Norfolk, cept for the fact that the appointee is Newport News, and Richmond.

Bill Dorsey and Henry Noyes are getting pretty gay these days. The return of spring as well as continued improvement in their lameness is the cause of their exuberance of spirit.

PRINTERS TO DANCE. Columbia Typographical Union's Big Entertainment and Ball.

The entertainment committee of Columbia Typographical Umon is arranging for a big time on the evening of April 10, when they will give a musical and literary entertainment, followed by a dance. Haley's superb orchestra has been engaged for the occasion and the rest of the progam will be filled by the best talent of the city. As the proceeds of this affair are to go to the relief fund of the Union it will no doubt be liberally patronized by all printers and their friends.

The committee acted wisely in waiting until after Lent and the breaking up of the night forces so that all will have an opportunity to attend.

Death of Trustee Daniel Black. It becomes our sad duty to note the death of Mr. DANIEL BLACK, one of the Trustees of the Union Printers' Home at Colorado Springs, Colo.

His death occurred at his home in Detroit, Mich., on Sunday, March 10, 1901; his age was about 35 years.

MR. BLACK was elected as one of the Trustees to the Home in May last, and had only shortly assumed the duties of his position. Having been elected as a delegate from Detroit Union No. 18 to the Syracuse convention in 1898, and later appointed by his local Union as chairman of the committee of entertainment of visiting delegates to the Detroit convention in 1899 he made a large number of friends and acquaintances. He went to Colorado some three months ago thinking his health though not unexpected was a great panied by the following address: shock to all who knew him. In his death the craft loses a valuable member and a well-liked and affable gentleman. May he rest in peace and receive that reward he so justly earned.

> During Mr. Benedict's administration Wallace was foreman of the War Branch, and was appointed on the recommendation of Mr. Richardson, of Tennessee, without personally meeting the Public Printer. His first interview with Mr. Benedict was an amusing one, according to his own story. For two or three weeks after taking charge he had no occasion to call on the Public Printer, and when he did so he sent in his card and was promptly admitted. "Well, Mr. Wallace, what can I do for you?" asked Mr. Benedict. "I am foreman of the War Branch," began Percy, by way of introduction.

"The hell you are," said Mr. Benedict. "Well, you wouldn't have been if I had seen you first."

The remainder of the interview was quite amiable and throughout the administration they remained good friends, Percy making a very acceptable foreman in every way.

JUST EVERY-DAY LIFE,

Few people seeing service in the halls of legislation were better equipped in the direction of a "coach" than the late General Harrison during his term as Senator, either on the floor or in the committee room. In this capacity on the former was the Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees and in the latter Perry S. Heath. I call to mind, during the discussion of a clause allowing additional compensation to compositors on the Congressional Record for night work, after Senator Voorhees stated it was long-drawn out night labor, under the strain which men with the strongest constitution must break down, General Harrison contributed one pertinent paragraph: "I think, Mr. President, they ought to have it."

Under flattering auspices Baltimore launches a new afternoon daily. William Wilkerson and Alfred Aldrich, both favorably known to Washington printerdom, are foreman and bank man, respectively. A goodly portion of the force, I understand, are from the Herald of that city.

Nashville Union contributes $100.00 toward the entertainment of the delegates en froute to the I. T. U. convention at Birmingham.

in the direction of the presidency of Columbia Union might as well proceed to put their ambition in storage for another twelvemonth. Mr. Lawson will succeed himself in that important position.

As regards the delegate race for honors at Birmingham, the storm center this season will evidently hover over the Proof Room, which bailiwick has to date at least five announced candidates in the list of entries. My brother contributors, while throwing boquets at Captain Chisholm, " Pard" Bloomer, and others, neglected to name a winner in the person of Mr. William Leavitt, who for many moons has borne the burden of responsible chairmanships in No. 101. My friend "Bunn" Helm, very pertinently calls it runnning for "tied up strings," and in my humble opinion, Mr. Leavitt will be able to tie up sufficient strings to cross ihe line.

It tor, Hughes, Farwell, Flynn, Allison, was designed by our foreman, Mr. L. Williams, Devlin, Bowman, and Mc- C. Hay, and is strictly up to date, Knight.

furnish coffee to the ladies and gentlemen of this Division made the remark the other day that all she had to do now was to take Potomac water and put a little cream (?) and sugar in it and not happen to be a patron of hers so can not tell whether she meant that her coffee really is poor or that her customers are poor judges; she may be able to explain.

There was a surprise party at Henry Langdon's house on Monday evening last, but all the boys here doubt very much as to the surprise on the part of Henry. And, then, he has been very quiet about the affair, and no one has been able to find out just what he pre sented to his guests in the way of favors but Dr. Devlin and Taylor say that he had the cough drops and photos in stock and so gave them out.

Taylor is quite a joker, as everyone up here knows, and almost as good a story teller as Doctor Manning; both are very poetic in their discourse, and the chunks of wit, logic, satire, and philosophy that percolate the air in the vicinity of their respective desks would make even my friend Bloomer almost wish he had been born in New Jersey instead of Kansas. "There's no use talking," said Taylor to Manning the other morning (and Taylor is a learned man), "the English language is very deficient in a great many respects. "I suppose it is, with you," casually remarked the Doctor (Dr. Devlin calls him Mr. Manning). "Yes," continued Taylor (ignoring the Doctor's thrust), there are so many words pronounced the same that are spelled different and mean different things I find it embarrassing sometimes to express myself in proper terms on paper." Here the Doctor straightened himself up, threw his shoulders back, and with an air of solicitious sympathy and a mischievous smile playing hide-and-seek in each corner of his mouth, said: "Well, Mr. Taylor, if you will tell me 'what's eaten you' I'll write it out in American'' (the Doctor doesn't like the word English). "All right," said Taylor (winking knowingly at Henry Langdon-he always winks at Langdon when there are none of the ladies around); this is the sentence that bothers me just now I have two rings, and both are too small to wear with comfort.' You will notice, Doctor, that there are three words in that sentence that are pronounced alike but spelled different and mean different things; now Doctor, I would like to write a sentence, in which I wish to say there are three (mentioning the disputed word) in the English language; how shall I do it?" " that's easy," said Manning, and with true Irish wit, dashed off: "There are Those individuals with an aspiration three tews in the English language," and the incident was closed.

Job Room.

Eddie Haywood has organized a new magazine club.

The new huilding is beginning to shut off the light from our windows.

Our "ladies' man" now keeps candy and oranges for all the ladies who make "goo-goo eyes."

We would have been glad to give a few stanzas of spring poetry this week but couldn't get a permit.

Our beautiful decorations have been pulled down and our room has assumed its every day appearance.

Mr. E. E. Calhoun, of Ohio, now holds down a frame in alley 5. His ability as a job printer needs no comment, as his work at once places him among the best.

We have not yet received Johnny Greene's announcement. We understand through "Dame rumor" and "Slug Eighty" that he is still "in the hands of his friends."

Mr, C. W. Bridewell made an excellent picture of this room last week before the decorations were hauled down. 'Birdie' is also an expert cyclist, and can set type with both hands.

Visitors continue to pass through our division and Frank Kidd delights in explaining the art preservative to all the pretty girls, and even goes so for as to show them how we make "pie." The Annex is wrangling over the herring and ice cream for a change, posers are getting "buggy" trying to Baltimore Dental Parlors, help them out, but with such humorists The bonds have the right of way in as Thad Stevens, Geo. Sarr, and others we think they will pull through. A new "sort" cabinet has been while it does not occupy more than One of the ladies who make and half the space of the old style drawer

When Ed. A. Sullivan sneezes the sleepiest job printer wakes up. But you will have to be present and hear the boys whistle in order to fully undergive it to her customers; that they stand the joke. "Sully" is a great would not know the difference. I do printer, however, and though young yet, learned his trade with the pioneers, when they used to set type out of a bag.

> Chairman Davidson was "called down" this week for sticking to the old custom of giving the odd cents to some and collecting it from others. He'll have an extra supply of pennies hereafter and will make change to even "Davy" is an up-to-date printer and will be an up-to-date chairman in future.

VIOLATION OF EIGHT HOUR LAW

Retail Clerks Complain of Discrimination of the Washington Traction Company-Troubles of Street Railway Men-The Builders' Union, No. 72.

Suffrage in the District of Columbia and the proposed issue of bonds for sewer and street extension were the subjects of an address delivered by Mr. E. W. Oyster at the meeting of the Central Labor Union Monday evening at Typographical Temple. Mr. Oyster severely criticised the present form of District government and advised organized labor, as represented in the Central Labor Union, to make earnest and persistent effort for the restoration of the elective franchise. He denounced the present government as plutocratic, a radical departure from the principle of representative government and destructive of the sovereign right of the nitury, 419 Seventh street northwest, is citizen. He referred to the proposition to issue improvement bonds to defray the cost of sewer and street extension as a scheme to tax the many for the exclusive benefit of a few financiers and suburban property owners.

A communication was read from the No. 262, stating that the Washington the amount. Traction Company is about to award the contract for uniforms for employes of that road, and it is stated that local firms will not be given the privilege of bidding on the work, as they have not been requested to do so. It was also stated that those of the company having the awarding of the contract favor a Baltimore firm, notwithstanding the fact, it is said, that local firms, if permitted, would successfully compete with firms elsewhere. It was the sense of the delegates that home firms should in pairs, tandem fashion. be given an opportunity to submit estimates for the work, and Secretary Brinkman was directed to request the able emotions to his credit. company to invite bids from Washington firms and favor them with the

JUST EVERY-DAY LIFE.

With Albert Johnson's offer of 3-cent car fare to the City of Brotherly Love and contiguous bailiwicks, Philadelphia is waking up. Brother Ray, at my elbow, however insists that Philadelphia does not need to be woke up, and cites in support of his argument that a Philadelphian sold a New Yorker a gold of politics for nothing. Charlie gave brick. To prove that Mr. Johnson can sary to state that that gentleman is a brother of the irrepressible Tom, favorable known in Louisville, Cleveland, Brooklyn and Washington, and who as a promoter of gigantic enterprises can

Of late a counter current has set in, and now can be seen on that thoroughfare about 200 ladies and gentlemen going west about the same time. On inquiring, it is learned that the Census Office is discharging its day's cargo of human freight. We take the curb and study the faces. The Pension Office supplies the individuals advanced in years; the Census Office furnishes the younger group of employees. Those from the last mentioned bureau wear better clothes than their neighbors from the sister shops; or, to speak with a greater degree of accuracy, their clothes are new, the people are new. The boy has not yet entirely divorced himself from the clod-pounding step; his journeying o'er the asphalt sea makes more work for the-not the undertaker-but the chiropodist. And the girl-she will not be cast for the star part in one of my Washington novels, not yet; later on, mayhaps. In her eye you find none of glassy haze of the girl at the half-way house; none of the resolute curve of the lower jaw or the indrawn under lip of the woman with a history; none of the furtive, hunted look of the woman over the border. On the contrary, the complexion is redolent of the wildwood; born only of the prairie. It is the self-same walk, the self-same laugh, the self-same wark, the self-same laugh, the self-same girl, that comes down to the station in Kokomo and Kankakee to see the train go by. It will take her quite a time to learn how to make that glide from the second row in the chorus to the footlights.

The Boston correspondent of the Typographical Journal, "Charles Bank," mentions the death of two old friends of mine, or rather acquaintances, for I did not enjoy their companionship very long. Sam Head was a compositor on the Boston Herald when I first visited that city in 1872, and I well remember his telling me that his father was one of the founders of the paper. At my last visit to that city (in 1893) I learned that he had become superannuated and retired. The other, W. T. Noble, was one of the day men, distributing "heads" and "ads," after the introduction of machines in 1893, and as gentlemanly, courteous, and kindly a man as one

He had no trouble in landing his man, and the following evening the gentleman was seen in the neighborhood in which he was told the examining physician lived. It was very dark and he could see neither sign nor number, and having forgotten the name of the doctor, he inquired of the first person he met on the block if a doctor lived in the square. The gentleman accosted happened to be a doctor, saying: "I am Dr. B-What doctor are you looking for?' 'I've forgotten his name," replied our friend, "but I guess you are the one I am looking for." Mr. J. D. Roberts, who has had charge of the Third Division for the past four years, has been transferred and put in charge of the First Division. This was no doubt done as an act of recognition of the confidence and esteem in which Mr. Roberts is held by the Public Printer, who recognized the valuable Dept. E, services he has rendered as foreman of this division. Mr. Roberts gained an enviable reputation while with us. He treated the men under him, at all times, with consideration, and whenever he called for "rush" the boys responded willingly. We part with him with regret, and his many friends wish him much success in his new fields. The author of the article on Washington in the last National Union is evidently possessed of a motly assortment of misinformation judging by his reference to the Pressmen's Council. In a list of so-called hustlers from the various councils he credits the Pressmen's with Sikken and Ryan. Sikken is all which is theirs, in a broad sense, right but he wears no medals for gathering in candidates, no matter what his record may be as a "gatherer" of other things, and Ryan-we had two Ryans-one has not emerged from his honeymoon up to the present writing; the other executed a financial sidestep and like unto the Arab "folded his tent" and silently slunk. Such false statements, although made with on malice aforethought, work an injustice to men like Callahan, Shine, and Cunningham.

To the superficial observer there would appear to be little in common between the gentle art of poesy and the stern and outspoken specifications of patents, and yet two of our most soulsearching poets have for years delved in the Union Building lead mine by day and turned out tuneful triumphs of rhythm and trophies of rhyme by night. The superficial observer, however, rarely sees anything in anything. His giddy glance skates off the sides and slopes and doesn't penetrate the depths. To the poetical mind there is poetry in everything, or that which inspires poetical thoughts. But the actual, simon- working in Baltimore. To but two of those who for many years have had opportunity to revel in and gloat over the sad cadences, the merry jingles, the whirlwinds of passion, the cold philosophy, and again the sighing songs that everywhere abound in specifications have they appealed and found response. Others have hurried over and missed or failed to comprehend the gems of minstrelsy in their mad rush for an "acreage," and to them these pearls have really been cast before swine. But not so with Joe of which I overheard a part, as thus: McCann and Jimmy Montgomery. For years have their breasts "heaved and sot" with the emotions inspired by lines that to the dull clods of earth criticism of their "solidity." The former runs to old things generally-old clocks, old "sticks," old umbrellas, old grocery bills, etc., instead of "Come all yees" and the light, rollicking trifles of poesy. The world is better for North Carolinian, but later from everytheir living in it, and the Specification Division vastly so.

Speaking of Joe McCann's penchant for old things, he has an old Stradivarius fiddle-of course a "Strad" is is an old fiddle—that is worth a small by the various locals connected with the two fortune. He bought it in Dublin over thirty years ago, and outside of its undoubted genuineness, it has a tone that would make it equally valuable though it had no pedigree. There are those, of course, who doubt everything, and such doubt McCann's claims as to his violin. But he did not himself know it was a Stradivarius until a year or so ago, when, having some repairs made to it, Mr. Heck, the noted violin maker and repairer, of Louisiana avenue, told him the fact and offered him a large sum for it. Mr. Heck was asked recently, in my presence: "Is that violin of McCann's a genuine Stradivarius?"

"Oh, yes," said he; "not entirely now, for in repairing it other parts have had to be substituted, but it was a genuine Stradivarius.'

"How much is it worth?" was asked. "I can get him $1,000 for it if he will leave it with me," said Mr. Heck."

Looking up information on Strarivarius instruments in our Proof Room "Dictionary of Music," I find that they are not extraordinarily rare or scarce. The English dealers know the whereabouts of two hundred of them in that thousand others on the Continent of Europe and in other parts of the world. Old Strad. made fiddles for about fifty years-from about 1670 to 1720-and some of the boys worked at it for awhile. So when anybody tells you that there are not above a dozen known Stradivarius violins in the world, look wise and forgive him; he means well, but he doesn't know.

When I first went to Chicago, a trifle over thirty-one years ago, among the celebrities I met there was "Ash" Riley, and I am told that he is now can, the progenitor of the present Inter Ocean. Next I "crossed his path" in Kansas City, and a little incident ocwith. It chanced that he followed me were scarce.) on a galley of editorial in the Times office, and when the proof came out, By the use of a wedge and a tongue for the though his "take" was "passable," I thought I would correct it for him, I having to lift the galley. The copy was a little blind, and a sentence in Ash's "take" read: "He was ever ready to draw his sword in behalf of his country,' in which he made the word "sword" read "second," and which I transformed into "record"-"He was ever ready to draw his record in behalf of his country." This appearing so in the paper next morning, there being no revises of proofs in those days, the editorial writer was so thin skinned as to get mad about it. When I came into the office the next day I noticed an earnest conversation going on between the foreman, Margrave, and Ash Riley,

At the aforementioned Jackson street (Chicago) boarding house, at the time referred to, were Billy Mill, whom I spoken of some weeks ago, now dignified Cook County (Illinois) official; "Johnsie" Hopkins, who had worked "all over," and who dropped out of my and Child knowledge years ago; Bill Cunningfor him, as does also McCann, though ham, a Cincinnati boy, who was killed At the most reasonable in a row at Pittsburg about ten years ago; "Shorty" Campoell, originally a where, who was killed by a train while walking the track; Thad Remington, who long ago "crossed the divide;" 'Lazy Jim'' Giles, who had just come in from Omaha; and Cornelius Mc-Auliffe, who was then but a few months from "the ould sod." I afterwards stopped at the same hotel with Bill Cunningham at St. Joe, Mo., for several weeks. The last time I ever saw him was at Topeka. He was on the platform of a car bound for Lawrence and I was on a train just in from Kansas City. He was a brother of Pat Cunningham, as well known as himself, who died of consumption years ago. Pat worked a session on the Record about twenty-five years ago, and he, "Shorty" Uzell, and I crossed our legs under the same boarding-house table and made remarks about the same old boiled ham that confronted us daily in a game of "who can last the longest." And Uzell is dead, too, of yellow fever, at Memphis, in the great epidemic of twenty years ago, whither he went as a nurse. I used to meet "Shorty" Campbell so regularly wherever I went that it came natural to me to ask the first man I met, "Where is 'Shorty' Campbell stopping?" McAuliffe stayed in Chicago and became an inveterate 'tiger'' fighter-only happy when he was playing faro in Mike McDonald's or some other joint. I've no idea whether he is living or not. He and George Bennington were getting out a West Side hotel register by day and country, and there are probably a playing faro by night the last time I was there. Bennington died nearly twenty years ago at Newark, I believe. "Sic transit gloria mundi." Anyhow, why shouldn't I write reminiscences if

Mr. Rodier Talks on the Primary.

"There will be a newspaper primary," declared J. L. Rodier, yesterday, "and that whether all the aspirants desire it or not. The time has passed in Columbia Union when one or two men can declare their opposition to the majority and win out. Neither Mr. Dunn nor Mr. Parsons can dictate to the majority of newspaper men, and that's what the present situation west amounts to.

It had been understood for a year that there Week Commencing Monday, April 15. was to be a primary. When I was approached I was asked 'to make the race.' I declined, but agreed to go into a primary.

"Now, Parsons and Dunn are both strong men, clean men, and popular men. Why do they fear to submit their desires in connection with mine to the only constituency capable of choosing what the Union concedes them-a representative of their own?

"True enough, Dunn's candidacy is predicted solely upon his opposition to a primary, his putative reason being that he did not want the law made odious by shutting out other than newspaper men from saying who the newspaper candidate shall be. That is so illogical I shall not attempt to dicuss it.

"On Sunday, I submitted the question of a primary to Mr. Parsons. In the presence of Billy Hall he based his objection to a primary (after having advocated one for a year) upon the alleged fact that the downtown book and job men were aggrieved at the action of the Union, and stoutly maintained that his single wish was to preserve harmony, whatever that may mean.

"On Monday, he declared a primary was useless, as Dunn had declared that he would not agree to a primary, although he (Dunn) would not be a candidate unless a primary were held, when he would fight it out with the nominee!

"But the primary goes, all the same, and I am assured by scores of thinking men that the nominee of a primary will win, as otherwise there will be estab lished a precedent which would for all times prevent the papers from securing and are not regarded as deserving their an acceptable candidate."

Messrs. Dunn and Parsons Reply. Editors Trades Unionist

I read with considerable amusement the alleged interview with Mr. J. L. believe all fair-minded men will admit that they have just cause for complaint. Rodier printed in your issue of last week. My first impression was that it was a "fake"—that some one was trying to have fun with Cos: but when trying to have fun with Cos; but when it reached the acute or italic stage I began to recognize the earmarks. Cos is nothing if not—dramatic. Folks who know him will take him at his true dissatisfaction out there appears genderated and now you want to shut us out of any participation as to his selection." The dissatisfaction out there appears genderated and now you want to shut us out of any participation as to his selection." valuation and pass his ranting over eral and their protest seems just.

As to the "logic" of the primary question (Logic, thy name is Rodier):
The law as it stands does a rank injustice to three-sixteenths of our members (the book and job men), and, if the "good thing" be allowed to go through, you can add to that the three-fourths in Government employ, who are now pining to vote for Cos. But what of that? No injustice will have been done Rodier, as, if he is quoted correctly, he evidently thinks he is the delegateship is concerned, is "Mud." hension.

He should hold the "thinking men" who "forced him into the race" (that's to see the down town men work in harpossible chance to represent this Union in the I. T. U. To be sure, it allows them the poor privilege of being nominated and of having their names printed on the ballots with the G. P. O. candidates, but there it ceases. Why should this restriction be made? Is it to give the machine men a delegate? to give the machine men a delegate? Then why not say so? There are at least a dozen operators whom it cuts out—Cadick's, A. and N. Register, the National Publishing Co., etc. In fact, it would give a delegate to leave the same content of the same would give a delegate to less than if would give a delegate to less than fifty men (no more operators are employed on the four dailies, and they are a minority of the employes of those offices), and three to the other 1,400 or 1,500 making up our membership. But that is Rodier's "logic," for he thinks he sees his chance. he sees his chance.

The number of men employed in the private offices will approximate one-fourth of our total membership, and should have one representative out of the four, regardless of whether they work in newspaper or book office. That is my "logic," and I am willing to stand by it, Mr. Rodier's "predicated" and "putative" to the contrary notwithstanding.

With one little quotation for Rodier's benefit I will stop:

"He either fears his fate too much, Or his deserts are small, That dare not put it to the touch To gain or lose it all."

In the last issue of THE TRADES UNIONIST, Mr. J. L. Rodier talks on the primary question. After declaring "that there will be a primary, whether all the aspirants for delegatorial honors desire it or not," the first paragraph of his statement contains the rather flippant and unwarranted statement that "neither Mr. Dunn nor Mr. Parsons can dictate to the majority of newspaper men, and that's what the present situation amounts to." Since it is apparent from the defiant declarations of Mr. Rodier, his posted notices on of Mr. Rodier, his posted notices on chapel bulletin boards, and his inter-view in The Trades Unionist that the only attempt at dictating comes from himself, it is needless to discuss that part of his statement. His assertion, "that the majority of newspaper men are in favor of a primary," is also en-tirely unfounded, even if he bases the statement upon the supposition that everybody favoring him also favors

As a matter of fact, the oldest, most prominent, and most conservative members of the newspaper chapels, many of whom have been for years and are now held in the highest esteem by the whole membership of the union, are a unit against the primary. Several of these men go so far as to state that they will not participate in a primary in the event one is held.

If this is true of the newspaper men-and it can be demons rated to the satis-faction of any one who will take the trouble to investigate the matter-what must be the feeling outside the news-papers? Take the book and job and the weekly newspaper men, for instance. They think the law passed at the last union meeting making it compulsory for one delegate to come from down town should have included them in its provisions. Since, however, the union saw fit to shut them out as far as running in the down town race was con-cerned, they feel that the newspaper men to follow that action up by disfranchising them with a primary is an imposition that should not be tolerated. They have, by the way, two-thirds of the voting strength down town, and I charitably.

Seriously, he misrepresents my position and, so far as I have been able to ascertain, that of Mr. Parsons when he says we are trying to thwart the wishes of the newspaper chapels when we refuse to participate in a "cooked" primary. The primary last year was justifiable, as it was a case of resorting to that means of settling the matter or to that means of settling the matter or going without representation. This sequence would be that he would show going without representation. This year we are assured our man, and it would be manifestly unfair for the few men interested to foist an objectionable party on the majority of our membership.

As the "lowe" of the primary of the pr rectly, he evidently thinks he is the other one-sixteenth.

I would like to have him inform us no such law as the present compulsory

J B. K as to where this demand for a primary of which he prates keeps itself hidden. So far as appears upon the surface, a few days previous to the Sunday when there is not only no desire for such a means of deciding for whom the Union shall vote to represent "down town," at his solicitation, when I expressed but no one seems to care a rap about it. Mr. Rodier is evidently a disciple of the Three Tailors of Tooley Street. It is easy to understand why he wishes a primary. He thinks (and admitted to me) that otherwise his name, so far as the time, is slightly beyond my comprefunny) to a strict accountability for that state of affairs.

The law recently adopted deprives every one in private employ, except those on the four daily papers, of any consible change to represent this Union.

MERRY SPRINGTIME.

O muse, awake, arise and sing Your tuneful song to merry spring; She lingers near to hear your lay Exulting in this gladsome day.

The fields and meadows decked in green, The placid lake in silv'ry sheen, Conspire to feast the longing eye On quiet landscapes 'neath the sky.

The woodland rings with joyous mirth, Proclaiming merry springtime's birth, While citizens of honest toil Prepare to till the fertile soil

The song-bird flits from tree to tree, He pipes his lay so full and free; Anon he pounces on his prey From early morn till close of day.

We hear the rippling of the rill In cadence low our hearts to thrill; We view the ever-winding stream So like a fleeting summer dream.

When sinks the sun behind the hill And glints the vine-clad rustic mill, 'Tis then fond mem'ries to me bring Back childhood's happy days in spring.

Bowen. This committee made its report at Sunday's meeting, and the action of the Union in connection therewith was an impressive illustration of the fact that the organization does not forget its friends.

Mr. Ralston, who is an honorary member of No. 101, at the conclusion of the reading of the resolution, made a most pleasing and feeling address on the life work and characteristics of the deceased, and so well received were his remarks that the Union thanked him by a rising vote.

Mr. Lerch also spoke briefly but feelingly on the splendid work which Mr. Bowen had performed for organized labor in this city.

After the meeting Mr. Brockwell, who was chairman of the committee, had this to say in reference to the character of Mr. Bowen: "In my intercourse with men in the ranks of labor organizations, I have touched elbows with many genuine specimens of upright, honorable manhood; but, in the long list I fail to recall one who excelled my Miss Emma Woolsey has returned to my dear friend Bowen in those attrithoroughly unselfish as any man it has S. "In his work for the amended eight hour law his splendid ability and logical mind were at their best, and it is but simple truth to say that no one man did more to place that law on the statute books than Mr. Bowen.

"His greatest service, perhaps, to the whole people of this community was in the matter of free text-books in the public schools of the District of Columbia. ## COLUMBIA UNION MEETING

free text-book law in successful operation. This labor alone should entitle him to the lasting gratitude of nearly all classes in the city of Washington.

"If 'To live in hearts we leave behind, is not to die,' then it is sure that Mr. Bowen is not dead, but only gone away from the mortal sight of those among whom he moved, and for whom he labored, and who loved and respected and honored him so much.'

The resolutions follow:

Whereas, the members of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101, have learned, with genuine sorrow, that Paul T. Bowen has gone from among us, this melancholy event meaning much to all those who knew the man and appreciated his magnificent quality. and appreciated his magnificent quali-ties. His life was, through its whole course, one of willing self-sacrifice in the cause of the toiler in particular, and of high endeavor in the interest of a broad and noble humanity in general. Of splendid ability—possessing a mind as clear as crystal and logical as mathematics—he never sought personal aggrandizement or believed that success was bounded by the applause of the unthinking multitude or the heaping up of wealth; his treasures—the results of conscientious and intelligent well-doing—were hidden away in the hearts of those who knew him and understood his worth. His life was a benediction and a precedent of rare beauty for our emulation. He taught that only through justice was individual and national happiness to be achieved, and he practiced even and exact justice. Of such men as Paul T. Bowen it has been most truly written:

"The actions of the just Smell sweet, and blossom in their dust."

WHEREAS, Columbia Union is peculiarly indebted to Paul T. Bowen's sagacity and energy for much of the success attending the establishment of the Washington Times by members of this organization-an accomplishment whereby many idle printers were furnished employment, and whereby, also, opportunity was given and has since existed for labor's side in all disputed questions to have a freer and fuller pre-presentation to the public; therefore, Resolved, That the death of Mr. Bowen involves an irreparaole loss upon those for whom he labored; and our hearts are heavy with an inexpressible sorrow, tempered only by the love and respect of his honesty of purpose, devotion to duty, and sympathy for humanity hundred members. ever inspired in all who had the honor and pleasure of a personal acquaintance worker, and faithful friend.

Resolved, That we extend our deep sympathy to the relatives of our late friend and brother, and that these resolutions be spread upon the records of this Union, and that an engrossed copy be presented to his family; also, that the same be published in The TRADES

W. N. BROCKWELL, JACKSON H. RALSTON, Lon A. Shimp. Washington, D. C., April 21, 1901.

These resolutions have been handsomely engrossed and appropriately framed and will be presented to Mr. Bowen's family.

Job.Room Notes.

Did your candidate get nominated Ours got lost in the shuffle.

William M. Sipher was absent on account of sickness a few days last week.

Johnny Greene has spent most of his time since Sunday explaining how it all happened.

Three transfers were made from the Annex this week, J. Ligon King to the Specification, Sam E. Davies and Geo. W. Shaffer to the Third Division.

Thad Stephens was promoted to the proof room to hold copy for a day or so last week, during the absence of Will H. Way, who was on the sick list.

August H. Jaeger returned to work last Thursday entirely recovered from his surgical operation. The boys gave him a royal reception. August is capital fellow and we're glad to see him back again.

Albert Reid and John R. Purvis of the night force and F. D. Smith of the First Division, were given frames in Our regular $10.90 the Annex Monday morning. We ex-Suits are the equal of tend a hearty welcome to you boys, any $15 suits in town. but we are sorry to lose our old friends.

> A high tribute was paid to Mr. R. W. Summers, our popular press reviser, who graduated as a veterinary surgeon last Thursday evening. His most intimate friends in this room presented him with a valuable set of instruments. The pressmen also presented him with set of instruments and the press feeders sent a beautiful floral offering.

> Chas. T. Graff, D. V. Chisholm, E. E. Wear, and J. F. McCormick have been around getting acquainted with our boys already. They all seem to be popular and of course they are "all smiles," and we are sure it will take the final ballot to decide which is the favorite. The other candidates must not slight us as we want to give all a chance to "smile."

force has brought several gentlemen to this room who were anxious to get away from night work.

The fact that Bill Dorsey has been transferred to another division accounts for the brevity and scarcity of items this week, no one having been elected to fill his place.

OLD THREE LEGS.

One night, not very long ago, Awaked by caterwauls Occurring in the yard below, I listened to the squalls. It was the old three-legged cat A-making of a speech Unto a fellow-screecher that At times put in his screech Although I could have cracked his head Or held him in to drown, I'll give you part of what he said. Which I have here writ down At number seven hundred ten A 'snack' perhaps you'll git— I say 'perhaps,' I will explain

The long and short of it : You'll git it sure if long's about, She'll only be too glad; But if it's short, keep good lookout, Or else you'll wish you had ! As to the youthful maiden long, Don't be afraid of her, For she loves all the feline throng And e'en the dirtiest cur. She'll give you of the best she has, And in the daintiest dish-Sure better maiden never was-She'll give you what you wish. At seven ten's a bearded chap, Hair rather long and gray ; He is at times 'as good as pap,' But sometimes 'tother way. So keep your eye out-do not fail-And of him have a doubt 'Cause he may grip you by the tail And jerk you inside out!

'A cross old patch there lives next door, They call him 'Jerry Sikken; With joy I'd starve a week or more To see him git a lickin'. He made a rush at me one day And knocked me off my feet And while I up and shot away He said I stole his meat. And in next yard it was my hap, Where slops were in a trough, To set one foot within a trap, Which snapt and cut it off! I wish it was his blamed old neck Had in the trap been caught, And not a tear, or sigh, I spec From one cat 'twould have brought. ## EDITORS OF THE TRADES UNIONIST:

I have read with interest Brother Johnston's views on the Consumers' League. Everyone who knows "Jim" knows that he is actuated by the best of motives, but his subject, like all others, has another side to it.

The problem of securing to labor a more just division of the profits has confronted humanity ever since the dawn of civilization. Organization has wages, we do well; if, at the same greatest good to the greatest number. Every day we see newspapers, magaines, etc., advertising different lines of merchandise as being from "Manufac turer to Consumer," from "Maker to Wearer," "Thus doing away with the Middleman's profit." I have not heard of organized labor frowning on these things as contrary to union principles

Admitting that Congress has treated us fairly in the matter of wages, I imagine there are few of us who have accumulated anything in the nature of a bank account, especially if we are afflicted with a desire to "live as we journey through life." Then, again, the League is not an organization restricted to printers nor to the G. P. O. In fact. from the Clerks' Union, but from an it numbers among its stockholders many who are in no way connected with said

While it is a fact that labor produces everything essential to physical life, it is a further fact that labor remains poor while those who trade on the product of labor have grown rich. I have no sympathy with anarchists or anything pertaining thereto; but I am in hearty sympathy with any legitimate movement, which, while it reduces speculation in labor's product, insures to the laborer a greater return for his toil.

I have no statistics of co-operative stores at hand, but am aware they have been conducted with marked success both in this country and in England.

Son, now that you are earning big money and accumulating property, let me give you one small piece of advice Keep your real estate and bank funds in your own name. Of course you have the sweetest and most devoted little wife in the world, but "trust her not' -deliver her from temptation. Creditors may pounce upon and despoil you; but they take nothing but your property. Whereas, by trusting your wife too far, her head may be turned, and then you have lost both wife and fortune. Or, it may be that the wife will die before the husband; then he will be in big luck if he inherits more than a life interest in his own hard-earned accumulations.

I know two such cases, in one of which both husband and wife had children by previous marriage. The husband put his real estate in his wife's name, as a testimonial of his great affection, of course. She died a few years later, and her children by a former marriage legally gobbled his children's rightful inheritance. In the other case the wife died leaving children, and the property being encumbered, the father had to sue his own children to get his property in his own name, and failing in the suit, had to resort to another legal device in order to save something out of the property.

Another case that occurs to me is one where a man in the West had a good business and quite a little property, all of which stood in his wife's name for some unfathomable reason. A tiff, a row, a bust-up, and the wife threw him out to make his own living, penniless, which he is doing as a laborer in the G. P. O.

In another case where the wife has everything in her name, she makes her husband's life a burden for fear she will Chew and Charlie Hicks-How Charlie do him out of the little accumulations Graff Hides-Andy Hughes-Joe Oakley- and in his efforts to "keep peace in socialistic state of affairs then existing the family" he is her abject slave.

A man told me once that he had been selected as a proofreader because his medical education fitted him for wrestling with the technical terms of the doctors; yet his departure from the Proof Room carried not a momentary ripple, for he failed to prove a shining light, either in technical or common work, and though he has since made a success of life, it was neither as proofreader nor as doctor.

Another man once expressed a desire to get on the night force at the beginning of a session of Congress, but hesitated to apply because somebody ought to be left on the day force who knew something about the work and could be depended upon. Though he has since dropped out of the service, he left no aching void.

Another proclaimed himself as being. in his own unbiassed opinion, the best and most reliable proofreader in the office, but the unappreciative authorihe first landed.

And so it goes. I know a man who thinks the lower end of Manhattan Island popped up perceptibly when he recent threatened floods in Washington were due to the depression of the earth caused by his presence. But it was only by his own proclamation that either fact became known.

to take in my sign, put up the shutters, curtain calls last year. and wipe off my chin. Wherein I differ slightly from sundry and divers other people. And I'm not looking at any one in the Proof Room in particular.

Now, I'm jest natchelly agin backcappin', and it jars my upper works to hear those folks go on in the Morgue at high noon every day. The way they put it onto each other puts one in mind of the secret and unwritten work of the Daughters of the Revolution. It takes some people a two em dash of a long while to learn that we are all brothers and sisters, and the Golden Rule isn' in it with David Harum's advice to "do unto others as you know you'll be done by," or words to that effect.

As I remarked before, I have the reputation of bein' opposed to backcappin', and I propose to sustain it, but I do love to discuss the issues of the day in a quiet and brotherly manner, an' when we run shy on issues there's always enough raw material a-layin' around to make up a few.

I'm not going to say a word about Union politics this week, for I am interested in no candidate in particular and am only sitting on the fence to watch four of the candidates humpin' themselves to canter in ahead of the man who was Thanked by His Union. I hear that Shelby Smith succeeded the other day in bluffing one McCormick man with the sight of a ten-spot, but in another week he may be glad of it, for this is an uncertain climate we live in, and some people deem it their bounden duty to push Shelby off the limb. And besides, a man who runs for office every year has the advantage of a green hand. However, that's none of my business.

We haven't heard much of the campaign lie this year, but people who are anxious to draw the long bow will only find it necessary to pull Charlie Graff's leg. This may be a chestnut, but I had from doing that right in the open. to work it off-(in parenthesis, as it were.) ample this one will do, and I only quote because I know it will tickle Cos. He does love a joke so. And the fact that he is the ablest man on the delegate ticket this year doesn't insure his election by a thousand miles. However, that's none of my business.

While I'm away from the subject of politics I may as well tell you one on those wise guys in the Thinkery. I understand that the other night Jake Peffer and Flotsam Bloomer, the editor of the mortality statistics column, got into an argument over the date when the Proof Room was moved into its present quarters. The dispute grew warm, and Jake insisted that he was right, and attempted to prove it by the World Almanac; whereat the gang gave him the heartless hoot. The incident must have been equal to the one in which another reader figured some time ago. After having patiently endeavored to verify a name, he is reported to have declared in disgust that he "couldn't find that sand-pounding son of a ding-bat Thermopylae in any of the biographical dictionaries."

But we are all liable to betray the fact that we are minus a button here and there. Now, there's my friend, John M. Johnston, whose letter in last week's bladder (or is it blaetter?) seems to have worked up a few people. Dear, misguided brother, did you find it necessary to put on cold paper what many people have on their minds regarding the Consumers' League grocery? And while you were about it, why didn't you suggest a Consumers' League ginnery? Go hie thyself to a nunnery. You are too impetuous for this conservative world. We wouldn't let you buy your oleomargarine at our counter anyway.

Tom Bynum tells me that he expects Expresses His Opinion of Backcappers to pull off his Debating Society banquet within a few days. If he will only No, I haven't been heard from lately, guarantee that Joe Babcock won't rethat's a fact; but when I've nothing to cite some of his poetry I'll try to be say I still have enough horse sense left there. > Now that I think of it, I have missed Sutton's charming heart-to-heart chats ever since "Pard" Bloomer accused him of being "Slug Sixty." You may come out from under the bed again, Maud; nobody believes you guilty.

There are a few subjects that one can not discuss in an ordinary tone of voice, and my great aversion to backcapping compels me to cut them out, but after reading the gentle request to refrain from purchasing any goods until the clerk shows a union card I of Goodwin's "Shylock" he has feel moved to suggest that we go a step arranged to give an outdoor performfarther and refuse to be talked at by ance of "The Merchant of Venice," at union orators until they display the abel in their hats. By actual count there were thirtyfour members of the allied trades in a certain restaurant on Pennsylvania avenue, above Tenth street, last Saturday evening. Twenty-two printers, eight pressmen, and four bookbinders. The proprietor of this place cancelled his "ad" contract with THE TRADES Unionist because it was too expensive; his bill was $1.50 per month. "An injury to one is the concern of all." Remember when down town that Thomas Walsh, of No. 407 Tenth street northwest, has all his printing done by Union printers, pressmen, and bookbinders, sells Union beer, Union cigars, and employs Union barkeepers. Mr. Walsh has been a liberal advertiser in this paper since its foundation.

WRITTEN BY JOS. W. McCANN

Who Describes the Names of the Papers, Their Date of Issue, and by Whom Managed-Compulsory Suspension for Trivial Political Offences Not Uncommon-The Postmaster Generally the Proprietor-Many Launched and Few Remained in the Field-Benjamin Harris the Pioneer.

The stupendous strides made by newspapers in this country since the first one was started two hundred years ago is marvelous in the extreme. Nothing else in the history of civilization during that period compares with newspaper development. Contrast the early newspapers of the seventeenth century consisting of a sheet of foolscap folded, with two columns of local and foreign items, issued bi-monthly or monthly, with the newspaper of to-day, with its hundred columns of news on week days and sometimes more than two hundred on Sundays of dispatches collected on the day previous from every quarter of the globe, laid on your table early every morning of the week, and some idea may be had of the gigantic of the newspapers of the seventeenth century-the first published in this country—will be of interest in this opening year of the twentieth century.

Seventy years after the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers and two hundred and fifty after the invention of printing, the first newspaper was printed on this side of the Atlantic. It was published in Boston, September 25, 1690, by Benself by Richard Pierce, at the London Coffee House. Only one issue is known to have been printed, however, and a specimen sheet is in the State Paper Office in London. It was printed on three pages of a folded sheet, one page being blank. There were only two solutions in the state Paper of the signal for a continuance of the "editorial war," for Campbell, who seemed to chafe under the appearance of every new newspaper enterprise made jamin Harris, and was printed for himblank. There were only two columns on each page, which were eleven inches long and seven in width. It was intended to be a monthly, and it is supposed that the "Public Occurrences" was to be its page. The occurrences of characteristic or to chafe under the appearance of every new newspaper enterprise, made things lively with Franklin, who assailed the old man vigorously, next opening fire on the authorities, both clerical and lay. In this, he injured himself both personally and financially, but he initiated a new era in American was to be its name. The authorities opposed the paper on account of some "reflections of a very high nature" contained in it; so it "died abornin'." The authorities assumed a very dicta torial attitude toward the character of newspapers up to the time of Franklin, and were very sensitive about allowing the existence of even papers that printed only news items, and as for political comment it would not be tolerated at all.

In 1696, Benjamin Fletcher, then governor of New York, invited William Bradford, of Philadelphia, to migrate to New York City to publish a paper, and another one-issue sheet was the result. It was called the London Gazette. It could not be considered a newspaper, in the strict sense, as it only printed in its single issue some foreign news and an account of some important incident in regard to the close of a great war which the governor wished to impart to the people.

In those early Colonial days discussions on religious subjects and political opinions were printed in pamphlets and handbills and were disseminated among the people, and thus the necessity of newspapers began to be made evident. Written news circulars were distributed by the postmasters, who were the dispensers of news, the larger part of this news being principally information received from incoming ships, local news being very meagre. Postmaster John Campbell, of Boston, being the newsvender of Massachuesetts and having considerable experience as a correspondent, saw the necessity for a newspaper, and on the 20th of April, 1704, he issued the contract of the 20th of April, 1704, he issued the contract of the 20th of April, 1704, he issued the contract of the 20th of April, 1704, he issued the contract of the 20th of April, 1704, he issued the contract of the 20th of April, 1704, he issued the contract of the 20th of April, 1704, he issued the contract of the 20th of the on the 20th of April, 1704, he issued the first number of the Boston News Letter. and Fridadelphia Ozačete, But Time Free Crab feast at O'Connor's, 119 lin wrote a number of stunning articles It was 8x12 inches in size. On the 3d of November, 1845, that time), he may be considered the it was merged with the North Amerifather of newspapers in this country. Most of the time it consisted of only a half-sheet of foolscap, with two columns printed on each side, but sometimes it assumed the imposing dimensions of a full sheet of foolscap. It was printed by Thomas Green. By way of comparison with the enterprise of modern newspapers, we find the proprietor ern newspapers, we find the proprietor pologizing, on one occasion, for being

William Brooker succeeded Campbell s postmaster in 1719, and in accordance with the precedent set by his pred-ecessor he started, on the 21st of De- for ten years. ember of that year, the second newspaper published in America, calling it the Boston Gazette, and here began the "war of editors," which has conthe "war of editors," which has continued down to the present day. Campbell was jealous of the new enterprise, which was a small sheet printed on a half foolscap. "I pity the readers of the new paper," says John, "it smells stronger of beer than of midnight oil. It is not reading fit for the people." James Franklin printed the paper while it was owned by Brooker, but when it it was owned by Brooker, but when it passed into the hands of Philip Mus grave it was printed by Samuel Knee land. It was the organ of the postmasters for twenty-two years of its exist ence, five of them owning it during that period. It then merged into the New England Journal.

In Philadelphia, on December 22 1719, one day after the Gazette was issued, the third American newspaper was born, the American Weekly cury. Like the other earlier publishers of newspapers, John Bradford, its owner, was postmaster. He was the son of William Bradford, who opened the first printing office in the Colonies. As with its predecessors, the Mercury had trouble with the authorities. Nearly two years after its birth it ventured to print the following paragraph, for which Bradford was ordered before the Provincial Council, and after an apology was reprimanded: "Our General As sembly is now sitting and we have great expectations from them, at this juncture, that they will find some ef-fectual remedy to revive the dying credit of this province and restore us to our former happy circumstances. Under the pseudonym of "Busy Body progress the newspapers of the nine-teenth century have made. A synopsis into trouble. For the following words of Franklin, he was arrested, sent to prison, and then bound over by the court: "To the friends of liberty, firmness of mind and public spirit are absolutely necessary." Bradford displayed some defiance on this occasion, nowever, and the matter ended. The nowever, and the matter ended. The paper took an enterprising step on October 17, 1734, when it printed a description of the battle of Phillipsburg, illustrating it with a diagram.

John Franklin, on August 7, 1721, issued the fourth paper printed in America, called the New England Courant. It proved a more readable newspaper.

ournalism, and procured the indepenlence of the press. With a caustic pen he assailed the abuses of the times as he saw them, while the other papers, being owned by officials, were circumspect as to news and criticism. The writers for the Courant were "free hinkers, free writers, and free talkers, and were called by the clergy of that day the "Hell Fire Club." On Febuary 11, 1722, Ben Franklin, then in his teens, appeared as a journalist, and notwithstanding his youth he infused an energy into the paper worthy of the spirit of modern newspapers. About this time James Franklin was arrested for criticising the authorities for dilatoriness in dispatching a ship to capture a pirate who appeared off Rock Island. After a week's imprisonment he was released on apologizing.

It was not until 1725 that New York had a newspaper. In October, of that year, William Bradford, who printed the London Gazette, issued the New York Gazette, a weekly paper. He was the first to introduce that system of drumming so popular at the present day-offering premiums for subscribers. He was also the first to establish a paper mill in this country.

In 1727 the New England Weekly ournal appeared, "Containing the Journal appeared, "Containing the Most Remarkable Occurrences Both Foreign and Domestick." It was pub lished by Samuel Kneeland, and he announced in his prospectus the engagement of a number of correspondents "the most knowing and ingenious gentlemen in several noted towns" to

> A new epoch now appeared in jour-nalism and a number of papers sprang up all over the Colonies, and with the new era a greater spirit of freedom was exhibited. These later papers were called the "Revolutionary press," and they kindled the smoldering fires of hatred of the British yoke and the demand for sovereignity and popular rights. The fifty years of the period of the Colonial press was a humiliating one for journalism. Their proprietors were arrested and imprisoned for the most trivial reasons, and that they succeeded in existing at all is a tribute to the spirit of enterprise that was then in its infancy and which was the fatherhood of a press that was the great factor in firing the shot at Concord "which was heard around the world."

Bugle Calls.

We are in receipt of a copy of "Bugle Calls," by Benjamin Wood, of New York, and a perusal of the following preface therein will give the reader a good idea of its contents:

The work is an indication of this firm's sentiments for trades unions, and has for its motive a desire to weld the employer and employe into a better and more lasting relation. The Mosaic Marble and Granite Workers protested against an alleged violation of the Federal eight-hour law in the construction of the new public school in Anacostia, it being reported that the granite and other workers on the contract were forced to work nine hours a day. The body refused the admission of the marine engineers; this matter was before a previous meeting at which the steam fitters objected to their admission unless they confined themselves to that strictly to marine operations.

The suffrage committee stated arthe auspices of the body, to hold a mass meeting to urge the extension of the right of suffrage to the District of Columbia. It was reported that there would be a new union-the brotherhood of painters formally organized through

Daniel O'Connell gave me some recollections the other night of Bill Mullins, formerly well known in the West, with whom many of our Westerners were doubtless acquainted. Mullins was a big, fine-looking fellow, and was fond of wearing a "high dicer" and a big caped overcoat, assuming a lordly and arrogant air to correspond with his dress. He was in the habit of working long stretches and then indulging in periods of hilarity. On one occasion, having used big language to a policeman, he was run in on a charge of vagrancy and haled before Judge Cullen, the "Terrible Judge," at the Four Courts. "Let me see your hands," said the

Judge. "Let me see your-r-rs, sor-r-r," said

Mullins. "What!" said the Terrible. "I want to see your hands." "And I want to see your-r-rs, sor-r-r," said Mullins. "My hands will show that I do as much work as you do." Having plenty of witnesses to swear that he worked when he had time to do so, Mullins got off all right.

I hear that Dr. Johnny Atkinson will graduate in the near pretty soon and blossom forth as a full-fledged M. D., licensed to kill at sight. I predict that within a very brief not long he will situations to the winds, stick out his shingle, buy a pair of saddlebags and a buckboard and hereafter make his living out of the miseries of other men than compositors-not here, perhaps, but possibly among the frog-infested swamps of Indiana. I don't know anything about it, but that is my guess from my knowledge of the man. He has seen too many professional men go forth from the G. P. O. to fame and fortune to waste, his time sundowning, when it is evident that is not the path to glory or boodle.

By the way, I often wonder why men will lose all the fun by devoting their time to studying a profession, spending good money to pay for tuition and books, only to forget all they have acquired while watching the clock and waiting for the paymaster in the G. P. O. To know all the intricacies of the law, all there is to know of medicine, of dentistry, of veterinary science, of electrical engineering, etc., does not make a man any better printer or proofreader -on the contrary, because of the great draft on the intellectual faculties, it rather detracts from his typographical abilities by distracting his attention Oyster roast 10 cents, day and night. Canadian union carpenters are moving from the pesky little details that are so worthless and so necessary in printing. A man is better equipped to begin a professional life immediately on graduating than he ever will be later on, for he begins to forget the moment he ceases to add to his knowledge.

> There is a printer-lawyer downtown, successful one, who had almost to be kicked into his career. No matter who he is-I won't tell anyway. When he graduated some of his friends said to

"Tom"-Tom is not his name-"Tom, why don't you resign and go to practicing law?"

"Oh, I'm afraid I won't succeed." "Go on and try. You'll never succeed if you don't," said his friends.

"I know where I can get $60 a month to start with," said he. "If I had $100 I would try it."

A hasty consultation and his friends tackled him again:

"Here's your $100. You can pay it back when you get able. Now go on." "I believe you fellows want me to starve to death," moaned he. "But

He did, and he made a success from the go-off, paid his indebtedness, and wouldn't accept the proprietorship of the G. P. O. to-day if he could get it.

A man, before taking up the study of a profession, particularly the law, ought to canvass himself thoroughly and try to come to an impartial conclusion whether he has the "gum" in him to

On several occasions at a meeting of the Central Labor Union the delegates of the Cigarmakers' Union have openly charged the trades unionists employed in the Government Printing Office with patronizing and smoking scab cigars. Now we know that no union printers, bookbinders, pressmen, or any other craft employed in the G. P. O. is desirous of advocating or assisting any scab establishment and especially the rank concerns that manufacture scab cigars. It is the duty of every union man to demand the Blue Label and insist on his dealer handling that brand. We do brand of blue label cigars, but we will state that the cigars manufactured in this city by members of Cigarmakers' Union, No. 110, affiliated with the Cen preference.

When one looks over the list of successful professional men who have danger of failure, if he is made of the men nowadays. right stuff? And if he is not made of the right stuff, why did he waste his time fooling with it?

One day last week Dr. Frank H. Miner read a paper before the American Therapeutic Society on "Hypnotism-A practical demonstration of its therapeutic value." He illustrated his discourse with a patient, Willie Brosnan, 14 years old, whom he had cured of the cigarette habit. He showed how perfectly the boy was under his control and demonstrated to the satisfaction of the physicians present all that he claimed as to the tastes, appetites, and desires of the patient being subject to his will, in which he was enthusiastically applauded. As a printer and former employee of the Government Printing Office, we are all proud of Dr. Miner's professional success.

Whether I was right in my conjecture that "Maud S." and "Slug Sixty" are one or not, I did some good in smoking the latter out of his retirement, and we all enjoyed his babble last week.

Joe McCann's personal recollections of colonial newspapers were also very entertaining, and one naturally wonders that that matter had never been written up before.

By the way, why would it not be a good idea to form a Journalistic Society, as a sort of running mate of the Debating Society, get space in THE TRADES UNIONIST, and air our talents in that a testimonial which he will not fail to way? Nine out of ten of us can write better than we can speak, and think was conceded, and whatever doubts he what an advantage it would give the may have entertained in the matter reader of the one over the listener to there were none among his supporters the other. Several of the boys got squeezed in the stock market flurry last week, among others Charlie Graff-about $400 legitimately lost and about $580 by his broker closing his doors. Shelby Smith got pinched slightly last fall in the same way. That is the beauty of these bucket shops-if you win, they "welch" and beat you; if you lose, why, "Better luck next time!"

The opening chapter of "Maud S.'s" story, "Rhoda Roland," appeared in last Sunday's Globe and reads very smoothly. Of course it is too early to judge of the merits of the story or the style, but, against my solemn vow never to read continued stories, I propose to follow this one through.

The weekly meeting of the Central Labor Union was called to order by to the absence from the city of President Feeney; Secretary, Charles E. Dietrich.

Delegates from forty-six of the allied trades organizations were present.

Credentials were received from a number of organizations. The body indorsed the contracts of both the Bottlers Union, No. 8647 and the Machinists.

Communications were received from Mr. E. L. Jordon requesting the body to appoint a committee to confer with the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association to reach an understanding that saloons use nothing but union products and employ union labor; G. W. Perkins, of Cigarmakers' International Union, thanking body for indorsing boycott against General Arthur, Cremo, Robert Burns, Tom Moore, George W. Childs, and Henry George cigars; Charles C. Blake, President of C. L. U. of Jacksonville, Fla., appealing for assistance from fellow craftsmen, and this matter was referred to the various locals through their delegates. Labor Day committee reported having organized by electing E. J. Ratigan, chairman; Charles W. Winslow, secretary, and J. H. Heisley, treasurer.

Many matters were referred to the Grievance committee.

It was reported that the differences between the street railway company and its employees had been adjusted, and the delegates thanked the body for its assistance in the matter.

A Correction.

EDITORS THE TRADES UNIONIST: DEAR SIRS-In the proceedings of the C. L. U., published May 16, 1901, you say that admission to the C. L. U. of the Marine Engineers' Benevolent Association was opposed by the Steam Fitters. This is an error, as the most friendly relations exist between these organizations; the Union making the protest was Local Union, No. 14, Steam

Engineers. Please make this correction as it places the steam fitters of Washington (who are on the most friendly terms with all labor organizations) in a bad light. Yours fraternally,

E. J. RATIGAN, Chairman, Ex. Bd. L. B., No. 10, N. A.

There was a fair-sized attendance Sunday at Typographical Temple, it being the regular monthly meeting of Columbia Union, No. 101.

Five new candidates were obligated. Business committee reported upon the case of Mr. Brooke vs. the action of the chairman of the Third Division who imposed upon him a fine for the infraction of an unwritten chapel rule. Mr. Brooke contended he had violated no established rule or law. The union, however, indorsed the decision of the Nope; it was due to votes-and to committee and Mr. Brooke gave notice Willie Maguire. All of which doesn't affect my corns in the least.

Speaking of corns, that was quite a squeal let out by that pestle juggler, Marion E. Bullock, because some of the Proof Room correspondence was blue-penciled. If it was of the kind lately aimed at "Hot Scotch" the readers of this paper owe the editors a rising vote of thanks. As for news items, nothing ever happens in the Proof Room anyway except pay day, and that not often enough to deserve mention. And if you don't like the way things are run around here, Bull, you can just pack up your agricultural implements and go back to Kansas. see by the papers that they need farm hands there a great deal worse than they do in the G. P. O.

Now get sore again.

Nay, nay, Bloomer, you'll not inveigle me into any Writers' Society; not on your kimona. Your flow of reminiscence is entirely too copious to insure an equitable division of space, and an inexperienced, innocent young person like myself would feel like a discarded deuce among a lot of old backcapping ink slingers like yourself and Joe Mcing the printer from mutilating my myself, thank you!

Speaking of backcapping-an' I'm jest natchelly agin' it, which is not to be wondered at, since I have an anvil on either side of me a-going all daysided over by Ben Shannon at lunch Fleming yet. Dud is something of a Knockers. Consequently all this consequence.

However, I am digressing. What I started to remark about is the curious candidates run like the-well, like all monstrates that we are irresistibly attracted to the people blessed with creases in the back of the neck. It's Unionist, and as such he was one of to these skinny yaps with the high collars that we hand out a few swift dents of the craft and of organized labor in the remarks column every time. And this being so, let us hope that next year Bill Bailey will consent to the use of his name and figure in connection with any old office on the ticket. Then there will be gaiety galore, and automobiles will be in demand by the people who want to be in the running.

Some day when I'm about a thousand ahead on my average I'm going to do a little reminiscing on my own hook, and Events, and Attention Is Called to the of woe that have been poured into my Advantage Possessed by the Candidate ears at odd moments during my stay on this globe. I like to have people The next time Cos Rodier makes a tell me their troubles. It makes me the resolutions emanated not from the Clerks' Union, but from an individual delegate." This, to me, seems to be a poor excuse for opposing any set of resolutions, as any resolution pre-sented by a delegate to the Central body, as an individual, should receive as much consideration as if it bore the seal of an organization.

Again, Mr. Babcock says, "The onus of the organization of the League was thrown upon Columbia Union." This I must also deny. It is true that the resolutions directed a committee to wait upon the officers of Columbia Union and "secure their co-operation in defeating the movement," but instead of throwing any "onus upon Co-lumbia Union," it was intended, if pos-sible, through the officers of that organization, to prevent any stigma from resting upon the name of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101, which has, up to the present time, a clear record, and has in every way upheld the interests of trades unionism.

interests of trades unionism. No one appreciates more than I do the assistance that Columbia Union has been to the local movement, and nothing would be farther from my thoughts than to do anything which might reflect discredit upon that organization.

Had I been a flowery-tongued orator the resolutions might have received more consideration, but with such eloquent opponents as Mr. Feeney and Mr. Babcock I could look for nothing but defeat.

I am proud to have taken the position which I have in regard to the Con-sumers' League, and if the time should ever come when it is proven beyond a doubt to the trades unionists of Wash ington that the League is detrimental o the best interests of trades unit I can with satisfaction remember that I

Congratulations and kindly words of appreciation of my humble efforts to such marks of consideration.

This opens the way for a word or two upon the subject of what-to use Mr. Bloomer's facetious expression-"will make the 'rag' an article sought for.' I am of opinion that reference to rainbow-hued hose, loud suspenders, or shrieking neckwear is unfit for ; publication and never gains a friend. As to personalities and allusions to deformities, either of mind or body, contributed by unscrupulous persons under the cover of a slangy nom de plume—well, cover of a slangy nom de plume-well, it is intolerable, for it is assassination pure and simple, and engenders nothing but animosity. I am equally of opinion that there are in our midst hosts of brainy men and women who are fully equal to and ready for the

Who are the critics? Folks that haven't enough sense to go under a shed with the other cattle when it rains.

The unanimous endorsement by Co-lumbia Union of President Lawson's administration by an oppositionless re nomination for another term is a well deserved compliment, and clearly shows that he enjoys the entire confi-His uniform courtesy and splendid busi ness methods as applied to matters pertaining to the craft eminently qualify him for the trusts and honors bestowed upon him. I prophesy that still greater honors are in store for him in the future.

We were favored by calls from the several candidates during the past fort-night. Their bowing and scraping were most pathetic, and the efforts of some to utilize my tip of how to "cinch this cosmopolitan crowd resulted in very amusing incidents, one or two or which are worth relating: The sun shone resplendently without, and the aroma of the luscious plants penetrated the walls and filled the atmosphere within, when sudden-like the scent took on a different hue and strongly re-minded one of a combination of garlio and asafoetida, sauerkraut and burger. Upon investigation it was discovered that the transformation was caused by a "filler" smoked by a visiting candidate, who explained that the article bears the name of "Smoke of all Nations," recently imported from China, composed as it is of a variety of nerve tonics peculiar to the different European peoples. He had quite a supply on hand for distribution among the voters, intending to indicate there by his many-sided attitude on political issues, but he was dissuaded from his purpose and induced to tell some funny story instead. He made quite a hit with his white owl yarn, but that is another story. "Cristoforo Colombo, meum teum de chepa banan' fiva canta," was the graceful way in which one of the aspirants introduced himself to me. I was not to be outdone, however, and turning to the candidate I replied, "Me talka dago, sama lika you," when he mumbled something about it being all a mistake, and took

> Lack of space as well as the sense of impropriety in mixing up the exclusive set—printers—with the auxilliary departments of this branch, prevented me from giving an account of the press room and bindery in the same issue. I hope this will set me right in some quarters where I have been threatened with becoming persona non grata for my seeming neglect.

To Mr. J. M. Little belongs the proud distinction of presiding over the most modern branch press room in the District. The machinery and equipments are of the best and latests design, and the workmanship fully corresponds with the general artistic tone of the granding this is a solution of the granding that the second the general artistic tone of the grand institution of which it is an essential part. The working force is composed of Mr. Little, pressman, an affable and courteous gentleman; Misses Blanche Hurley and Gertrude Stanley, feeders, charming young ladies both in person and attaiaments; William McMullan, laborer, an exceptionally intelligent and hard working man divides his duties between the press room and composing furnish something "readable" in a recent issue have come to me thick and fast, and I thank one and all for man, Mr. William H. Fisher.

Thanks to the varied experience and consummate skill in the art of book bind-ing of Mr. H. C. Espey, foreman of the bindery of the Library of Congress, this very important department of the source of learning of our great nation stands pre-eminently as the ne plus ultra of any like institution in the world. All of the machinery, except one cutter, is of the 20th century pattern, and the tools and furnishings are both ornamental and lasting, resulting in surprisforce of clever men and charming ladies The personnel follows: Foreman, H. C. Espey; marbler, Louis E. Boo; binders, R. T. Anderson, Geo. H. Aukward, Arthur E. Baker, Esau Beall, Wm. Berwick, Robt. L. Bier, Ross J. Blosser, John K. Bush, Bert C. Champlin Local A. are fully equal to and ready for the task of contributing spicy notes of interest, fact and fancies, live issues of the day, etc., without unjustly inflicting an injury upon anyone, just as soon as the columns of this paper have been purged of the nests of unclean birds.

It is inconceivable how anyone knowing Mr. Wm. R. Bolten could have possibly construed my reference to his native land and its peculiarly named cities as a reflection on his mode of speech, but such seems to have been the case. It is needless to say that nothing is farther from the truth, for, as a matter of fact, Mr. Bolten is noted as a polished young gentleman whose form of speech is refinement itself and might well be emulated by others.

THE CENTRAL LABOR UNION

American Federation of Labor To Be Invited To Meet Here in 1902.

FAVORED BY BUSINESS PEOPLE

The Usual Routine and Other Business Union Persistent in Compelling Union Men to Avoid "Scab" Shops-Many Or-Dealers' Communication.

The Central Labor Union met in weekly session Monday night at Typographical Temple. Vice-President Kimpton, "Jy" Ross (the foreman of Hammerstrom presiding, and C. E. the Times), "Mickey" Camp (now Dietrich secretary.

The representatives of the usual number of organizations were present and considerable business was transacted.

Communications were read from the Board of Trade, the Commissioners, Business Men's Association, and many through Binghamton, Elmira, and other other prominent associations urging the holding in this city of the convention of the American Federation in 1902. Messrs. Feeney, Dietrich, and this route, and at the latter I found at Kennedy were appointed a committee work an old fellow named Tinker that to enlist the co-operation of various labor organizations throughout the before. Here we boarded a freight country and to bring the matter before train bound west, and it was so cold the next convention at Scranton, Pa., we nearly froze to death. I had a in December.

Credentials were received from the Patternmakers' Association of Washington and vicinity.

Among other communications received was one from Barbers' Union, No. 239, relative to the patronizing of a "scab" shop by a merchant who pretends to be a union man; from Superintendent L. E. Sinclair, who stated he had no control in the matter of the alleged acts of employes working for outside firms after working hours; from the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association relative to a committee of their association being appointed to confer with a like committee of this body in the matter of plans for closer affiliation; from the Bricklayers' Union, No. 1, relative to the employment of non- ran the 18 miles in four hours, to keep and see exactly what he is driving at. union hod carriers and iron men on a from freezing to death, only to find Notwithstanding gory rumors through building at Thomas Circle, and one from the R. Among the talent there were Ed Flanagin, Fitzhenry, "Russ" McQuillan, Harry working in the Second Division), and others whose names have escaped me. The boys had a camp at a railway tunnel about two miles out of town, where they lived on the proceeds of the occasional day's work done by members of the gang. Leaving there, we passed sizable villages without getting a show for a day's work. Horseheads, Painted Post, Hornellsville, and Corning are on I had known in Kansas several years small "vial of wrath," as Col. Tebbetts used to call it, which we kept for medicinal purposes, and it occurred to us, shortly after the train pulled out, that it was about our medicine time. There was only one dose around remaining. 1 handed the flask to Smith, as I supposed, for it was pitch dark in the car -at any rate, Chew handed it back to me, and I supposed it had been around, so I finished it. I was just thinking how generous the boys were to me after Captain Dunlap is now one of the veterans of the office, having been employed there for nearly twenty-eight vears, most of the time in the Proof Room. During the administration of Mr. Defrees there was much "furloughing," which brought a great deal of execration upon the Public Printer. Though I believe the Captain was never 'furloughed," he joined in the general indignation, and one day, speaking feelingly on the subject, he added:

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather a goodly crowd of the printers and their friends met in the woods near Brentwood last Sunday to celebrate the election of the successful candidates at the recent election of officers of Columbia Union. Refreshments of various kinds were in abundant evidence, and everybody had a good time. A delegate-elect was master of cereand everything passed off smoothly. Singing by Whitehead and Handiboe's quartet was a pleasant feature of the day, and the greeting of each crowd as it came in view with the tuneful "Hail, hail! the gang's all here!" afforded much enjoyment. Several recitations by Mr. Murphy were received with enthusiastic approval, and an Irish song, about how our only Pat Raedy whipped Billy McMillan, "brought down the house," as it were. President Lawson honored the occasion with his presence, and even the sedate Charley Otis and the disgruntled Major Vaughan were much in evidence. A drizzling rain marred to a very great extent the pleasure of the day, and caused a postponement of the fat men's race on account of the heavy going. But altogether it was a most pleasant occasion, and gave everyone who was there cause for feeling that it s sometimes good to be alive, especially to all such occasions as that.

While walking down the avenue last Sunday afternoon your correspondent 'met up" with Bullock, and after ighting a couple of Havanas we interviewed him concerning Cemetery Reporter Bloomer's attack last week:

"Why, yes, the chief grave digger who edits the mortuary statistic page accidental, too; I did not intend to to be so tender without much previous Dr. Johnathan Franklyne Atkinson, boiling, eh? His Bloomers is an interesting writer when he has a live topic to write about, but the recounting of a coarse joke of some hobo printer who died forty years ago is rather tiresome reading for people who never before heard of the hobo referred to. I suppose, however, that this is his last volume he is giving us, as he told me at the time he rolled up his sleeves, spit on his hands, and began to dig up his dead associates of ante belium days, that he was 'about wrote out.' There are a lot of people in the Proof Room and out of it who hope so, and who have said that ' Pard 'ought to have a chaperone who would tell him when he had said enough and when to sit down. Personally, I do not care, since I am no longer responsible for the Proof Room column.

"Yes, that is right; 'Pard' must have had a bad night just before he wrote that the blank space in the Proof Room column 'contained more good sense than anything under that head since An Act quit us.' The rush of blood to his head at that moment must have been terrific and made him real dizzy, else he would not have so senselessly attacked the efforts of half the members of the Proof Room-many of whom are his peers in all respects—as he well knows that many writers make up the Proof Room notes. The next time I meet him I will get him a 'high ball' and 'please him up.'"

SOLILOQUIZATIONS OF SLUG SIXTY

In Which Backcapping Is Denounced as National Evil and Sinners Are Called On to Reform and Be Good Like the Writer

As I have remarked before, I'm jest natchelly agin' backcappin', an' the more I think of it the worse I get. We are a nation of knockers, and the spirit of forbearance is not in us. From early morn till far into the night there rises to heaven a great volume of music of the chin variety, and our neighbors, individually and collectively, are getting the worst of it. We greet them daily with an affectionate "Art well, my brother?" but always keep one eye open for a good chance to soak 'em a hot one, and we don't care two grabs at a bargain counter whether we land it on the seat of their intellect or trousers. And when a genuine opportunity with the trade-mark cut in the handle doesn't present itself we soak 'em one anyway on suspicion.

It's been that way ever since Abel was swatted by his brother for working the hook.

And it's the quiet, inoffensive, meeklooking gazabe who selfishly persists in minding his own business that we favor as a chopping block. A man who doesn't take enough interest in public affairs to come over to the corner and knock on the police force occasionally as no license to stay on earth anyway. Better men are locked up in jail or otherwise given the rinky-dink every

We all know people like that and perhaps a good deal worse. For my part, I can't imagine one meaner than the neighbor I used to have who would get out his garden hose every evening during the summer and wet down his own lawn, but coolly ignored the gentle hint that he could save me considerable exertion by wetting down mine while he was about it. A man like that must have a soul like dried beef. But of course I wouldn't say so in public. That's merely my private opinion, an' I'm too dead set agin' backcappin' to publicly express my private opinion of some people.

I realize, however, that by keeping in the straight and narrow path I'll miss barrels of fun and come to no turns in the road.

So overpowering at times becomes the temptation to relegate to the cellar my beautiful perforated-cardboard motto "Love One Another," worked in eighteen different shades of red, white, and blue worsted, that I have to kick the cat to give vent to my feelings, which always results in a row with ally bottled. my other half. We must reform; but as in the case of the Presbyterian creed revision we will meet with opposition, and will progress in the wrong direction someimes. When a comp. deliberately changes the name "W. J. Brodnax" to 'James Brodnax' in setting up a list of colored Virginia voters the angel of mercy must feel like taking a few days' leave, and "Broady," being from Arkansas, is fully justified in taking to the middle of the road and declaring himself.

As for the weather man-such a lowdown Irish trick as serving up a very bum quality of November weather for last Sunday's May party and boozefest at Highland simply calls for lurid language and a resignation from the Weather Bureau.

It's just such things that block the wheels of reform till we reformers feel like giving up in despair and doing a little anvil business of our own.

Nevertheless we return to the scratch like the man with the seven years' contract, and our hearts are buoyed up with the hope that Shelby Smith and Sam Presley will some day see the error of their backcapping ways and that the spirit of regeneration will make a few passes over the street-car conductor who from his position on the rear platform informs the passengers that the Keely Cure shops are made necessary by the woman who gallivants found, personally, in his front yard, down town with her head so full of and after reading one article and glancnine-cent ribbon marked down from ten that she forgets to ask for a transfer when she pays her fare.

The tellers in the recent election were only off from the office roll two hours, having worked six hours for the Government. Eight hours constitute a legal day's work, consequently the chairman quite properly decided to pay each teller for actual time lost from work by reason of his services to the Union, and to retain the slight balance in the hands of the chapel secretary as a fund available for chairitable or any other use the chapel may direct. As one of the tellers I approve of his action.

Night Owl Hoots.

From the effusions written over the the nom de plume of "Handy Andy," in the Press Room items, one might take him seriously did they not know the artist's (?) good opinion of self. In his poem dedicated to those of the "night owls," who were transferred to other parts of the office after the breaking up of the night forces, he pictures the ladies bemoaning their fate and regretting their departure from his ever pleasant (?) presence, but he fails to think that there are times one enjoys We have several people of the drug being awfully alone and away from scenes that annoy, and his impressions on the "wailing and weeping" portion of his "best effort" would be somewhat lessened if the many would tell Martin H. Flynn is holding copy, and him what he does not know. Cheer waiting for his sprained ankle to get up, Handy Andy, do not worry about us, but look out for the footlights, and Why is the body type of this division avoid being the hero of your own story.

If upon this advice you rest And in its strength abide. Believing all is for the best, Cheer up, and look on the sunny side. NIGHT OWL.

Death of W. W. Deloe.

Died at the age of 58 years at his late residence, 820 I street northeast, in this city, May 27, 1901, Mr. W. W. Deloe, and was buried Wednesday, May 29, in Glenwood cemetery.

Mr. Deloe was, up to the time of his sickness and death, employed as a re viser in the Government Printing Office where he had been employed in various capacities for several years. For the past three or four months he was a great sufferer from a complication of diseases which ended in his death. He was a veteran of the civil war, and enlisted in Company H, of the 15th West Virginia Infantry, August 9, 1862, and was mustered out April 16, 1866, at Fort McHenry, Md. At the battle of Hatcher's Run, Va., March 30, 1865, he received a wound in his right leg that necessitated amputation above the knee, and as a result was compelled to use crutches the remainder of his life. During his service he was a special correspondent of the Wheeling (W.Va.) Intelligencer, and for ten months was on detached duty at General Sigel's headquarters in charge of headquarters printing. Early in life he became a member of the Methodist Church, and lived a conscientious, Christian life ever after. He was a kind and indulgent husba father and leaves a widow and four sons to mourn his untimely death.

A man of strict integrity, high moral principles, and pure thoughts he commanded the respect of all whose privilege it was to know him, and to know him was to enjoy the acquaintance of a man who left the world better off for having lived in it.

WHEN I AM DEAD.

By HANNIBAL, Fifth Division, G. P. O. When I am dead, a world unborn Will come to life, and laugh to scorn Those whom to-day would gladly see The toiling mass in misery.

When I am dead, the ties that bind And rivet fellowship and mankind To one another will still expand To broader brotherhood o'er the land.

When I am dead, the ropes that coil Round the necks of those who daily toil Will splice and snap, and those who gain By such transition will live again.

When I am dead, this scorn and strife-

This care and sorrow, this tiresome life-Will yield to a nobler, more sublime Acme of happiness in every clime. When I am dead, some "morning star" Will point a rescue; from afar

Of shorter hours and better pay. When I am dead, the tidal wave Of vast humanity shall rise and save Those of our brothers who may still Be in the grasp of a tyrant's Will.

Clearly behold I the glorious day

cle in my pocket which was handed to me Saturday by a man who works near enough to him every day to distinguish him without the aid of a telescope (that is, if 'Sixty' happens to be standing up, for his desk hides his diminutive form when he sits down) wherein 'Sixty' is referred to as a 'little, puny, dried up, pigeon-toed sycophant,' etc. Oh, it is rich, but-no I won't let you have it this week. I do not care anything about such a small pimple; if it should ever grow large enough to be a real boil I will lance it; but it is too small now. Why, a man who lives near him told me this morning that 'he is such an abbreviated dear that he has to climb upon a chair to kiss his little girl goodbye when he leaves for the office.' What a hit he would make in a circus if he could be developed to a man's size, and marked Exhibit Abeing the case of a swollen runt which developed a resemblance to the genus homo after all hope was gone. There goes my car. So long!" In reply to Pard Bloomer's tirade against those who choose to utilize their spare time and some money in improving their mental faculties we desire to state that his statements are not admitted by those most competent to pass judgment, by any manner of means. In the first place it is nobody's handsomest roosters came home on business what a man chooses to devote one foot the other day with a string his leisure time and energy to after working hours so long as he does not violate the law of the land or his obligations to society and is able to give a fair return in the form of labor for the salary paid him. We maintain that the more knowledge the employee possesses the more valuable he is to his employer. It is the experience of every graduate from an institution of learning the truth of which can be verified by observation and inquiry, that he is constantly being appealed to for technical information by his fellow workmen in regard to matters that only too often arise to mystify and confuse the compositor and proof reader in his nerve-trying efforts to decipher illegible manuscript or grasp the meaning of an author's language that frequently has been jumbled out of sequence by an inefficient typewriter. If a graduate chooses to bid his own time and opportunity in severing his connection from Uncle Sam's employment, that is pre-emipently his own affair, and it is reasonable to assume that he is as conversant with his own abilities, necessities, and resources as he who offers advice unasked. It requires capital to enter upon a professional career as well as a business one. The professions are all crowded-what calling is not-and he who is best equipped mentally and financially is the more liable to succeed and no one knows it better than the professional graduate who has studied the matter carefully and thoroughly It takes as much money, if not more for a man who has a family dependent upon him to enter upon a professional career and maintain himself so as to enjoy the respect of the community as it does to start a good country newspaper, and buy it outright at that. Why not start a paper, Pard? You have the ability and experience and are constantly advising others what to do-which seems to be the mission of old men who have failed in life and some newspaper writers. And as to the statement that a student is better equipped to enter a profession the day

he graduates than at any subsequent

HATS = 98c. time, we again dissent from. It is true that the student may be able to give more text-book definitions than later on, but if he loves his profession he way for the devotes a part of his time to reading "straws" we and acquiring practical knowledge-a are going to prerequisite to success. Then there put out a lot are thousands who pursue a professional course as an embellishment to of stylish soft and stiff hats in all the their education. We will take the leading shapes—the regular $1.50 to study of law as an example, many take this course in order to better equip themselves for other callings in life-a business one for instance. It has remained for you to discover that knowledge ever destroyed a man's usefulness in a printing office where, of all places, a general knowledge of all things is desirable. As stated by some one, " little knowledge is a dangerous thing,' and adopting your article in a recent issue as a criterion, you have amply explified that trite old adage.

FOURTEENTH CONVENTION

Of the Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers of America.

MANY DELEGATES PARTICIPATE

Legislation of Importance Transacted-Many Difficulties Straightened Out-The Officers of the National Body-Delegates Entertained and Treated to Sightseeing by Local Organizations-Fund for Organization Recommended.

The Fourteenth Annual Convention of the National Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers of America was called to order Monday, at Typographical Temple, by Vice President Thomas McCormick, of Yonkers. N. Y., owing to the absence of President James Flahery, of St. Louis.

An address of welcome was delivered by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, and found hearty response and approval.

The first day's session was devoted to organization, the following committees being named:

By-Laws-T. Tasker, H. Dixon, H. Bacheller, D. Rice, and T. Kinsella. Ritual-R. J. Brown, H. Bacheller, and William McKnight. Good of the Order-H. Dixon, ] Tasker, D. D. Condon, T. Kinsella, J.

J. Brophy, and R. McDonald. Press-J. Torpey, F. Brennon, and W. L. Oustatt.

Tuesday morning's session was devoted to the reading of reports by the officers and special committees.

Some discussion was aroused by the presentation of a report by a special committee on the controversy between the steam fitters and plumbers. The disagreement, one of long standing, concerns the field of work which the two organizations are supposed to cover. The steam fitters complain that the plumbers have invaded their line and are doing steam fitting work which should fall to the steam and hot water fitters. An attempt has been made to settle the dispute, and some months ago, at the instigation of the American Federation of Labor, a meeting was held at Chicago, at which were present committees from the steam fitters' and plumbers' organizations and from the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor. The plan submitted by the representatives of the steam fitters included the granting of new charters to both organizations and the appointment of a committee to examine the situation and draw up rules

The final purchase of the western Saks regulating the sphere of work to be covered by each organization. The plumbers, according to the steam fitters, refused to have anything to do North Capitol street, Saturday night. with the proposition.

Another report on the disagreement with the sprinkler fitters, who it is claimed, are also infringing upon the work of the steam fitters, was read and a special committee was appointed to consider and report upon it.

The report of the secretary and treasurer announced the formation of seven District of Columbia and with the new unions during the last year with an American Federation of Labor that aggregate membership of about 300 members. It was stated that there had been four strikes during the year, one carried to a successful conclusion, one lost, one compromised, and one at Baltimore still pending.

The secretary recommended further assessments upon the members to go

Daniel D. Condon, the central organizer, reported upon the work done, declaring it to be encouraging, but suggesting that more attention be paid to formation of local unions around Wash-

The application of the steam fitters in Colorado Springs to be allowed in the union was received and referred to a committee.

The convention has been in session during the week holding two meetings daily; this program will be continued until Saturday afternoon, when the delegates will particibate in an excursion to Chesapeake Beach, Md.

Tuesday the delegates were treated to a sight seeing excursion about the city by the local unions. Wednesday Driscoll's, N. Cap. and Gsts.

evening the Congressional Library was visited, and they are to attend a smoker and reunion on Thursday evening at A Little More About Printer Professionalsthe Temple.

The social features of the convention have been arranged by a committee of the local organization, Nos. 10 and 28, composed of E. J. Ratigan, O. B. Biggs, D. A. Condon, I. A. Slyder, H. Poore, W. Hollohan, W. J. Spauls, T. L. Hess, M. Caton, Stover Zea, E. King, F. W. Brennen, Joseph Douglass, William Gales, Henry Horning, Ellis Jones, A. Boyce, O. Heitmuller, E. A. Conboy, Timothy Murphy, and Charles Krause,

The officers of the national organization are: James Flaherty, president, stow, secretary-treasurer, Chicago, Ill.; and J. H. Whalen, Milwaukee, Wis. member of the executive board.

S. Kann. Sons & Co. Expansionists.

On Monday morning, May 27, last one of the largest business transactions ever negotiated in this city was consummated. By the terms of the papers signed in said transaction the firm of S. Kann, Sons & Co. secure control by purchase and lease of the western secion of the Saks stores, known as the Emmons S. Smith building.

In many ways, as the deal is a large one, it will have a very important bearing on the Washington retail business.

The firm is deserving of much credit, as in all their dealings with organized labor and the public generally they have been most courteous and fair.

The firm of S. Kann, Sons & Co. first entered the Washington business field in 1893, opening a store on Market space east of Eighth street, and later the premises occupied by E. G. Davis & Son were transferred to them. W. A. Pierce & Co., who had succeeded E. G. Davis & Son in the management of the men, places, and things of all times. He business, were in possession when the actual transfer took place.

Calf-Something Judge Ennis Doesn't Know-A Rounds Recollection-Worse Than Wife-Beating-Dan Flynn and Tom Briscoe-Brief Mention

A couple of weeks ago, in an article containing a mention of Dr. Johnny Atkinson's graduation, I wondered why a man would spend the best years of his life acquiring a profession, only to forget it, for want of use, while continuing at his work in the G. ### The "Chicago Situation."

The delegates from Chicago Typographical Union to the Federation of Labor have been expelled because of the failure of their union to take action supporting the pressmen in their Chicago strike. The proposition emanated from the pressmen delegates, and is considered by a number of No. 16's members tantamount to the break ing of the tripartite agreement, since James A. Bowman, President of the International Printing Pressmen's Union and of the tripartite conference, is also President of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and urged the expulsion of the typographical union delegates for the sole reason that that body had insisted the pressmen do business in accordance with law .- Seattle Union Record.

I get to thinking sometimes-I know it's a bad habit and one that will eventually metamorphose my gray matter into a sky-blue brown, but it's a habit I contracted some years ago, and even my experience on specifications has failed to entirely free me from its clutches. You know how some habits will get hold of a person. Even eating and drinking, according to Bernarr Macfadden, the physical-culturist, are mere habits, and health-destroying ones at that, which are entitled to all the approbrium we have been heaping on the gentle microbe and his companion in crime, the fresh-air fiend. But nevertheless and notwithstanding we will go right on howling for three square meals a day, while the jocose "devilish-crab man" and the festive high ball will tease all kinds of money out of our manner. ### Little Willie's Letter.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I am a little boy just 10 years old. My papa borrows your nice little paper every week and brings it home from the Government Printing Office and reads it to mamma and me, and we so enjoy hearing him read and then cuss. He says when he gets the preferred job he has his hooks out for then he may subscribe, but as his union card costs so much and living is so much sibility has not been burdensome. higher here than at home he can't pass from the art preservative to the afford to take a paper. Then ma afford to take a paper. Then ma asked him why he didn't buy a cheaper union card every month and he called her a d-fool.

But that isn't what I wanted to tell you. He don't like your reporters. Just listen to what he says as he reads your paper:

"Well, wouldn't that jar you! Here's a saphead writing under 'Proof Room notes taking up nearly three columns of agony trying to roast the editor of the 'Undertaker's Review' column. How in h- Patton stands for such four flushing I don't know. He should be allowed a 2-inch space between O'Connor's crab-feast local and Driscoll's livery sale. I'd stuff the columns with pied type before I would let a gazaboo mangle my paper just because he had pull enough to be in the Proof Room.

"Bloomer deserves a roast now and t en, but not at the expense of TRADES UNIONIST readers. He is the best correspondent the paper has, and he knows how to toss a bouquet where it will do the most good-to Bloomer.

"Here's 'Slug 60' again. He ought o change his slug to 29, because he sn't half so good as he was last season. Wonder if his 'king' of 'solo' days is

"And here's another! Oh, Lord! The Sixth Division man finds a copy of the first issue of The Sunday Globe. He reads it; then tears it up."

"Well, what then?" ma asked.

"What then! Why, he has just discovered that the rag is still running without his permission and has here thrown a fit, but promises to take more drastic measures if one should ever blow into his yard again—he will tell drop stitch Hose, 23 cents. Tanzer's the policeman on 'em so he will.

"This looks to me like playing for recognition from the front office," pa said.

Then pa got gay with his cash and sent me out after a nickel's worth of beer in 2-gallon bucket, and I don't know what else he said, but ma told patronage: me, while pa had his head in the bucket, that he cussed some when he read what "Hot Scotch" had to say.

Ma then changed the subject and asked pa for a dollar to buy lace for an open-work shirtwaist, and I thought pa was going to have heart disease. He rallied, though, and told her he couldn't spare the money, as he had been bumped twice in a pitch game and must cut down expenses. Then I went to bed.

Presentation to Dr. Philes.

A very pleasant incident took place last Wednesday in the First Division when Dr. W. E. Philes, of the Surgeon with a surgical case, hand bag, and obstetrical forceps by his friends in honor of his graduation at the National University of Medicine.

In making the presentation Judge Mabrey said:

DR. PHILES: So far as known your life has been an active and a useful one; and from all the accounts which have come down to us, its currents seems to have set all in one direction—the helping of others, and the saving of things —except, perhaps, the saving of lucre and saving grace. In the field which you have chosen for your life work you continue on this course, and will try to save our health and even our lives.

The first reliable account we have of independent action on your part shows that at a very early age you were seized with a desire to improve and better protect your fellow beings. By this account we find you engaged in the manufacture of a yeast, which was designed to save the human digestive system from the miseries of soda and saleratus. Your efforts were crowned with success, and to day yeast may be found in every grocery store.

Next we hear of you as a uniformed fire-fighter, risking not only your per son, but your gorgeous raiment as well in endeavors to save other people's property from destruction. To-day insurance is far cheaper than before you entered the lists as an enemy of the

To-day we know you as a follower of Faust and Guttenburg in the "Art preservative of arts," which has stored up and preserved the knowledge and wisdom of all ages for those who will read. To morrow we will know you as a disciple of Aesculapius. Beyond that we can not see. Your tools will change from our familiar stick and rule and sponge and crock to the, to us, unknown scalpel and forceps. Hitherto your work has been where all might see and judge and the personal respon-sibility has not been burdensome. You of your errors may be covered up. You assume the very greatest of human re-sponsibilities in dealing with life and death, where all earthly riches and all wordly powers stand impotent. May you fully realize the grave duties you take upon yourself, and may conscience and integrity guide your every action. Your friends can wish you no more. In the scriptures in which you so implicitly believe and which you so earnestly defend, is found the mandate addressed to all men: "Multiply and replenish the earth." It is believed that you have personally been derelict in this duty. Your friends, feeling that something may be forgiven you by assistance rendered to others who are carrying out the divine injunction, have striven to help you by preparing for you some instruments calculated for that purpose, as well as some other implements whose use we do not know and whose acquaintance we do not wish to make.

With these go the good wishes of your many friends in this office, who by close association with you, have learned your kindness of heart and generosity of nature. That these quali-ties will carry comfort and hope and cheer into many a sick room is the sincere hope and confident belief of us all

Dr. Philes returned his thanks in a few well-chosen words and promised not to use the tools on the donors any more than necessary.

> In addition to the social program arranged by the entertainment committees of Local Branches, Nos. 10 and 28, the delegates attended a Social Smoker given at Typographical Temple, Thur day night in their honor. Chairman E. J. Ratigan called the meeting to order and introduced Frank Morrison, secretary of the A. F. of L. who welcomed the delegates in his usual social and spicy manner. Short addresses were made by John Tasker of New York, W. L. Oustott of Chicago, Thos. Kinsella of St. Louis, Henry Dixon of Chicago, J. Torpev of Worcester, Mass., H. L. Bachler of Cincinnati, Thomas McCormick of Yonkers, J. J. Brophy of Boston, Dan Rice of Kansas City, Robert J. Brown of Buffalo, J. J. Martin of Philadelphia, W. McKnight of Philadelphia, R. The musical part of the program was furnished by Lenwood B. Taylor, Jos. Litz, Julius Backenheimer, Fred Plant, James Quigley, George Barnes, Charles McGowan, and Walter J. Spaulls. The Red Men's band composed of members of Idaho Tribe, serenaded the chairman and rendered several selections during the evening.

A particularly pleasing feature of the occasion was the presentation of a handsome gold medal by the local union to E. J. Ratigan. James L. Feeney presented the token in behalf of the union with a few complimentary remarks expressive of the high appreciation of Mr. Ratigan by his organiza-

Leaves of Absence Cases.

Responding to numerous inquiries concerning the fate of the claims of You Keep the Branch Bank temporary employees at the Government Printing Office for pay for unused leaves of absence, we are informed by Attorneys George A. and William B. King that the Court of Claims adjourned on Monday, the 10th inst., without handing down a decision in the leave cases. It was considerable of a disappointment to the attorneys who have followed the case so closely, and will no doubt cause some of the boys to look elsewhere, for the time being, for summer vacation money.

The Court will not reconvene until October next, when a decision may be expected. The case will without doubt be reargued, as the attorneys do not like to allow a case in which so many have an interest go up for determination on a cold and forgotten argument.

The delay must not be taken as a contrary, for it will allow strengthening account the case b t eaddition of new evidence discovered since the claim was briefed in the Barringer case.

14th and D S. E. Capacity 100,000 Barrels,

Public opinion goes a long ways towards the right way. That's why the National Capital Brewing Company's "DIAMOND" and "MUEN-CHENER" Beers have such enormous sale—because the public asks for hem and will have them.

The Laboring Man—~

—is quick to appreciate "a good thing" and to avail himself of it. That's the reason that "CHAMPAGNE" and "CULMBACHER LAGER" is so popular with all the labor organizations. Champagne Lager $1, Culmbacher $1.25 per Case of twenty-four bottles delivered. Write, or telephone 1293. Washington Brewery Co., Fourth and F.N.E. Phone 1293.
